

HARVARD vs. YALE

CROWD OF 40,000

Present at Football Game in the Stadium Today

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 25.—To cheer Harvard and Yale on to victory in their annual game of modernized turgid football, there streamed out to the great white stadium on the banks of the Charles today, more than 40,000 ardent followers of the most strenuous and most popular of intercollegiate sports. No championship, however mythical, hung on either goal-post, for the sharp claws of the Princeton tiger had secured whatever claim there was in such a trophy earlier in the season.

Yet realizing that both Harvard and Yale this year had developed two of the most powerful football machines on the eastern gridiron the football world concentrated the greater part of its attention to this afternoon's struggle in the stadium.

Clear skies greeted the host, a snapping northwester that had a touch of winter in it lent exhilaration and both sun and wind combined in assisting the Harvard management in bringing the rain soaked field back into the fit, best possible condition.

The Yale team spent a quiet night up the Charles at Auburndale while the Harvard players were removed still further away from scenes of excitement to the Vesper Country club at Lowell. The respective trainers, John J. Mack of Yale and "Doc" Donovan of Harvard, sent word during the forenoon that their charges were in fine shape and that none of them would have to be assisted in the stadium, as was intimated by the reports from the different camps a few days ago.

Some mathematical student estimated that the crowd had spent half a million dollars to see the game, that a third would come in automobiles and that among the floral decorations worn by the fair damsels were 300,000 violets and 5,000 crimson chrysanthemums, so that the color scheme against the white walls of the stadium was a striking display of the national colors.

Harvard Yale

Smith 1c 1c Avery

Witchcock 1c 1c Scully

Leslie 1c 1c Francis

Parmenter 1c 1c Ketcham

Fisher (captain) 1c 1c McDevitt

Storer 1c 1c Paul

Fulton 1c 1c Bonnell

Potter 1c 1c Howe (capt.)

Campbell 1c 1c Camp

Wendell 1c 1c Spaulding

Huntington 1c 1c Philbin

Officials: Referee, W. S. Langford of

Trinity; umpire, David L. Fultz of Brown; field judge, William Morrice of Pennsylvania; head linesman, J. H. Pondleton of Bowdoin. Time of game, 15-minute periods.

Both teams were prompt in running on the field, Harvard appearing at 1:50, followed five minutes later by the Blue team. The Harvard undergraduates cheered for Captain Howe. The Blues returned the compliment with cheers for Captain Fisher of Harvard.

Just before the teams lined up it was announced that Gardner would start at the quarterback for Harvard in place of Potter.

Yale won the toss and took the east side of the field, giving Harvard the west side.

The game started at 2 p. m.

EX-REP. DENNIS A. MURPHY
Is the calibre of a man we need in our city government.
Read what the weekly publication, PHYSICAL POLITICS, had to say about him:
"Fearless and courageous to the highest degree, Rep. Dennis A. Murphy of Lowell, the representative of the 15th Middlesex district, could always be depended upon to cast his vote as he conscientiously believed was for the best interests of the constituents whom he was elected to represent. His honesty and ability were beyond question and gained him the respect of all his associates whether they agreed with his views or not.
"As a member of the committee on public service he opposed all bills to increase the salaries of judges and bills providing for the pensioning of the judiciary. He contended that if the salaries of the judges were to be increased or if they were to be placed on a pension, the small-salaried public servants should also be taken care of in the same manner and until this was done he would oppose the bills in favor of the judges.
"On labor measures, Rep. Murphy proved himself a staunch friend of the working classes.
"If successful he promises a UNSELFISH ADMINISTRATION of CITY'S BUSINESS.

SPENCER GUILTY

Jury Convicted Him of Murder in the First Degree

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 25.—Dertrian Spencer, Springfield's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," was found guilty at 3:10 a. m. today of the murder in the first degree of Miss Martha B. Blackstone, a school teacher. Spencer, whose violent outbreaks have been unprecedented in Massachusetts judicial history, received the verdict without emotion.

None of his family was with him at the time. Spencer's young wife and his sister, who had been with him all evening, remained in an adjoining room at the request of the court officers, who feared an outbreak on the part of the prisoner. Mrs. Spencer almost collapsed when word of the verdict was brought to her, but she quickly revived and went into the courtroom again, where she greeted her husband calmly, conversed with him a few moments and went through the ordeal of waiting without any demonstration being made on the part of either husband or wife.

Despite the lateness of the hour, the courtroom was crowded and hundreds of persons waited outside but there was no excitement evidenced. The closing scene of the trial from the time the jury returned with the verdict until court adjourned took but a few moments. No motions or statements were made by counsel and no date was set for sentence, which in this state is death by electrocution.

Unmarked as the first hours of the trial were by an emotional display, there was an atmosphere of dramatic tension in the courtroom during the little more than five hours that the jury had the case under consideration. Shortly before 10 o'clock last night, after the state and the defense had completed their arguments, Judge Crosby of the superior court finished his charge and the jurors filed out. Judge Crosby awaited their return in an adjoining room. Early this morning the jury came in for instructions on three points. The first question they submitted was whether a man, if guilty of breaking and entering with intent of felony, was liable to life imprisonment or to a sentence of not less than ten years. To this the court answered that the sentence under those circumstances was life imprisonment, and that if the jurors were convinced that the accused had entered the house with intent to commit felony and had then killed Miss Blackstone he was guilty of murder in the first degree, whether previous intent to murder had or had not been shown. The court gave the legal definition of night in which the felony must be committed in order to come within the statutes, as a time falling between one hour after sunset and one hour before dawn. It must also be proved that the door or window through which the entrance was made must have been closed, although not necessarily locked, before the crime would be deemed breaking and entering. The next question was whether the jurors had the privilege of bringing in a verdict of murder in the first or second degree or acquittal by reason of insanity. The court informed them that it was their privilege to make the degree of murder as first or second degree or to announce that they had arrived at the conclusion that the prisoner was not guilty by reason of insanity. The third question concerned testimony regarding whether Spencer had entered the house in which the murder occurred through an open window or whether the window had been closed and he had opened it. The haste of the stenographers at this point in looking up this matter from the verbatim reports of the testimony of several witnesses and the running about of the messengers awake the sleepy courtroom. It took some time to gather all the testimony and the jury did not retire until 2:51.

Spencer, in the meantime, had been brought into court. With him were his wife, his sister and his pastor, Rev. Eugene Smith of Lebanon, Conn. Spencer showed no sign of emotion or anxiety. When the jurors filed out he was led from the room again.

Jurors Return

At three o'clock it was announced that the jurors were ready to return. Once again Spencer was led to his seat by his guards. This time he was unaccompanied.

As the jurors marched to their seats it was noticed that not one of them cast a glance in the prisoner's direction. Each one kept his eyes fixed straight ahead and the expression of all was serious. Spencer did not glance at them. He passed his hand repeatedly over his face and rubbed his eyes, the one characteristic display of nervousness that has been noticed during the trial.

During the customary roll call of the jury Spencer stood up but still did not gaze toward the men who were to decide his fate.

Clerk Callahan asked of the foreman of the jury, Lewis Spear, if a verdict had been reached. At the quiet, "Yes,"

Spencer looked up quickly and then averted his gaze. "The court asked what the verdict was, in a clear, firm tone foreman Spear announced: "Guilty of murder in the first degree."

Spencer did not change color or waver in the least. His eyes blinked steadily ahead. He did not seem to comprehend it, so simply had his fate been announced.

Notified by his guards that he might sit down, he resumed his seat. Some of the court attendants came up to shake his hand and offer their sympathy and he merely nodded. When his wife was brought to him he talked to her in an easy, self-controlled manner.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Repeats That He is Not a Candidate for President

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt yesterday, when asked regarding the report that he may again be a candidate for president, told a reporter that a statement might be made as follows:

"Col. Roosevelt finds it difficult to understand the comment in the newspapers that has followed upon his article regarding national laws and justice issues."

"He has said exactly the same thing many times before. He cannot see why it should be assumed that this article indicated that he is ready to take any personal part in the coming campaign."

"It can be stated that Col. Roosevelt has received many letters indicating the willingness of the writers to give him political support if such is desired."

"It can be stated that Col. Roosevelt today received a letter from a certain United States senator offering the full political support of the senator in case Col. Roosevelt should wish to be a candidate in the national campaign."

"Col. Roosevelt has replied to the senator that he earnestly hopes that the senator will not only refrain from any action looking to the nomination of Col. Roosevelt, but also will prevent his friends from taking any such steps."

"No comment will be made by Col. Roosevelt upon this announcement, which, he insisted, should be made in the third person. He would not name the senator to whom he referred."

"Some politicians, when told of the statement, said that they would not be surprised if Senator La Follette might have written such a letter, although he now has a political machine at work in an effort to wrest the republican nomination from President Taft."

"Among Col. Roosevelt's political visitors yesterday were ex-Congressman Charles E. Washburn, of Worcester, Mass.; Congressman Victor Berger, the socialist, and T. M. Osborne, the insurance democrat, formerly of Auburn, N. Y."

DIVORCE EVIL

SCORED BY JUDGE TAYLOR OF VERMONT

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 25.—The September term of Washington county court adjourned after being in session 73 days, and just before the proclamation was made Judge W. H. Taylor handed down decisions in 23 divorce cases, 22 being granted and one dismissed, that of Eva Odette vs. William J. Odette, in which the court said there was evidence enough, but he did not believe witnesses told the truth.

Judge Taylor rapped the so-called "divorce evil," and took occasion to point to the great increase in the number of petitions which, under the Vermont statute, were heard ex parte. Without the aid of a special investigator to inquire into both sides, the court was acquainted with only such evidence as appeared at the trial, often when both sides had agreed, after the contesting party withdrew.

He believed the responsibility to society rested on the attorneys, who brought the petitions to see that the court was not blinded by doubtful evidence or lack of evidence, and wrong done, and he considered the responsibility of the lawyer to the body politic greater than the interests of the parties themselves. Ten of the divorces were granted for desertion.

WILL GET MONEY

THAT HE GAVE GIRL TWENTY YEARS AGO

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—Twenty years ago Henry Kohler, then of Springfield, was one of the most unhappy men in Massachusetts. He is now one of the happiest men in Connecticut. At that time he was engaged to a young woman and the date of their wedding, he says, was rapidly approaching.

In order that they might have a nest egg with which to begin housekeeping, he gave her all his savings, week after week until quite a sum had been saved up and the day was at hand.

Then all of a sudden the bride-to-be disappeared. Search everywhere revealed nothing, and with her went Kohler's savings.

Yesterday he was informed that the nest egg would be returned to him. Then he told the story. Chief Cowles of the police department received a letter from Mrs. L. Penrose of 122 Tremont street, Chicago, telling him that she had in her possession some money belonging to Henry Kohler, who, she believed, lived in New Haven. Chief Cowles found Kohler at the Winchester Repeating Arms company, and he could hardly believe the story told by the chief.

The money will be returned shortly and with it is expected to come some explanation why the bride-to-be left so suddenly.

SKETCHES OF CANDIDATES

READ THE RECORDS

Who They Are Who Appeal to the Public for Election

The Sun presents today brief sketches of all the candidates on the ballot. Some of the sketches are particularly brief, through no fault of the Sun, as a letter was sent to each one asking him to send in some facts concerning himself. The candidates were not asked what taxes they paid, nor how they voted on the charter. Some of them did not respond to the Sun's request, and hence the curtailed reference to them. Care has been taken to have the sketches accurate and as far as possible fair to all concerned, in order that the voters may be assisted in selecting the best candidates.

Michael A. Lee
Candidate For ALDERMAN

TO THE VOTERS OF LOWELL

In the recent campaign for the adoption of the new charter I went finally on record in favor of the new system. My action was criticized by some of the labor element who were opposed to its adoption. I respectfully place my candidacy before the people for their consideration next Tuesday. I have consistently argued for the charter since the start, firmly believing that through its instrumentality the city of Lowell will derive far greater benefits than under the old system. I believe also that the man who is in sympathy with the system can do better work than he who is, or has been, opposed to it.

MICHAEL A. LEE,
92 Bartlett St.

Chelmsford, but came to Lowell in childhood and was educated in the local schools. Upon completing his studies in England he came to Lowell with his father and shortly became a member of the well known firm of James F. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers. A few years later he withdrew from the firm and entered Boston University, from which he was admitted to practice nine years ago. He is director of Lowell lodge of Moose, chancellor of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus; counsel for Lowell Nest of Owls and a member of the board of trade, Division 1, A. O. U. BOY FOUND GUILTY

He Was Charged With Assault With Dangerous Weapon

Hollis W. Chapman, aged 15 years, and residing at Dunstable, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in the juvenile session of the police court yesterday on a complaint charging him with assault with a dangerous weapon, it being alleged that he fired a charge of shot at an automobile driven by Charles Tully. During the course of the testimony it was brought out that there is a sort of a feud between the Chapmans and the Tullys. The court after considering the evidence found the defendant guilty and placed him in the hands of the probation officer.

Mr. Tully transports children to and from school in his automobile, he being hired by the town authorities. Last Friday afternoon, it is alleged, that while he was driving through one of the roads in the vicinity of a brook a gun was discharged and about a dozen shots perforated the side of his auto. He made an investigation of the surrounding premises and located Chapman who, he says, admitted that he had fired a shot, but said he was aiming at a shell in the brook.

The police of the town were notified and the arrest of Chapman followed. Mr. Tully, while on the stand, said that there was a bitter feeling on the part of the Chapmans and when the defense was put on it was said that Mr. Tully had a personal feeling against the boy as well as the parents.

Mr. Tully claimed that the shooting was deliberate on the part of Chapman, while on the other hand Chapman stuck to the story that he was shooting at a shell in the brook and had no intention of harming Mr. Tully.

Several witnesses for the government intimated that the Chapman boy had been expelled from school, but Chapman in explaining the incident said he was not expelled from school but was told that he would have to see the head school committee before returning. He said some boys had been placing cartridges in the furnace in the basement for the purpose of having some fun when they went out and on one occasion he was in the basement with several boys and that the boys took turns in throwing water into the fire causing the ashes to fly out through the door accompanied by a volume of smoke. He denied throwing water in the furnace but said he had opened the door to see if the water had extinguished the fire.

Judge Hadley in summing up the evidence said that he felt the boy intended to shoot Mr. Tully, but owing to his age and inexperience as it might prove a lesson, he ordered him placed on probation for one year.

STANLEY COMMITTEE WILL SUBPOENA THE REV. F. T. GATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The Rev. Frederick T. Gates, for a long time in charge of the charitable work of John D. Rockefeller, will be subpoenaed to appear before the Stanley committee that is conducting the inquiry into the charges that he has so far remained silent.

concerning the charges made by the Merritt Bros. that he aided the oil magnate in swindling the Merritts out of railroad property worth more than $6,000,000. Mr. Rockefeller has issued a statement denying the charges, but Mr. Gates has so far remained silent.

TWO OCEAN LINERS CONVEYING KING AND QUEEN OF ENGLAND TO INDIA

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Two new P. and O. liners commanded to convey King and Queen George and Queen Mary and their immediate suite are aboard the Medina, which was entirely refitted for the purpose. The rest of the party are suit and check collar that set off becomingly a dainty little pipe. But all these were redeemed by his fine bowling. On the next alley could be seen a red-headed man in shirt-sleeves drawing a match across the leg of his foreman pants to light a well-browned Missouri meerschaum. Another, an elderly, neatly dressed gentleman with a more robust physique, rolled the balls down the alleys in such a methodical manner that one could not help imagining that he was executing only under the doctor's orders. A huge rail, attired in a long coat, long doublet and of course, long trousers, at another alley, was scolding daylight out of the pinboy by his contortions before and sizzling speed in delivering the ball.

Perplexing it would be to assign a reason for the varying results of the several styles of delivery. A slow ball cast with but little force would send down the alley and floor the entire ten pins. A "cannon ball" delivery would be made and there could be overturned possibly only two pins. Again, two balls might be rolled with the bowling of but one or two pins, while the third sphere cast would send the other eight or nine pins flying in every direction; or, again, would overturn none. At another time the first ball would overturn nine, there would be an exclamation of "Now for a spare," the second ball would miss by a breeze, and the third, cast expertly, with malice aforethought, roll into the chute. Sequel: Exclamations unprintable.

The various movements and complex attitudes of the men while bowling next caught my eye. One bowler, picking out a ball, would advance to the firing line and looking upward aim deliver it with a long swinging sweep. Another would cast the wooden sphere with a short, quick snap of the forearm that, though with little power behind it, would send the missile spinning into the pins with crashing force. A third man would try for numerous knockdowns with a slow and more accurately directed ball. The position unconsciously taken by the bowlers less at the moment of delivering the ball appeared to me sometimes amusing and sometimes graceful. The greater portion of the men on casting the ball would slide forward with the left leg extended and the right trailing. In doing this some would twist the right knee outward and some would twist it inward; in either position they would look like human jackknives. Others on the delivery would with knees bent into a squat slide forward on both feet and coming to a stop, shoot into an upright position, not unlike a Jack-in-the-box. Others, again, would slide forward with legs spread apart and knees slightly bent, just like schoolboys sliding on ice yet fearful of sustaining falls. Long slides were more favored than short ones. Why this is difficult to explain, but possibly the reason may be found in the desire to imitate the movements of the more skillful exponents of this sport. Once in a while, however, there would appear a bowler of unusual grace. Everybody has seen statues which are replicas of that of "The Discus thrower." Well, it might not be out of place to compare the position taken by one young bowler while at the moment of delivering a ball, when I saw, to that attitude assumed by the Grecian athlete who was immortalized by the genius of Phidias. My friend, the bowler, however, had not been handicapped on one respect by clothes. With this handicap removed it would be not a little interesting to compare the relative gracefulness of the living bowler with that of the ancient discus thrower. If, of course, consent could be obtained from the Watch and Ward Society.

The facial expression and the temperament of the different men was well worth noting. One man with a demeanor as grave as the proverbial judge would advance, take up the ball coming to hand and after making a "parade" would resume his seat and sit down and silently watch the movements of his adversary. A judicial temperament surely was exhibited by that gentleman. His opponent, however, was made on a different pattern. He after spending a minute or two in selecting a ball, would advance to the line, sight the ball in his outstretched arm like a quiver, draw his arm back suddenly, and sliding forward, send the ball hurtling down the alley. On that ball his attention would be riveted and he would remain almost a minute with his body stretched nearly parallel with the floor. Should heavy exertion among the pins be done by the sphere he would return to the bench with a face wreathed in expansive smiles; but, if the exertion were light, oh, my! The restless man, too, was to be seen. This gentleman would be ready for action almost before the pinboy could begin "settling up." Nervously swinging his arm from side to side and violently muttering a cigar, he would hurl the ball down the alley the instant the pins were placed, with such quickness that his shot would almost catch the jumping pinboy at the heels. Then there was the fairly would during his spinning of a funny yarn abroad, suspended the rectal to take his turn at the alley. Possibly, the ball would bound into the chute; if so he would exclaim, "May the devil fly away with him!" and, replying to a friendly "Thank you," would say, "You, too, Tom."

As the ball was warm and the seat comfortable, it was not a severe while prior a feeling of drowsiness crept over me; whereupon I began to nod. Then I noticed, the "pins" on an after temporarily unoccupied, slowly began to take on the appearance of miniature men. Soon I could hear their voices. "Sirree," remarked one of these small sentry to a hard-faced companion, "what's the trouble between you and that bald-headed, clean shaven chap named Sphere who comes down to our end of the alley in so strenuous a manner very frequently each evening?" "Well, old son," was the reply, "that wooden-head to whom you refer had been picking, or jumping on me for weeks. Every time he came down the alley he would go out of his way to give me a pucker in the nose. At last I got 'het up' over this treatment, it being the more exasperating through coming from a fellow member of the International Order of Bowditch, Hickories, and I retaliated on Sphere every time he bumped me by landing with all my weight upon his bald pate. Consequently, we are not on speaking terms." "Chip," said another of these little men, "what makes you so down in the mouth tonight?" "Well," replied Chip, "why shouldn't I feel blue. Here I am in this noisy, nerve-racking hall when I planned to be in a comfortable and agreeable parlour over in Contraltville this Wednesday evening. It's a shame, that's what it is, for the boss to keep me working this of all nights in the week." And Chip's much-battered face lengthened another inch. Another of these strange creatures I heard denouncing and threatening one of the pinboys in no uncertain words: "You cross-eyed, lanky-legged jack-ass," he exclaimed, "if you don't put me in my proper position in the rear line next set-up I'll land on your shins with force enough to break these skinny bones in them, you lazy little villain." "Ah, me," soliloquized an ancient worthy in the center of this uninviting group, "the different are these days from those distant ones when I left the lumber mill and engaged in this profession. What a jolly crew were those old companions; what hilarious times did we enjoy; how honest, how fearless, how brotherly they were, and what a look at the change. Ah, my, ah, my." "Cheer up, old gentleman," tactlessly remarked a disrespectful shaver beside him, "cheer up, you'll soon enjoy a rest, a brief one—in the woodpile. Then—"

At this moment a great cheer resounded throughout the hall, resulting from the winning of a keenly contested match, and I awoke with a start. The clock pointed to 11:30.

CHAPLAIN FARRAR

Has Been Sent Into Exile by King

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Rev. F. Percival Farrar, whose appointment as private chaplain to the king and queen was recently canceled, has left England. No warrant was issued for him, as there was no desire to air the unprintable charges made and proved against the younger son of Dean Farrar. He was merely brought to London by a detective from Scotland Yard and was told that he must leave England within twenty-four hours. Farrar was at one time a member of George W. Child's family and worked as reporter on the Philadelphia Ledger. While there he met Miss Nora Davis, a sister of Richard Harding Davis, and the friendship formed that resulted in their marriage last summer. He preached the last sermon heard by King Edward VII.

LOSS IS $10,000

Fire in Printing Office at Pawtucket

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 25.—Fire broke out last night in the job printing office of the Parker Lather company on Main street. Two alarms were sounded and the fire was extinguished in about an hour with an estimated total damage of $10,000, covered by insurance.

The building was not damaged seriously, but the Parker Lather company was a heavy loser, and others who suffered principally from water were Kennedy, Gough & Murray, grocers; E. P. Gately & Co., dry goods and clothing; the Flexible Veneer company and several labor unions, who had rooms on the second and third floors. On the third floor is the hall of the Pawtucket Association of Stationary Engineers, and they were heavy losers.

The origin of the fire is not known. In the early stages of the fire a six-inch hydrant burst, throwing up a large section of the sidewalk and adding to the excitement.

CHASED BY BULL

MAN HAS ENTERED SUIT FOR DAMAGES

BROCKTON, Nov. 25.—Steve Krane-zanas of Montello told his tale of woe to a superior court jury yesterday, recounting how Mike Belkus' bull charged him on July 12, 1910, hunting him about so much that he says he was ill for two weeks.

Steve said he wanted $500 damages. He explained that he was in the basement of his home, when the cellar door was bunted open with a bang. Steve rushed into the yard, he said, and there found the bull, a big, black and white one, running wild.

At that particular moment, Steve added, the bull was practicing on the wire fence surrounding a henyard, but when his bullship spotted Steve, the latter, armed with a big club, he (the bull) turned and chased Steve, calculating him with his horns.

Then, says Steve, followed a scene something like the pictures of the Spanish bullfights, with Steve as co-chant and the bull militant and finally triumphant. The bull got Steve against the house and might have killed him had not neighbors come to his rescue.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Johnny Coulon, claimant of the world's bantamweight title, who has been out of the ring for several months, is ready to don the mitts again and meet all comers. The little whirlwind is particularly anxious to muss up the championship aspirations of Frankie Burns, so would like nothing better than a crack at the Jersey City boy. Coulon is ranked by experts as the best boy of his weight in the country.

HOTEL KEEPER FINED

He Was Charged With Illegal Sale of Liquor

Hugh Ferguson, licensee and proprietor of the St. James hotel in Middlesex street, was fined $50 by Judge Hadley in police court this morning, after finding him guilty of the illegal sale of liquor. According to the testimony offered by two supernumeraries of the police department, they visited the hotel on Sunday, Oct. 22nd, and were served liquor without first ordering food. Lawyer Thomas J. Enright appeared for the defendant and the government's case was conducted by Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department.

The first witness for the government was William G. Lee, a supernumerary in the police department. In answer to questions asked by Supt. Welch, the witness said he visited the St. James hotel at about 1 o'clock on Sunday, Oct. 22. Charles C. Wallace, also a supernumerary, was with Officer Lee. The witness said: "When we reached the hotel we entered the dining room and I ordered a bottle of ginger beer and a bottle of green label lager beer. We gave no other order. When the waiter got our order he brought me a plate of beans and placed a plate of soup in front of Officer Lee. We did not order any food. I paid 20 cents to the waiter for the drinks. There were about a dozen or fifteen people in the room at the time."

Cross examined by Lawyer Enright, the witness answered: "I was appointed a member of the police department in May of this year. I am not doing regular police duty. I work in the mill except when called upon to do special work."

"I reported at the police station at 10 o'clock on the morning in question and left about 10:20 o'clock. I was instructed to go out and visit hotels, and we were given money with which to make purchases in order to secure evidence of illegal sales."

"After leaving the police station we went first to the Park hotel, where I ordered a bottle of beer and tasted it. Officer Wallace also ordered beer and tasted it."

"We then visited the Merrimack house, where we had beer. Each of us tasted the beer. We then went to the St. James hotel."

"Were the beans hot?" the witness was asked.

"I don't know," was the answer.

"You didn't taste them?"

"No, I wouldn't take a chance on them."

Officer Wallace, also a supernumerary, was the next witness called, and his testimony was in corroboration of that offered by Officer Lee.

The defense

Hugh Ferguson, proprietor of the St. James hotel and defendant in the case, testified that he resides in the hotel and was around the premises all day Sunday, October 22. He spent the greater part of the day near the door in order to prevent intoxicated or objectionable persons from frequenting the premises. Witness said that his attention had been called to the two officers as they left the place, one of his clerks telling him that the men were supernumeraries.

Mr. Ferguson testified that he had warned his clerks not to serve liquor to minors or intoxicated persons or to people who did not first call for food. He further said that no beans had ever been served in that dining-room on Sundays since he had been conducting the hotel. As for the bottle of ginger ale which Officer Lee said he ordered and received, Mr. Ferguson said that ginger ale was served by the glass and not by the bottle and that the price for a bottle was five and not ten cents.

Michael R. Haggerty, a waiter at the hotel, said that on the day of the alleged illegal sale the officers entered the dining room and Mr. Lee ordered a bottle of beer. Witness said he walked away and refused to serve the drinks. The two men then walked out. After they left the place he said he told Mr. Ferguson that he thought they were supernumeraries. Questioned by the court as to why he thought they were supernumeraries the witness said that he was suspicious owing to the manner in which they acted. He further said that neither of the men was served with either food or drink.

Witness said that he had been instructed not to serve drink to any person who did not first ask for food.

"If a person came in and ordered a glass of beer and a bottled dinner, calling for the beer first, wouldn't you serve that man?" asked Judge Hadley.

"No sir."

"Because a person has got to order food first."

"Is that the way you do business there?"

"Those are my orders."

Sharon Testifies

Edmund Sharon, also a waiter at the St. James hotel, said he did not remember seeing either Officers Lee or Wallace at the hotel on the 22d of October. If he served them on that day he could not recall it. He corroborated the testimony of the preceding witnesses that there were no beans served at the hotel and that ginger ale is served in glasses and not by the bottle.

John McArthur, assistant cook, testified that beans were not served at the hotel on Sunday, October 22. He said that the food that is served in the dining-rooms passes through his hands.

Ferdinand Bachard, who drives a bottling team, was called and testified that he supplied the St. James hotel with ginger ale and that all of the bottles were large ones, known as 16 ounce bottles.

Officer Wallace was recalled and said he was positive that Sharon was the man who served him and Officer Lee, and also that Sharon placed a plate of beans before Officer Lee.

Officer Lee upon being recalled said that he was drinking a small bottle of ginger beer but did not taste the contents. A plate of beans was placed in front of him. He said the beans were black and looked as though they were old.

Lawyer Enright made a brief argument after which the court found Mr. Ferguson guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $50. He appealed, and was held under $300 bonds for the superior court.

Smashed in a Door

Michael J. Turner was arrested in Webster street about 11:30 o'clock last night and sent to the police station where he was booked for drunkenness.

The arresting officer said that the man was under the influence of liquor and when he arrived on the scene he said Turner was throwing bricks through the door of the boarding house. Turner said that there was a drunken racket in one of the rooms in the building and he was unable to sleep and when he remonstrated with the people who were raising the disturbance he was assaulted. Turner was sentenced to four months in jail.

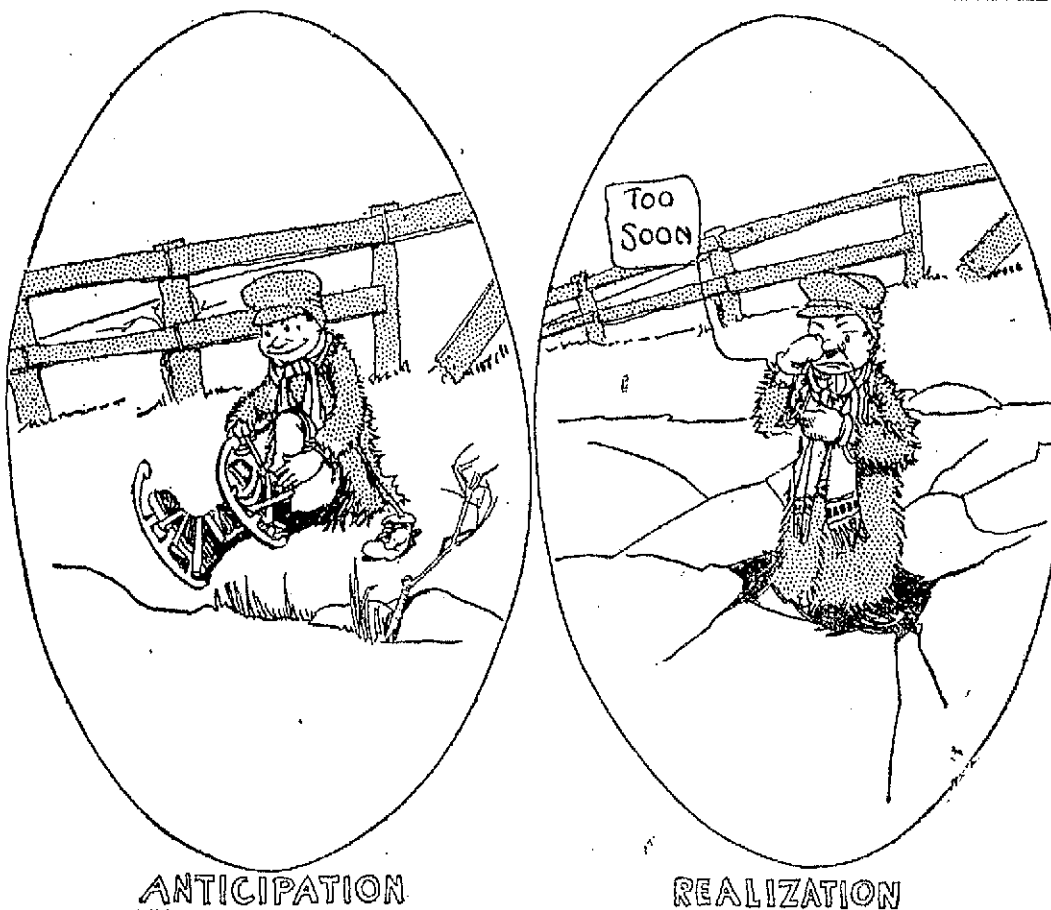

Drunken Offenders

Ellen Hennessy said she wasn't drunk but supposed she might as well plead guilty. Patrolman Cossette testified that the woman entered a store in Moody street last night about nine o'clock and the woman who conducted the store being unable to get her out of the place sent for the police officer. Ellen was given a sentence of four months in jail.

William J. O'Brien was sentenced to four months in jail. William Clements was fined $5, there were six first offenders who were fined $2 each and seven simple drunks were released.

William Gillis who was sentenced to the farm and appealed, appeared in court this morning and withdrew his appeal.

A DARING HOLD-UP

Man Robbed and House Was Set on Fire

One of the boldest holdups in the history of this city was committed early this morning in Pawtucketville, when Louis E. Mercier, according to his own story, was bound and gagged in his own house by two unknown men who robbed him of $32 and set the house on fire. Mercier, however, managed to unbolt the door with his chin and roll out as far as the next neighbor's house and there give the alarm. The quick response of the firemen of Engine 5, who had been called by telephone, saved the building from entire destruction, but three rooms were entirely gutted and the damage is quite heavy.

Mr. Louis E. Mercier, who conducts a potato chip factory at 141 East Meadow road, called at the police station this morning and related the following story: "I went to Lawrence yesterday, as it is my custom every Friday, and returned on the last car from the down-river city. In company with my neighbor, Mr. Albert St. Denis, I boarded the 11:45 o'clock electric for Moody street, arriving home at about 12 o'clock. When I entered my house my two dogs, one of which is a big mastiff animal, were rather noisy. I ordered them to lie down and then I went to the stable to feed my horse. When I returned I heard a noise in the front room and, taking a lamp, I went into the apartment to see what the trouble was. I had no more than reached the porch when I was struck in the back and thrown to the floor, and there stood two men before me. One of them was very robust, weighing about 190 pounds. The other I could not distinguish. The two men jumped on me, tied my hands behind my back and my legs firmly and gagged me. They went through my pockets and robbed me of $32 and before they left one stabbed me in the region of the heart. The knife went through my coat and vest and through a memorandum book in my vest pocket

"I tried to yell for help, but my efforts were fruitless on account of the gag over my mouth. Then I pulled as far as the kitchen door which was bolted, and raising myself on my knees, I managed after a lot of work to push the bolt with my chin. I then pushed the door open with my head and rolled on the hard ground as far as my neighbor's house, where the ropes and gag were removed."

Neighbor Saw Flames

"My neighbor, Mr. St. Denis then saw the flames coming out of my house and he immediately went to another neighbor's, Mr. J. A. Perron, and telephoned to Engine 5 of Mammoth road. I am not sure whether the fire was set by the two men, or whether it started when I dropped my lamp when I was struck."

When questioned about his dogs as to where they were and what they were doing during the scuffle, Mr. Mercier answered that his dogs were very obedient and when they were told to lie down, they did and remained there. He also stated there is a mortgage of $500 on his house held by the Co-operative bank.

Mrs. St. Denis, when interviewed by a Sun reporter this morning said that at nine o'clock last night she heard a noise around the Mercier house and also heard the dogs barking. The next she knew of the affair is that at about 2:15 o'clock this morning she was awakened by a soft ring at the front door. She went to the door and when she opened it, Mr. Mercier fell headlong in the hallway. He was bound and gagged and senseless. Ten minutes later he revived and told her practically the same story he told the police. The woman untied the ropes while her husband pulled the gag away

WANT MORE PAY

School Janitors Are Out For a Raise

And now the school janitors it would appear following the example of the police are out for an increase of pay and it is said will put the matter up to the members of the school board at their meeting on Monday evening, the eve of the caucuses, nearly all of the members of the board being candidates for reelection under the new charter. The members of the school board would like to have the matter put over until the next city government but, from what reports state the janitors insist that they must declare themselves before the caucuses. Tuesday is the regular meeting night of the board but on account of the caucuses it was decided to hold the meeting on some other night. Some of the members favored Wednesday for the meeting but again it is understood the janitors interposed with the result that the meeting will be held on Monday evening. The janitors want an increase of 25 cents per day. It is alleged that the janitors will work against every member of the school board who votes against the increase.

The pay of the janitors at present ranges from $2.15 per day to $2.75 per day. For six months they receive pay for seven days per week and the other six for six days per week. Some get extra pay for nightwork. Without going into the merits of the janitors' claim for an increase, The Sun would say as it has said in reference to the demand of the police officers for higher wages, that this matter should be left to the school board to be decided under the new charter. It remains to be seen whether the school board will bow to the dictation of the janitors in this matter. There are about eighty janitors in the city.

A LOVING CUP

Presented to Thomas McNamee by Friends

Mr. Thomas McNamee, the genial manager of the "Hamilton Restaurant," for 12 years, and known to hundreds of patrons as just plain "Tom," has severed his connection with the establishment, to accept a lucrative position elsewhere. Just to show their appreciation of Mr. McNamee's many good qualities, the employees at the restaurant and a few friends, subscribed a substantial amount, and presented Mr. McNamee with a handsome loving cup, 18 inches in height. Mr. McNamee responded, feelingly expressing his thanks for the beautiful gift.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS

A very pleasant gathering was held at the home of Mr. Harry Lyons, on Wednesday evening at 86 Washington street, where he entertained a party of his friends. During the evening games were enjoyed and a fine musical program was carried out, which included: vocal selections by the "Jolly Seven," Peter Quinn, Joseph Quinn, Ambrose Reilly, Thomas W. Baxter, Marial Harrington, Harry Lyons and Thomas J. Baxter; readings, Misses Lawless and Connelly; piano solos, Misses Gertrude Reardon, Florence Lyons and Gertrude Conroy. Refreshments were served and the party dispersed at a seasonable hour, all thanking the host for an exceptionally good time.

Over-Worked Girls

Read What This Girl Says:

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sickly for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss Cecilia M. Bauer, 1181 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

THIS GIRL SAYS IT IS WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND: Chicago, Ill.—"Your Compound cured all my troubles and I am feeling strong and happy and able to work now. Wherever I go I shall praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I think it is woman's best friend. I have told all my friends the good it has done me."—Miss Maggie Isbauer, 2418 So. Whipple Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Lorimer, Iowa—"I had a heavy cold in the spring and got all run down and was irregular. I had no strength and had bearing down pains in my sides and back, and was very nervous and excitable. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am all right again, and stronger than before."—Miss I. E. Williams, Lorimer, Iowa.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there is lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

The testimonials which are constantly being published in the Pinkham advertisements are guaranteed to be absolutely genuine, honest, and given without reward in any way whatever.

A LARGE CONTRACT Was Awarded to the Massachusetts Mills

A contract for 1,000,000 yards of uniform drab cloth for Uncle Sam's boys has been awarded the Massachusetts Mills of this city. The bids were opened at Philadelphia this week and the Lowell concern was awarded the contract.

This is the second big contract for the uniform drab that the Massachusetts Mills have received from the United States government. The last contract was divided between the Massachusetts and one other mill, but in this instance the Massachusetts gets the full contract.

There are but few mills in a position to take an order of this kind and the work done by the Massachusetts Mills on the last contract was said to be exceptionally satisfactory, a fact that may have had considerable to do with the present award.

TO HAVE NEW TRIAL

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 25.—Harry Wilson of Digby, convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged, is to have a new trial. The full bench of the supreme court so ruled today. The case came before the court on exceptions, claiming that the jury should have been further instructed by the trial judge as to what could constitute a charge of manslaughter.

and left the room without any agitation being discovered in his manner. The jurors were taken to the hotel rooms still under guard and court adjourned without any motion or statement being made by counsel or any date for sentence being set by Judge Crosby.

Spencer's Crime

The crime for which Bertram G. Spencer was found guilty today was the murder of Miss Martha Blackstone by shooting on the night of March 21, 1910. On that evening Miss Blackstone, who was a schoolteacher of this city, was visiting at the home of Mrs. Sarah Dow and with Mrs. Dow and her two daughters, Misses Lucy J. and Harriet, was putting together a picture puzzle when a masked man with a leveled revolver walked into the room and demanded money. The women screamed and started to run. The masked figure demanded of them to stop and as the women did not heed he discovered his revolver, one shot entering Miss Blackstone's heart and the other entering Miss Harriet Dow's head, causing a fracture of the skull, from which she has since recovered. The burglar then fled, leaving no clew behind him.

The crime came as a climax to a series of cold robberies that had terrorized Springfield for nearly two years. Always there was the story of a masked man with a leveled revolver. Sometimes in a pleasant voice, if he met with no opposition, he would sit down and chat with the victims in a robbing. At the slightest sign of fear or resistance, however, he would flourish his revolver and threaten to shoot.

In almost every instance the houses selected for robbery were those where there were no men folks at home and it was believed that the crimes had all been planned with singular boldness and care.

The shooting of the two defenseless women in the night of March 21, 1910, aroused the whole city. The police could get no clew. The city, Governor Draper and a committee of private citizens offered rewards for the apprehension of the murderer, who was believed to be responsible for all the long list of robberies. It was not until a month later, however, that a private detective came into possession of a letter that the mysterious robber lost and was found on the lawn of A. J. Blair, whose house was one of the last to be robbed before the Dow home. On this letter were the initials "B. G. S." Inside were the pictures of an elderly woman and a young woman. Oddly enough the only name in the city directory with the initials contained on the letter was that of Bertram G. Spencer. He was a highly respected, well-working clerk in a meat store. With a young wife and baby, he had lived to all appearances, an ideal home life. He had no bad habits, so far as known, and was popular with his friends, who said his only bad trait was a quick temper. It was learned that he was home every night at 8 o'clock. It was a significant fact that he was in the habit of leaving the house about seven o'clock, presumably to go on shopping trips and it was between 7 and 8 o'clock at night that most of the robberies occurred. The pictures in the letter were identified as those of Spencer's mother and wife. He was then arrested at his place of employment and to the surprise of the police confessed to the shooting of Miss Blackstone and to a long list of burglaries.

A quantity of stolen articles, with two black cloth masks and a revolver were found in the young man's home. Much of the property was identified by the owners and the revelations of Spencer's double life astounded the city.

Spencer's family at once claimed that he was insane. Some of his ancestors had died insane and his bringing of the property was cited as a proof. He was, however, found guilty.

TENDERED TO MISS HELEN O'CONNELL LAST EVENING

Miss Helen O'Connell of Belvidere was the recipient of a beautiful linen shower last evening at the home of Miss Mary Kling in Andover street. Miss O'Connell is to be married next Tuesday to Mr. William Hogan, formerly employed at The Sun office but now clerk at the Hotel Trafalgar in Boston.

THEATRE VOYONS

Tonight will be the last of the showing of The Fisherman of Bay of Biscay at the Theatre Voyons, and to those who are interested in this series of motion pictures photographed in Ireland it should appeal most strongly. Tomorrow a pleasing program will be given featuring An Aeroplane Element, a Vitaphone triumph. On Monday one of the features will be the first of the Vitaphone western pictures made in the far west and with a cast which includes Eagle Eye, a full blooded Indian, Cain and Abel, a biblical reproduction and a most interesting Lulu complete a well balanced program.

FUNERALS

LEACH.—The funeral services of Viola M. Leach were held Wednesday afternoon at her home at 1 Cortes street, Boston, and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Charles Gray spoke in a most beautiful manner, telling of her loving disposition and her wonderful capacity for making friends.

On all sides was apparent the sorrow for the deceased and sympathy for the bereaved mother. There was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes including the following: Two large pillars from father and mother; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Cheney, Albany, Vermont; chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. McGilroy of Haverhill, Vt.; carnations, Mrs. Forest; carnations, Victoria Martin; roses and chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Mordough; carnations, A. H. Cowan; spray of chrysanthemums, Mrs. Strong, Mrs. Tuell, Mr. and Mrs. John Charney, Mrs. Cutting and Florence of Lowell; carnations, Viola Webber; wreath white roses, J. F. Brooks; spray pinks, Miss LaCroix, also one from A. H. Cowan; beautiful wreath, Rutland Sanatorium; spray roses, Mr. and Mrs. Howard of Lowell; white roses, Mr. and Mrs. Sack of Cambridge; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, Lowell; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lowley, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rathbun and Mr. F. Smith, Rutland; spray of roses, Dorothy Black; chrysanthemums, Alice Dow; roses, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lowley; spray of lavender and white chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, Cambridge. The arrangements were under the direction of Undertaker Eastman and burial was at Forest Hills cemetery.

LORD.—The funeral of May Lord took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her home, 117 Willis street, Rev. Asa R. Ditts officiating. The bearers were Messrs. John Nudd, William Fowler, Matthew Powers and George Leach. There were many beautiful floral tributes including the following: Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lord; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Botwick and family; spray, Alice Gray; spray, Mr. Edward Powers; basket, Mr. and Mrs. Powers; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Gouillard; spray, Mrs. McBride. Burial was in the Westland cemetery in charge of Undertaker John A. Weinbeck.

LEAHEY.—At that was mortal of the late Little Leahey was tenderly consigned to his final resting place in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery this morning in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends, who by their presence gave evidence of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The funeral departed from the home of Mrs. William Pearson, 126 London street, at eight o'clock, and proceeded to the church of the Immaculate Conception, where at nine o'clock the funeral high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe, O. M. I., pastor of the church. The choir under the direction of Mr. Chas. P. Smith, rendered the Gregorian chant and the organist, Mrs. Thelma Walker, played the funeral march from Chopin. At the offertory Mrs. Walker rendered "Domine Jesu Christe" and after the elevation Miss Elizabeth McKiernan sang "O Mortui Passiones" and as the remains were being taken from the church the choir rendered "De Profundis" solos being sustained by Mr. Charles P. Smith. After the services the funeral procession wound its way to the Catholic cemetery, where the body was tenderly laid to rest.

Among the floral offerings were the following: A beautiful pillow of roses, with inscription "Lulu"; a large wreath and a mammoth crescent on base with large white dove surrounded on crescent of pinks, roses, lilies, ferns, chrysanthemums and violets with ribbon inscribed "Shonables"; from the weaving department of the Prescott mills; mammoth spray of carnations, Mrs. Sophia Pearson and family; spray of yellow chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pearson; spray of roses and chrysanthemums with ribbon inscribed "At Rest"; sympathy of Miss Anne Quinn; spray of white roses, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quinn; large spray of yellow chrysanthemums, Miss Nellie Kelley.

The casket was borne by the following: Mr. William Pearson, Mr. Charles Pearson, Mr. Alfred Pearson, Mr. Peter Quinn, Mr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, Mr. Thomas Hurt, who also acted as ushers at the home and church. Present at the funeral were relatives and friends from Boston, Lawrence, Cambridge and Goshen, Vt. The funeral arrangements

Here, Girls, Is the Venetian Twist

The Latest Thing In Hairdressing Evolved
By Parisian Coiffeurs

PSYCHE KNOT AND TWIN TWIST.

A TRIPLE COIL EFFECT.

Girls, don't be reckless and throw away all your puff, rats and artificial hair and depend upon your own locks for modish hairdressing, for you won't be able to accomplish it unless Dame Nature has been liberal in her gifts. Much has been said and more written about the return of the natural way of arranging the hair, and there is much truth in the statement as far as the downfall of the awful structures of puffs and braids that last year were so much in evidence is concerned. These very common and ugly edifices are no longer considered good coiffure forms, but a famous coiffure artist has this to say of the new styles: "If women have not enough hair to set off the head they should and will employ curls and braids. So there will be much false hair worn this winter. The head will be flat in effect, but that does not mean that one must not have touches of hair to make the picture a rich one."

Hair is being dressed lower on the neck, and the curls are becoming fewer and smaller in number. Quite the smartest thing in modish hairdressing is the Venetian twist, an arrangement of three twists placed low across the back of the head. These twists are unlike their predecessors, the Dutch knots, in that they are a trinity rather than two knots wound around to conceal the curls entirely.

To make them the hair is divided into small strands and rolled rather tight. These rolls are wound around in perfect order to form the knot, one in the center of the back and one at one side. The success of the knot depends upon the uniformity of their size. The illustration shows this Venetian coil in several phases and the new Psyche knot, which is a great favorite with women who have the Grecian profile.

The front hair this season is cut to fall in the softest of rings, not at the side, but over the forehead. At the sides it falls in invisible waves over the ears, and when the coil arrangement is not affected it is caught at the back with a chignon of curls. It looks tremendously simple, this coiffure, but it takes a master hand to make the mass neat and natural looking.

Nearly every one is wearing a little fringe or bang, as just mentioned, and those who have not their own hair cut are using the false pieces across the forehead.

With hats the deception is fine, but otherwise such a thing is generally too stiff and too shiny and remains in curl too well in wet weather to pass muster as real. There never was a prettier way of dressing the hair than with a moderate amount of soft puffs, and it is a pity the style has gone out. The shower of curls in the back is becoming, but the fact that coiffeurs are frowning on it as having been in vogue too long means that it soon will take a back seat. The curls worn near the nape of the neck are smaller and not nearly so neat as those arranged higher up on the head.

For evening nothing is worn in the hair if one wishes to be very elegant and modish. So the galon and aigrets and all the decoration we've been seeing the past five years will vanish. Not even plumes or flowers are to be seen. At least so said the school of coiffeurs after their recent convulse. These meetings take place in Paris twice a year, in March and September, and last two hours every evening—Sunday not excepted—for a fortnight.

Time For Gift Work

IT is not a bit too soon to begin making your Christmas gifts, the little personal offerings that one makes by hand.

In the art departments of the big shops there is a surprising variety of attractive stamped and made up trifles that require only a little handwork to convert them into suitable gifts. The present is a good time to make a wise choice of these.

There are two items included under the fancy work head which seem to please women and which there is little danger of duplicating, and these are fancy aprons and bags. Any one who has the time and can crochet well can make up any number of smart bags, ranging from the exquisite ones of fine Irish lace suitable for evening use to larger ones of heavy knotted twine lined with colored silk and useful for sewing and many other home purposes.

The chafing dish apron, ruffled and of sheer material, with tiny bib, is as becoming a garment as a woman can wear, and it appeals to a man's heart as quickly as any results in cooking to which it may have contributed. Every busy housewife likes little round aprons of embroidery or dotted swiss to protect the front of her dress, and sewing aprons with pockets to hold the work are always appreciated. A new model of this sort is made of rather heavy linen cut round and with a scalloped embroidered edge. A second piece shaped and scalloped like the apron is stitched on over this and forms the pocket for the work. A ribbon belt matches the color of the embroidery.

The little schoolgirl in her early teens is apt to have very ambitious ideas as to the amount of Christmas gifts she is to give and generally finds it hard to complete them. This is the moment to give her some good advice. If she cannot be dissuaded from making a burden of Christmas, as her elders have done, let her have recourse to the partly finished articles mentioned above. Here a little labor will go a long way, and the little maid's nerves will not be racked by the hopelessness of finishing her self imposed tasks.

Proper Care of House Plants

"I AM so fond of plants, but I never have any luck in raising them." This is a remark one frequently hears at this time of the year. But there is really no good reason why a person who is willing to give a certain amount of time and attention to house plants should not raise them successfully—that is, if she has a suitable window in which to place them.

Not knowing how to water plants intelligently is the cause of their not thriving in many cases. The most important thing is that water must be given with discretion when the plant needs it. There can be no hard and fast rules laid down as to how often to give a plant water. Evaporation may be much greater at one time than at another. The best rule to follow for early plants, except ferns, is to give a thorough drenching and allow the surface soil to become dry before watering thoroughly again. Ferns require more water than most plants, and the earth should never be allowed to become entirely dry.

A lover of flowers who has much success with Boston ferns waters them in the following way: Every morning she puts the pots of ferns in a large pail and pours over it a pitcher of rather tepid water. She allows the pot to stand in the pail until the water has soaked through the soil.

Dust is an enemy to plant life. Plants breathe through their leaves, therefore it is necessary to keep them free from dust. At least once a week, and oftener if the room is very warm or dusty, the plants should be put in a bathtub and gently sprinkled with a bath spray.

Rain, of course, never falls on plants at the temperature and force it comes from a hydrant. Therefore give them a gentle shower, but see that all parts of the leaves are thoroughly washed.

Do Your Feet Look Like Any of These?

LOOK at the feet of the women you meet in public places, particularly in street cars, and without doubt you will recognize the poses pictured as true to life. It will be a good study in "don'ts," with one "do" thrown in as encouragement. The short skirt has brought feet into unusual prominence this season and incidentally it has brought to the surface of things a new beauty specialist, one who teaches how to keep the feet young, how to place the feet when sitting or standing and what grotesque poses to avoid. The postures illustrated were made at a lecture in which the beauty specialist used the feet of her pupils to illustrate the points to be emphasized. Here are some of them:

- First.—Don't sit with the feet crossed. It's ugly. Look at the picture and be convinced.
- Second.—Don't copy this pose, which is not uncommon among young girls. Third.—Don't follow in the footsteps of this too-in variety.
- Fourth.—Don't rest the ankle sideways. It's ugly and spoils the shape of the foot.
- Fifth.—The correct and graceful attitude for the feet, heels together, toes slightly apart. This pose is quite worth while taking a little trouble to get accustomed to.
- Sixth.—Don't put one foot in advance of the other. It makes the foot look larger than the other.

Your Last Season's Hat

A GIRL whose last season's black velvet hat was in perfect condition, with the exception of very noticeable rain spots on the top, conceived the idea of covering it with some of the changeable taffeta silk now so much in vogue. The underbrim of the hat was like new, so she brushed it carefully and smoothed it. Next she cut a piece of erise and black changeable taffeta to fit smoothly on the top of the brim. This was fastened to the edge beneath a strip of narrow gold lace laid with the plain edge sheer with the edge of

Nursery Notes

CHILDREN should not be harshly treated because they are different in some respects from others. The difference in the case of your own boy may mark him for a genius later on.

Children who suffer very much from headaches without any apparent reason should be taken to an oculist to have their eyes examined. It may be that they are overstraining them without being conscious of the fact. Defects of the eye can be cured in many cases if glasses are worn for a time, and even the thickest children soon become accustomed to wearing them.

When there is danger of baby's ears growing out of shape it is a good plan to let him wear at night a small open work bonnet of cambric or muslin, which will help to keep the ears flat. Care should be taken that it is not in the least tight and so prove uncomfortable to the little sleeper.

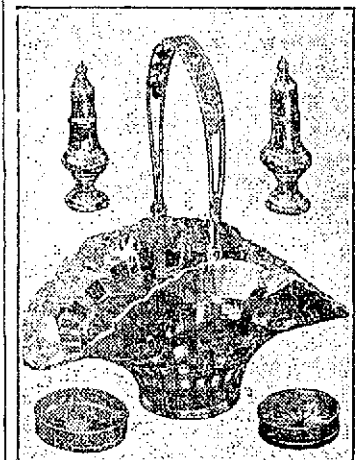

In juvenile hairdressing one of the latest ideas is a transformation of the Dutch style into a style of the Louis XVI. period. This hairdressing is but a slight variation of the Dutch effect. It consists of having the cropped hair curled and falling in long ringlets, completely surrounding the head from ear to ear instead of being combed down straight. The arrangement is decidedly quaint and pretty. It is becoming to even a greater number of children than is the harsher Dutch style.

FIREPROOF DRESSES.

Children's dresses may be rendered almost fireproof if in the last rinsing water or in the starch in which they are stiffened one ounce of alum or sal ammoniac is dissolved. Clothing treated in this way will with difficulty take fire, and even if it should will burn slowly and without flame.

SOME PRETTY SILVER CRAFTSMANSHIP

SOME of us may not be fortunate enough to own ancestral silver, but those who have the means to justify it are now able to lay in a fine stock of ware for the benefit of those who may at some future day refer to them as ancestors. Silver has never been so pretty in workmanship, and silver utensils and ornaments have never been so reasonable in price. The silver fruit or cake basket illustrated here is an example. The handle is of silver filigree, the body of the basket is of openwork that resembles woven ribbon, while the border is embossed.

The two trays for glasses are of silver combined with mosaic, while the two tall shakers or dredgers owe their beauty to the graceful simplicity of their form.

In The Cookery World

WAYS OF COOKING THE POPULAR TUBER

POTATOES form a part of every well ordered meal, but the clever cook knows the value of varying the ways in preparing them. A few favorite recipes of a fine chef are here given:

Potatoes O'Brien.—Three cupsful of dried potatoes, two cupsful of milk, one-half cupful of flour, one-half cupful of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, one chopped green pepper and one cupful of grated cheese. Make white sauce of milk, flour, butter, salt and pepper. Add grated cheese and chop pepper. Stir until cheese is melted. Pour over potatoes, cover with two cupsful of breadcrumbs moistened with two teaspoonfuls of butter and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Potatoes With Mint.—Boil new potatoes until nearly done; then put in a few sprigs of fresh mint. Cook ten minutes, drain and dry off uncovered. Have melted butter in a serving dish. Put over the potatoes and dip over them the melted butter. Garnish with sprigs of mint.

Hot Potato Salad.—Wash and boil small potatoes, removing the skins, and pour over them a hot salad dressing made of one-half cupful of bacon grease, one-quarter cupful of vinegar, one teaspoonful of salt, pepper or paprika to taste, onion juice or chives, if desired.

Hashed Brown Potatoes.—To two cupsful of cold boiled potatoes, cut in dice, add pepper, salt and one-third cup of fat. Mix and cook three minutes, stirring constantly. Pack and let it brown beneath. Fold and serve on a hot plate.

French Fried Potatoes.—Pare and cut in eighths, longwise, medium sized potatoes. Soak in cold water one hour. Dry between towels, put in a wire basket and fry in hot fat. If the fat is too hot the potatoes will brown before they are done. Salt as soon as they are removed from the basket.

WHITE BLOUSES REVIVED.

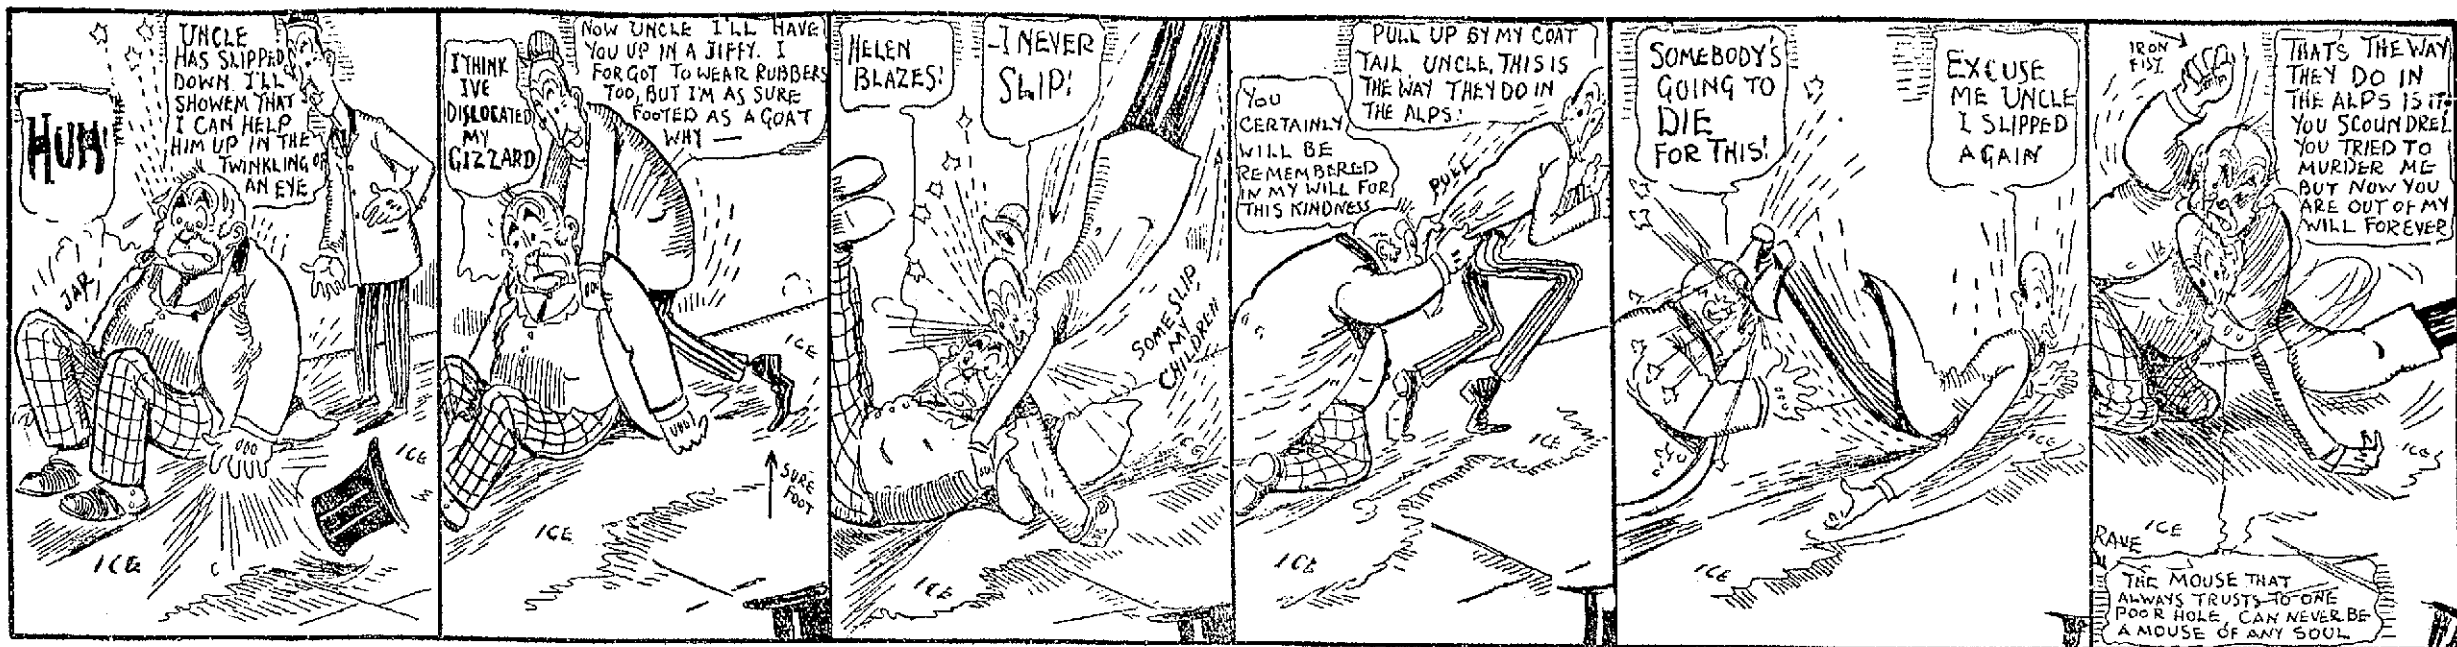

It seems essential to wear some touch of black at the neck of the white blouse these days. Indeed, more than white blouses are being sold this season than in the past four years. They are being worn with morning suits, provided they are quite plain and very sheer. The only trimming allowed is a narrow band of Irish insertion down the front and at the collar and an edge of Irish picot on the frills over the hands and down the front.

COUCH OF GILT WITH EMPIRE GREEN CUSHIONS.

THE chaise longue is a stately piece of furniture essentially French and directoire in style. It is well suited to reception rooms, salons or other interiors of a rather formal type. The chaise longue illustrated is of gilt with cushion and round pillows of empire green velvet.

TROLLEY EXPRESS

Hearing Held in Boston Yesterday

Boards of Trade and Business Organizations a Unit For the Trolley Express—Petition to the Railroad Commission

Lowell was well represented at the hearing before the railroad commissioners at the state house yesterday. Among the men from Lowell and vicinity in attendance were: James J. McManis, St. of Streets, Lowell; P. Putnam, Fred C. Garrett, Sec. John H. Murphy of the board of trade, Col. Royal S. Ripley, Capt. John Monahan, Selectman Pollard of Lowell, Senator Hibbard, Senator Barlow, Police Commissioner Thomas F. Boulter, Paul Chaffin, Carl M. Phil, Manager Thomas Lees and Stpt. H. E. Farrington of the Day State Street railway. Secretary Murphy filed a number of letters from Lowell merchants while all present signed cards favoring a trolley express freight service between their respective cities, towns and Boston.

THE HEARING

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—The fight of the elevated to carry baggage and freight in Boston was carried yesterday before the railroad board. The question is on the appeal of the elevated to the board from the Boston city council, which refused to grant the franchise.

Matthew Brush of the elevated explained that 92 cities have this right. He said that the company would run freight cars and would not interfere with passenger business. Among those who spoke for the franchise were Henry Kinsdale of Quincy, R. W. Freeman of Gloucester, President Butler of the Boston & Worcester, Attorney Ballantyne and P. W. Withers.

The Massachusetts branch of the Shit-In society held its meeting yesterday in the Park street church and the reports of the annual meeting held in New York were read before the body. The Christmas list was also submitted to those who wish to send gifts to individuals during the Yuletide.

FINGERS CRUSHED

WOMAN INJURED IN THE HAMILTON MILLS

Nellie Scanlon, residing at 270 Lakewood avenue, had her right hand caught in a machine while at work at the Hamilton mills yesterday afternoon and three fingers were crushed. She was taken to the Lowell hospital, where her wounds were treated. On her way home from the hospital she fainted and the ambulance was summoned and she was taken to her home.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows hall. There was a large attendance and much business of importance was transacted. Stephen Edmond Crompton presided. The degree stuff exemplified the sacred mysteries of the warriors degree on one adopted warrior, Bro. G. E. Sutherland, in charge of electrical and mechanical effects. At the next meeting, the warriors will exalt to the chief's degree. The next meeting, Theodore Edmond, has appointed Past Sachem Joseph J. McNab of Passaconaway tribe, 27, of Haverhill as our deputy.

Knights of Pythias
Wages lodge held its regular weekly meeting last evening with a large attendance. The lodge worked the rank of knight on two candidates for S. H. Hines lodge. The new staff just organized performed the work for the first time in long form, and in a very creditable manner. Several matings of importance were acted upon, and preparations were made to receive Bay State lodge of Boston on their visit to Lowell on the night of Dec. 4.

SEARCH FOR BODIES ABANDONED

ELLSWORTH, Me. Nov. 25.—Green lake was so rough today the searchers were forced to abandon for the day the work of grappling for the bodies of the other three of the four men who undoubtedly were drowned Wednesday noon and of searching for trace of the second boat which is missing. The body of Deputy Sheriff Edward Finn, which was recovered near Black Island, opposite Northeast cove, was brought here today and the funeral will be held tomorrow. Finding they could not work upon the lake some of the searchers tramped through the woods to the north of Northeast cove and Camp Comfort, which was occupied by Joseph D. Clough and Arthur E. Colson, the two campers. This is principally wild land and they were taking the precaution of looking for High Sheriff Webster and the two campers in these woods, although all felt certain they were at the bottom of Green lake.

CASES OF YALE STUDENTS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—The cases of eight young men, seven of whom were Yale undergraduates, arrested by the police Saturday night after a clash on the street following the disturbance in the Hyperion theatre, were called in police court today. Six cases were "nolled" at the request of the assistant city attorney while the hearing on charges of breach of the peace against Louis Boncider, brother of the 'varsity end, and Joseph N. Ewing, who is not a student, were continued until next Wednesday.

MEAN VANDALS

Damaged Gate at Lowell Cemetery

One of the meanest outrages that has been perpetrated by vandals in this city in a long time is reported from the Lowell cemetery, one place which even vandals should regard as sacred. Recently some one defaced the surface of the Belvidere entrance to the cemetery with chalk, while trespassers to gain admittance have ruthlessly torn down the fences. Some person, also, has broken off an angle of the granite of the entrance, an offense punishable by a heavy penalty and for which evidence of which the cemetery corporation offers a reward of $100 cash. In addition to these acts at the cemetery Mr. P. B. Shedd complains that boys and men have made the beautiful lanterns which he has presented to the city of Lowell at the entrance of Shedd park, a target of stone throwing. Clerk Charles L. Knapp writes The Sun in regard to the matter and has an advertisement elsewhere.

READY FOR BUSINESS

George R. Mevis—congenial George—now has his new store at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets open and ready to receive customers. George is a good natured, typical "Dentist," decorated from the old New York state butch. He was born at Cooperstown just 47 years ago, the son of an industrious farmer and one of a family of ten children. Naturally, he had to "get busy" while comparatively young. However, his taste seemed to be for the city rather than the farm life (that was before the "back to the farm" era) and so he decided to come to Lowell, to which city his brother-in-law, C. P. Killpatrick, had already preceded him. And, say, sometime when you have a half hour to spare ask George to tell you about that trip of his from the farm to Lowell via New York city. Benjamin Thompson on Tuesday never had a word to say about this story. That was thirty years ago—George has been a citizen of Lowell and associated with his brother-in-law in the fruit business ever since.

The new store has a very complete equipment of modern fixtures and a fresh stock of popular makes of shoes, hats, suits, socks, cigars and tobacco. It is well situated—handy to Lowell's two newest theatres—the Merrimack Square and Keith's, and is near the Square. Here's prosperity to you, George!

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

An important theatrical event in the local season is the engagement of the new comedy, "Introduce Me," that will be seen at the Opera House on Monday, Nov. 27. This comedy was written by Della Clarke, the well known young author-actress, and she will be seen in the star role here with her original New York cast.

Miss Clarke has evolved what is said to be a story of gripping interest from the theme of the wife who is a stronger mental vessel than her husband or the world estimated. She has drawn a novel story and has built a play that is said to abound in heart interest and to be rich in comedy.

BILLY THE KID

The negro orderly of the ante-bellum days attached to his old colonel is one of the many clever characters in Joseph Santley's play, "Billy the Kid," which is one of the great, big successes of the present year. All of the types are said to be exceptionally well drawn and the play replete in human interest. "Billy the Kid" will be seen at the Opera House Nov. 29 and 30 with matinee on Thursday.

CY WHITTAKER'S PLACE

John Marble, the veteran comedian who created and played the role of the undertaker in Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag," and recently closed an engagement as one of the principal comedians of New York Polite Bertera has created another unique comedy character in Bailey Bangs in Joseph C. Lincoln's "Cy Whittaker's Place."

TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM

For more than fifty years the American public has been enjoying the performances of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," the drama which had its first production at the National theatre in New York city in September, 1858. The play contains pathos and comedy, and Messrs. Holden & Edwards have fitted it out with appropriate scenery and selected a competent cast. The play with its 15 characters, complete in every detail, will be offered by Messrs. Holden & Edwards at the Opera House on Tuesday, Nov. 28, matinee and night, at popular prices.

MAUDE ADAMS

The box office sale for the engagement here at the Opera House Tuesday, Dec. 5th, of Maude Adams in "Chantecler" will open at 9 a. m. Tuesday next. Mail orders for this engagement are now being accepted and filled in the order received.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Tom Ward, an old-time minstrel king, will be one of several high-class contributors to the sacred concert at Merrimack Square theatre Sunday afternoon and evening. Mr. Ward is a clever entertainer and should please. The others include Miss Minnie Stevens, a local vocalist of ability, Forrester and Floyd, Kimball and Donovan, Lois Beni and two other acts. Besides the above there will be a new and first-class series of photo-plays, the kind that receive the approval at the state officials.

For next week the management has selected an unusually strong bill. B. Smith, former sparring partner of the only and original John L. Sullivan, one-time champion pugilist of the world, will appear in a good comedy drama, will be assisted by Miss Rola Smith, recognized for her ability as a woman boxer and bag puncher. "Mrs. P." a bright western comedy drama, will be given by Our Stock Company. The offering is a cleverly written one and when interpreted by such artists should certainly share with the biggest successes of the season. The place will mark the return of Miss Patricia Saville. Mr. Weston and Miss Jackson will also be seen in pleasing roles.

Stanley Wood will be seen in a monologue by himself. The sketch is entitled "Dick's Thanksgiving Dinner," a couple of great comedy artists who, and themselves in a hotel room, possess of a bounding bed which shoots them high into the air while they do all sorts of stunts in this mysterious room. Mlle. Rialto, assisted by M. Louis Lavelle, presents an act the like of which has never been seen in Lowell before. It is entitled "The Artist's Dream," and consists of a number of beautiful poses by Mlle. Rialto, a model of international reputation. Illustrative of songs sung by M. Lavelle. The act is unique and beautiful. Watson and Little give an artistic operatic act entitled "The Marriage of Figaro." Clements and Dean go in for musical comedy and sang and danced to the heart's content of their audience. An exceptionally strong bill will be presented at tomorrow's concert.

Freckled Girls

I have just received a stock of WILSON'S FRECKLE CREAM, product of Wilson Freckle Cream Co., Charleston, S. C. I send them by mail, if desired, price 50c and $1.00. Wilson's Fair Skin Soap, 25c. Riker-Jaynes Drug Co.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Donald Meek desires to deny the rumor that he is to leave the Hathaway theatre which evidently grew from the erroneous statement in a Boston paper that he was to appear at the Castle Square theatre. Mr. Meek states that John Craig made him an offer but it was not further.

A few seats remain for the closing performances of "The Struggle" and those who intend seeing the performance should order their seats without delay.

Next week the Donald Meek stock company will present one of the most popular plays on the American stage, "Our New Minister," from Benama Thompson. In preparing "Our New Minister" Mr. Thompson has thrown conventionality in play writing to the winds. The play is away from the beaten path. There is no wronged heroine, no mortgaged farm, but an absolutely new and up-to-date theme, with sturdy characters that do not light to behold, their portents so utterly untheatrical and artistic, so true in every tone and gesture and pose that the total effect is startlingly real. Donnan Thompson went over the town of Hardscrabble, N. H. with a rick that had no missing teeth when he started to write this great play. The map of the state does not contain the name of Hardscrabble, but the author used the name to convey the kind of town he aimed to mirror, a hamlet where chance of worldly progress is about like the soil, hard and unprofitable. It is the funniest kind of a comedy and excels even the "Old Homestead." Donald Meek will be seen in the character of "Skeezicks" a tough young man from New York who blows into the town looking for work. "Thaddeus Strong" the minister in no manner suggests the typical devotee of the church unless it be in a certain refinement of manner and an open frank, wholesome air. He sees life from a wide outlook and represents a new order of teachers who fight with deeds as well as with tracts. Mr. Chagnon will be seen as the minister. Seats now on sale.

THE HARVARD ELEVEN

Spent the "Night Before" at the Vesper Country Club

The members of the Harvard football squad, together with coaches, trainers and a few camp followers, were the guests of Dr. Harold W. Lewis at the Vesper Country Club at Long Island last night, the eve of the gridiron battle of the year.

The squad arrived in a special car attached to the 5.27 train and upon arriving they were met by the club members and made themselves comfortable, the members of the squad who were reasonably sure of playing in this afternoon's game were assigned to the regular sleeping rooms while the others were assigned to comfortable cot beds.

After a few minutes of music, supper was served, the menu including cream of corn soup, roast duckling, duckling, mashed potatoes, string

James J. GALLAGHER

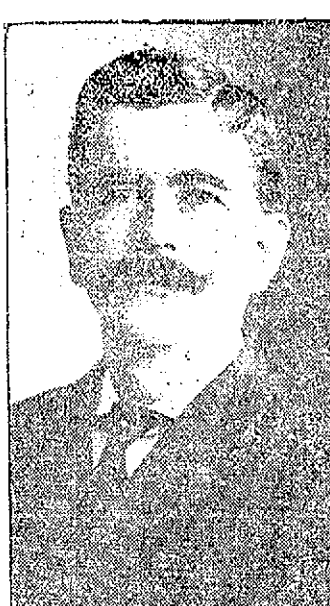

Candidate For Alderman in the Municipal Council

Born in Lowell 1866, attended day and evening schools. At the age of eleven worked as back boy in the Hosiery Cotton Mills for 25¢ per day, selling newspapers in the evenings; advanced from back boy to laborer in Merrimack Print Works, thence to sticher and back tender in print room; leaving there to take up barber business on Lakeview Ave., at which trade he worked evenings for several years.

In 1901 he purchased the cigar and tobacco store in the Westworth block, continuing there until 1907, when he purchased the Fruit and Confectionery business of the Kilpatrick Bros., and is at present conducting same in his former and newly acquired store at 252 Merrimack street.

His evenings were spent in society work and evening schools. His first experience in society work was with the Mathew Temperance Institute as Recording Secretary during the term of Edward V. Slattery, the officer and consistent temperance worker, after which he served as Recording Secretary and Financial Secretary of Court Merrimack, Foresters of America, which office he held for eight years.

In 1905 was elected State Secretary of the Foresters and served for 12 years until the demands of his business required his entire attention, still he found time to attend meetings of several other organizations with which he became affiliated, such as the Knights of Columbus, Knights of Sacred Heart, Holy Name of St. Michael's, Eagles, Royal Arcanum, Knights of Country, A. O. U. and Civic Association. At present he is President of the Mathew Temperance Institute.

He has devoted considerable time for the good of his native city, having served as Alderman in 1902 and 1903 and is at the present time serving as Chairman of the Board of Aldermen and Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and in both positions he has done commendable work.

In 1905 he was Chairman of Grade Crossing Committee and put through an order for separation of grades at School, Walker, Main and Lincoln streets.

In 1902 was Chairman of Committee on Education and succeeded in having the Greenbridge Grammar School in West Centralville started.

During the present year he has made an exhaustive study of the city's finances and has about completed plans for the correction of the three evils, to wit: 1st, Appropriating money from the General Treasury Fund when no money was there to cover; 2nd, Providing for uncollectible poll and personal taxes; 3rd, Making provision for the several departments' receipts being credited to department doing the work instead of charging it to the General Treasury Fund and thereby having it distributed to the several departments.

He has always been conservative and fearless in his defence of what he considered was right.

We believe he would make a valuable member of the Municipal Council of 1912.

TO THE CITIZENS OF LOWELL

EX-MAYOR JAMES B. CASEY asks your favorable consideration of his candidacy for Alderman under the new charter, basing his qualifications and fitness for that office on his former experience and unquestioned ability in municipal affairs, together with successful management of his private business.

Mr. Casey was elected to the Common Council at the age of 21, and served in that body for three years and in the Board of Aldermen for one year, when, at the age of 23, he was chosen Mayor of the City, which office he held for two years.

During the past five years, since leaving public office, Mr. Casey has engaged in the business of manufacturing, being treasurer of the Ideal Comb Company, of Lowell.

Did he not give a clean and progressive administration of public affairs during his term of office in the city council and the Mayor's chair?

Did he not meet business fairly and squarely and decide them from the standpoint of public good?

Did he not save the city many thousands of dollars by his attitude on questions affecting the public interest?

Has he not shown good judgment and a great degree of ability in dealing with public issues in the past, and does not think that in this crisis in the affairs of our city he is qualified capable of dealing in a satisfactory manner with the many and vexatious problems and questions that will arise in a re-adjustment of governmental affairs to conform to the provisions of the new charter?

Has he done anything during his retirement from public office, as a private citizen, that would cause you to hesitate to accord him that vote of confidence which he now seeks?

He has nothing to sell to the city as a member of the new board, and while the charter permits, with certain restrictions, a member of the board to enter into contracts with the city, no member should be permitted to enter into contracts with the city. He believes that the supplying of the city's needs should be left to competition among private citizens, and that Aldermen, receiving a salary, should be content to avoid the questionable practice of obtaining further profits by way of contracts for supplies.

Mr. Casey solicits you to consider favorably his candidacy, and assures you that, if elected, his every effort will be directed to giving this city the progressive administration it should have.

GEORGE F. TOYE,
169 Merrimack St.

To the Citizens of Lowell

In announcing myself as a candidate for re-election as alderman, I would ask that my past official duty be taken into account and regarded in a serious manner by the taxpayers of our city. The city, having assumed a progressive spirit in the past few years which is in line with the wishes of its citizens and meeting with the commendation of those who visit us, must continue it. To do this, in a wise, sane and ambitious manner, economy has to figure largely in its administration. The men whom you choose to represent you in its affairs must be those who will devote their whole time to its business and delegate nothing to proxies. They must be live, energetic men, who are easy of approach, desirous to serve efficiently and treat all alike, have no favors to bestow and no axes to grind and as such a one and on such a platform I beg to subscribe myself.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Repeats That He is Not a Candidate for President

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt yesterday, when asked regarding the report that he may again be a candidate for president, told a reporter that a statement might be made as follows:

"Col. Roosevelt finds it difficult to understand the comment in the newspapers that has followed upon his article regarding national laws and business interests.

"He has said exactly the same thing many times before. He cannot see why it should be assumed that this article indicates that he is ready to take any personal part in the coming campaign.

"It can be stated that Col. Roosevelt has received many letters indicating the willingness of the writers to give him political support if such is desired.

"It can be stated that Col. Roosevelt today received a letter from a certain United States senator offering the full political support of the senator in case Col. Roosevelt should wish to be a candidate in the national campaign.

"To this letter Col. Roosevelt has replied that he earnestly hopes that the senator will not only refrain from any action looking to the nomination of Col. Roosevelt, but also will prevent his friends from taking any such steps.

"No comment will be made by Col. Roosevelt upon this announcement, which, he insisted, should be made in the third person. He would not name the senator to whom he referred."

Some politicians, when told of the statement, said that they would not be surprised if Senator La Follette might have written such a letter, although he now has a political machine at work in an effort to wrest the republican nomination from President Taft.

Among Col. Roosevelt's political visitors yesterday were ex-Congressman Charles B. Washburn of Worcester, Mass.; Congressman Victor Berger, the socialist, and T. M. Osborne, the insurance democrat, formerly of Auburn, N. Y.

WHISKEY OR BEER HABIT

ORRINE is the standard remedy and is everywhere recognized as the most successful and reliable home treatment for the "Drink Habit". It is highly praised by thousands of women, because it has restored their loved ones to lives of sobriety and usefulness, and the weekly wages which at one time were spent for "Drink" are now used to purchase the necessities and many comforts for home. Any wife or mother who wants to save her husband or son from "Drink" will be glad to know that she can purchase ORRINE at our store, and if no benefit is obtained after a trial the money will be refunded.

DIVORCE EVIL

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 25.—The September term of Washington county court adjourned after being in session 73 days, and just before the proclamation was made Judge W. H. Taylor handed down decisions in 23 divorce cases, 22 being granted and one dismissed, that of Eva Odette vs. William J. Odette, in which the court said there was evidence enough, but he did not believe witnesses told the truth.

Judge Taylor rapped the so-called "divorce evil," and took occasion to point to the great increase in the number of petitions which, under the Vermont practice, were heard ex parte. Without the aid of a special investigator to inquire into both sides, the court was acquainted with only such evidence as appeared at the trial, often when both sides had agreed after the contesting party withdrew.

He believed the responsibility to society rested on the attorneys who brought the petitions to the court, and that the court was not blinded by doubtful evidence or lack of evidence, and wrong done, and he considered the responsibility of the lawyer to the body politic greater than the interests of the parties themselves. Ten of the divorces were granted for desertion.

WILL GET MONEY

THAT HE GAVE GIRL TWENTY YEARS AGO

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—Twenty years ago Henry Kohler, then of Springfield, was one of the most unhappy men in Massachusetts. He is now one of the happiest men in Connecticut. At that time he was engaged to a young woman and the date of their wedding, he says, was rapidly approaching.

In order that they might have a nest egg with which to begin housekeeping, he gave her all his savings, week after week until quite a sum had been saved up and the day was at hand.

Then all of a sudden the bride-to-be disappeared. Search everywhere revealed nothing, and with her went Kohler's savings.

Yesterday he was informed that the next egg would be returned to him. Then he told the story. Chief Cowles of the police department received a letter from Mrs. I. Peterson of 123 Tremont street, Chicago, telling him that she belonged to Henry Kohler, who, she believed, lived in New Haven. Chief Cowles found Kohler at the Winchester Repeating Arms company, and he could hardly believe the story told by the child.

The money will be returned shortly and with it is expected to come some explanation why the bride-to-be left so suddenly.

Addressed N. Y. Sons of Revolution

Dr. Moses Greeley Parker of this city was one of the guests of honor and principal speakers at the 22nd annual banquet of the Empire Society of the Sons of the Revolution held last Saturday night at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel at which he made an address on the national organization. When introduced as the great grandson of Kendall Parker and Joseph Greeley, both of whom were at Lexington in 1775, Dr. Parker said that he was a great grandson of Kendall Parker who was the great grandson of Deacon Thomas Parker who came to this country in 1635 and had of his descendants at Lexington twenty-seven by the name of Parker, one named Monroe and one named Smith, or twenty-nine all told. Dr. Parker further stated that Sergeant Joseph Greeley was the great grandson of Andrew Greeley who came in 1649. Sergeant Greeley marched his squad from Haverhill to Lexington on April 19, 1775. Dr. Parker then stated that he also had a great grandfather named Derby who was killed at the battle of White Plains, New York, showing that even then New York and Massachusetts stood and fought side by side. "They have done so since," said Dr. Parker, "and I hope they always will." He then delivered his address on the National society.

the co-operative system among farmers, the sympathy between these co-operative unions and the department of agriculture, and the scientific handling of agricultural problems by the department.

Another feature of agriculture which impressed Mr. O'Reilly was the regulation and control of the milk, butter and egg supply of the country. He considered that this system is responsible in a large measure for the health of the Danish people and for the high reputation of these products in the foreign markets.

The poverty of Danish orchards and the lack of handicrafts in the country were the only points which seem to have impressed the investigator unfavorably.

Mr. O'Reilly will visit other countries in Europe and on his return to the Philippines he will endeavor to make practical use of some of his observations for the improvement of agricultural and industrial methods there.

The vocal journalist is the latest novelty in Copenhagen and he is becoming a popular feature at festival exhibitions and other entertainments. He is also seen and heard at fashionable cafes and restaurants where he delivers the news with comment during the band pauses.

The owner of one of the largest hotels here has developed the idea further, and in the palm court of the hotel after each theatrical fire night, the vocal journalist will criticize the performance.

SPECIMEN BALLOTS

Have Been Received by City Clerk

The specimen ballots for the preliminary elections have been received by the city clerk. There are two, the main ballot and the special ballot for women. The ballot for men is green in color and is folded into four parts. It is a very formidable looking ballot, but is it arranged to the best possible advantage. The ballot is well laden with instructions so that he who reads will know how to vote. Page one holds the names of the majority candidates; pages two and three aldermanic candidates, and the last page the school committee candidates. The voter is instructed just how many to vote for in each case—one candidate for mayor, four candidates for aldermen, and five candidates for school committee. The school committee ballot, for women only, is a pinkish color. It is a two-page ballot and the names of the candidates to be voted for are on the second page. On the first page there appears the instruction: "Vote for Five Candidates Only." The instructions on both ballots are complete and if any mistakes are made it will not be the fault of the men who prepared the ballots.

SKETCHES OF CANDIDATES

READ THE RECORDS

Who They Are Who Appeal to the Public for Election

The Sun presents today brief sketches of all the candidates on the ballot. Some of the sketches are particularly brief, through no fault of The Sun, as a letter was sent to each one asking him to send in some facts concerning himself. The candidates were not asked what taxes they paid, nor how they voted on the charter. Some of them did not respond to The Sun's request and hence the curtailed reference to them. Care has been taken to have the sketches accurate and as far as possible fair to all concerned, in order that the voters may thus be assisted in selecting the best candidates.

FOR MAYOR

Michael A. Lee Candidate For ALDERMAN

TO THE VOTERS OF LOWELL

In the recent campaign for the adoption of the new charter I went firmly on record as in favor of the new system. My action was criticized by some of the labor element who were opposed to its adoption. I respectfully place my candidacy before the people for their consideration next Tuesday. I have consistently argued for the charter since the start, firmly believing that through its instrumentality the city of Lowell will derive far greater benefits than under the old system. I believe also that the man who is in sympathy with the system can do better work than he who is, or has been, opposed to it.

MICHAEL A. LEE,
92 Bartlett St.

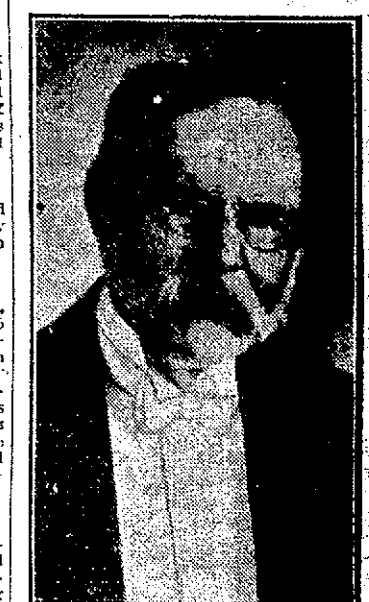

John J. Kelley CANDIDATE FOR Alderman "HAS ANYBODY HERE SEEN KELLEY?"

That seems to be the slogan around town this week. Now Mr. Voter, if you want to know who this man is, just drop into your butcher or grocer and he'll tell you that he is the BUSY MEN'S CANDIDATE and EX-PERSED BY THEM. He has been successful for himself in the meat and grocery business for over 15 years and is now with the Omaha Packing Co., wholesale dealers on Thompson-dike street. He has never held public office, is honest and capable, a taxpayer and property owner in this city for 18 years and is now before you for consideration and earnestly solicits your vote.

His motto, if elected, will be: "Business principles applied to city affairs, a fair and impartial administration."

JUST DROPPED IN

Idler Has Quiet Time in Bowling Alley

"A spare" was the cry that sounded through the hall when one evening recently the writer entered a local bowling pavilion. As all the alleys were in use, and their occupants being unknown to me, I sat down on one of the benches, lighted my French briar, and, settling into a comfortable position, proceeded to pass away an hour in enjoyable leisure.

The onlookers seated about me were individuals of some little interest. To my left sat a red-faced, pudgy little man of about 40, who, when a "strike" would be made, uttered his enthusiasm simply by leaning forward and emitting a series of short, quick puffs from his clay pipe and then, looking around with a benignant smile, would settle back and take a long, lingering pull at the beloved duoden. At my right, at a fat man, this gentleman would manifest his enthusiasm in such a volubrious manner that when giving vent to it by a series of lurches the bench, I could feel, would tremble, creak and give indications of collapsing under its fleshy burden. Next to this Vesuviusian individual was seated a man of middle age, whose most noticeable feature was a surprisingly thin and sallow face. He had, evidently, a turn for military tactics, for, diverting his attention every few minutes from the bowlers to a handy spittoon, he would shoot an accurately directed charge of tobacco juice at the receptacle, and, after wiping his chin, would again turn his attention to the bowlers.

On these individuals I, too, fixed my attention. They were men of varied size, shape and dress. Standing on raised toes while marking his score at the end of the alley, I noticed a youthful but unfortunate "sawed-off." This small-sized gentleman wore a Norfolk suit and choker collar that set off becomingly a dinky little pipe. But all these were redeemed by his fine bowling. On the next alley, could be seen a red-headed man in a striped jersey, drawn down the alley and floor the entire ten pins. A "cannon ball" delivery would be made and there could be overturned possibly only two pins. Again, two balls might be rolled with the downing of but one or two pins, while the third sphere cast would send the other eight or nine pins flying in every direction; or, again, would never turn none. At another time the first ball would overturn nine, there would be an exclamation of "Now for a spare," the second ball would miss by a breeze, and the third one would, evidently, with malice aforethought, roll into the chute. Sequel: Exclamations unprintable.

The various movements and complex attitudes of the men while bowling next caught my eye. One bowler, picking out a ball, would advance to the firing line and, taking careful aim, deliver it with a long swinging sweep. Another would cast the wooden sphere with a short, quick snap of the forearm, although with little power behind it, would send the missile spinning into the pins with crashing force. A third man would try for numerous knockdowns with a slow and more accurately directed ball. The position unconsciously taken by the bowlers' legs at the moment of delivering the ball appeared to me sometimes amusing and sometimes graceful. The greater portion of the men on casting the ball would slide forward with the left leg extended, and the right trailing. In doing this some would twist the right knee outward and some would twist it inward; in either position they would look like human jackknives. Others, on the delivery, would with knees bent, into a squat slide forward on both feet, coming to a stop, shoot into an upright position, not unlike a Jack-in-the-box. Others, again, would slide forward with legs spread apart and knees slightly bent, just like schoolboys sliding on ice yet fearful of sustaining falls. Long slides were more favored than short ones. Why, this is difficult to explain, but, possibly, the reason may be found in the desire to imitate the movements of the more skillful exponents of this sport. Once in a while, however, there would appear a bowler of unusual grace. Everybody else would utter a low whistle of that "The discus thrower" variety. Well, it might not be out of place to compare the position taken by one young bowler while at the moment of delivering a ball, whom I saw, to that attitude assumed by the Greek athlete who was immortalized by the sculptor of Phidias. At this point, however, in the story would be handicapped on one respect, by clothes. With this handicap removed it would be not a little interesting to compare the relative gracefulness of the living bowler with that of the ancient discus thrower. It, of course, consent could be obtained from the Watch and Ward society.

The facial expression and the temperament of the different men was well worth noting. One man with a demeanor as grave as the proverbial judge would advance, take up the first ball coming to hand and after making a "strike" would resume his seat with a satisfied but undemonstrative air and silently watch the movements of his adversary. A judicious temperament surely was exhibited by that gentleman. His opponent, however, was made on a different pattern. He, after spending a minute or two in selecting a ball, would advance to the line, sight the ball in his outstretched arm like a gunner, draw his arm back suddenly, and, sliding forward, send the ball bounding down the alley. On that ball his attention would be riveted and he would remain almost a minute with his body stretched nearly parallel with the floor, should heavy execution among the pins be done by the sphere he would return to the bench with a face wreathed in expansive smiles but, if the execution were light, oh, my! The restless man, was to be seen. This gentleman would be ready for action almost before the pinboys could begin "setting up." Nervously swinging his arm from side to side and violently puffing at a cigar, he would hurl the ball down the alley the instant the pins were placed, with such quickness that he shot would almost catch the jumping pinboys at the heels. Then there was the jolly bowler. This dissipated of mirth would during his spinning of a jummy yarn abruptly suspend the recital to take his turn at the alley. Possibly, the ball would bound into the chute; if so he would exclaim, "May the devil fly away with you," and, replying to a friendly taunt, "And to you, too, Tom."

As the ball was warm and the seat comfortable, it was not a great while before a feeling of drowsiness crept over me; whereupon I began to nod. Then I noticed, the "pins" on an alley temporarily unoccupied, slowly began to take on the appearance of miniature men. Soon I could hear their voices. "Spruce," remarked one of these small gentry to a hard-faced companion, "what's the trouble between you and that bald-headed, clean shaven chap named Sphere who comes down to our end of the alley in so strenuous a manner very frequently each evening?" "Well, old scout," was the reply, "that wooden-head to whom you refer had been picking, or jumping on me for weeks. Every time he came down the alley he would go out of his way to give me a pucker in the nose. At last I got hot up over this treatment, it being the more exasperating

Boston Market

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The local stock market was generally firm today. The close was steady. East Butte, 12 1/2, up 1/2; Lake 35.

through coming from a fellow member of the International Order of Bounding Hickories, and I related on Sphero every time he bumped me by landing with all my weight upon his bald pate. Consequently, we are not on speaking terms. "Chip," said another of these little men, "what makes you so down in the mouth tonight?" "Well," replied Chip, "why shouldn't I feel blue. Here I am in this noisy, nerve-racking hall when I planned to be in a comfortable and agreeable parlor over in Centralville this Wednesday evening. It's a shame, that's what it is, for the boss to keep me working this of all nights in the week." And Chip's much-battered face lengthened another inch. Another of these strange creatures I heard denouncing and threatening one of the pinboys in no uncertain words: "You cross-eyed, bandy-legged jackass," he exclaimed, "if you don't put me in my proper position in the rear line next sat-up I'll land on your shins with force enough to break those skinny bones in them, you lazy little villain." "Ah, me," soliloquized an ancient worthy in the center of this unique group, "how different are these days from those distant ones when I left the merry-making this of all nights in this profession. What a jolly crew were those old companions; what hilarious times did we enjoy; how honest, how fearless, how brotherly they were, and, alas, now look at the change. Ah me, ah me." "Cheer up, old gentleman," facetiously remarked a dapper, respectful slaver beside him, "cheer up, you'll soon enjoy a rest, a brief one—in the woodpile. Then—" But at this moment a great cheer resounded throughout the hall, resulting from the winning of a keenly contested match, and I awoke with a start. The clock pointed to 11:30.

SEWING MEETING

The women's association of the Kirk street church, Mrs. A. K. Whitcomb president, held its sewing meeting on Friday afternoon in the church vestry. A report of the barrels of clothing sent to home missionaries in the west was made, and plans for sending other barrels were discussed. Supper was served by Mrs. Frank Stearns and her committee.

The committee has issued a subpoena conducting the inquiry into the statement denying the charges, but Mr. Gates has so far remained silent.

STOCK MARKET

WAS HEAVY AT THE CLOSE THIS NOON

Professional Operators Sold Stocks Quite Freely—Some Declines in the Railroad Section—Some Inactive Stocks Showed Strength.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Stock market movements were irregular at the opening with a sagging tendency on the part of the majority of the more active issues. Southern Pacific and Great Northern pfd, each of which stood half, were the heaviest of the standard railroad shares. Among the industrials International Harvester fell back 1/2, Amalgamated Copper 1/2 and U. S. Steel and American Car & Foundry 1/4. There were some changes in the opposite direction. Canadian Pacific advanced 1/4 and Utah Copper a point. Prices picked up with some spirit after the initial display of heaviness. Purchases, however, slackened when the active stocks rebounded slightly above yesterday's closing figures. Minor copper stocks were especially strong with Tenn. Copper gaining over a point.

The market closed heavy. Professional operators sold stocks more freely and there were some sharp declines in the railroad section. The decision of the interstate commerce commission in reducing various freight rates in the northwest was used with effect against some of the western stocks. Some inactive stocks were strong. American Tobacco pfd improved a point, in sympathy with a jump on the curb of 12 points in the common stocks.

Clearing House Statement

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The statement of clearing house banks of Greater New York for the week shows that the banks held $9,725,000 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule. This is a decrease of $3,765,250 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week.

IN WEST CENTRALVILLE

Garde Jacques-Cartier to Erect a Building for Meeting Purposes

If plans come to maturity a large building will soon be erected in West Centralville, the plans now being prepared by Contractor H. E. Drolet. This building, according to plans, will be 120 by 50 feet, and will be constructed either on Lakeview avenue or Cumberland road. The members of the Garde Jacques-Cartier are the instigators of this movement and they intend to push the matter to the last possible moment. The building is under consideration and a decision will be made in a few days, and it is expected the work will be started at once and pushed along rapidly. Among the members of the guard are three masons and four carpenters and it is they who will do the work with the assistance of a large crew of able men.

THE CREW RESCUED

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 25.—The four-masted schooner Joseph G. Gray of Thomaston, Me., Captain Hitchborn, Port Tampa to Baltimore, with phosphate rock, lies a wreck today on the Cape Charles shoals, where she struck yesterday. Captain Hitchborn and his crew of nine men were landed here by the Baltimore tug Defiance, which took them off the stranded vessel after much difficulty during the severe storm which swept this coast last night.

The schooner is submerged with only her bow and stern above water and salvage is doubtful.

CHASED BY BULL

MAN HAS ENTERED SUIT FOR DAMAGES

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 25.—Fire broke out last night in the job printing office of the Parker Lather company on Main street. Two alarms were sounded and the fire was extinguished in about an hour with an estimated total damage of $10,000, covered by insurance.

The building was not damaged seriously, but the Parker Lather company was a heavy loser, and others who suffered principally from water were Kennedy, Gough & Murray, grocers; E. P. Gately & Co., dry goods and clothing; the Flexible Vener company and several labor unions, who had rooms on the second and third floors. On the third floor is the hall of the Pawtucket Association of Stationary Engineers, and they were heavy losers.

The origin of the fire is not known. In the early stages of the fire a six-way hydrant burst, throwing up a large section of the sidewalk and adding to the excitement.

HOTEL KEEPER FINED

He Was Charged With Illegal Sale of Liquor

Hugh Ferguson, licensee and proprietor of the St. James hotel in Middlesex street, was fined $50 by Judge Hadley in police court this morning, after finding him guilty of the illegal sale of liquor. According to the testimony of two supernumeraries of the police department, they visited the hotel on Sunday, Oct. 22, and were served liquor without first ordering food. Lawyer Thomas J. Enright appeared for the defendant and the government's case was conducted by Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department.

The first witness for the government was William G. Lee, a supernumerary in the police department. In answer to questions asked by Supt. Welch, the witness said he visited the St. James hotel at about 1 o'clock on Sunday, Oct. 22. Charles C. Wallace, also a supernumerary, was with Officer Lee. Witness said: "When we reached the hotel we entered the dining room and I ordered a bottle of ginger beer and a bottle of green label lager beer. We gave no other order. When the waiter got our order he brought me a plate of beans and placed a plate of soup in front of Officer Lee. We did not order any food. I paid 20 cents to the waiter for the drinks. There were about a dozen or fifteen people in the room at the time."

Cross examined by Lawyer Enright, the witness answered: "I was appointed a member of the police department in May of this year. I am not doing regular police duty. I work in the mill except when called upon to do special work."

"I reported at the police station at 10 o'clock on the morning in question and left about 10:30 o'clock. I was instructed to go out and visit hotels, and we were given money with which to make purchases in order to secure evidence of illegal sales."

"After leaving the police station we went first to the Park hotel, where I ordered a bottle of beer and tasted it. Officer Wallace also ordered beer and tasted it."

"We then visited the Merrimack house, where we had beer. Each of us tasted the beer. We then went to the St. James hotel."

"Were the beans hot?" the witness was asked.

"I don't know," was the answer.

"You didn't taste them?"

"No, I wouldn't take a chance on them."

Officer Wallace
Charles C. Wallace, also a supernumerary, was the next witness called, and his testimony was in corroboration of that offered by Officer Lee.

The Defense
Hugh Ferguson, proprietor of the St. James hotel and defendant, in the case, testified that he resided in the hotel and was around the premises all day Sunday, October 22. He spent the greater part of the day near the door in order to prevent intoxicated or objectionable persons from frequenting the premises. Witness said that his attention had been called by two officers as they left the place, one of his clerks telling him that the men were supernumeraries.

Mr. Ferguson testified that he had warned his clerks not to serve liquor to minors or intoxicated persons or to people who did not first call for food. He further said that no beans had ever been served in that dining-room on Sundays since he had been conducting the hotel. As for the bottle of ginger ale which Officer Lee said he ordered and received, Mr. Ferguson said that ginger ale was served by the glass and not by the bottle and that the price for a bottle was five and not ten cents.

Michael R. Haggerty, a waiter at the hotel, said that on the day of the alleged illegal sale the officers entered the dining room and ordered beer. William Gillis who was sentenced to a month in jail for the same offense, was in the hotel at the time and refused to serve the drinks. The two men then walked out. After they left the place he said he told Mr. Ferguson that he thought they were two supernumeraries. Questioned by the court as to why he thought they were supernumeraries the witness said that he was suspicious owing to the manner in which they acted. He further said that neither of the men was served with either food or drink.

Witness said that he had been instructed not to serve drink to any person who did not first ask for food.

"If a person came in and ordered a glass of beer and a bottled dinner, calling for the beer first, wouldn't you serve that man?" asked Judge Hadley.

"No, sir."

"Because a person has got to order food first."

"Is that the way you do business there?"

"Those are my orders."

Sharron Testifies
Edmund Sharron, also a waiter at the St. James hotel, said he did not remember seeing either Officers Lee or Wallace at the hotel on the 22d of October. If he served them on that day he could not recall it. He corroborated the testimony of the preceding witnesses that there were no beans served at the hotel and that ginger ale is served in glasses and not by the bottle.

John McArthur, assistant cook, testified that beans were not served at the hotel on a Sunday, also that all the food that is served in the dining-rooms passes through his hands.

Ferdinand Buchard, who drives a bottle team, was called and testified that he supplied the St. James hotel with ginger ale and that all of the bottles were large ones, known as 16 ounce bottles.

Officer Wallace was recalled and said he was positive that Sharron was the man who served him and Officer Lee, and also that Sharron placed a plate of beans before Officer Lee.

Officer Lee upon being recalled said that he was served a small bottle of ginger beer, but did not taste the contents. A plate of beans was placed in front of him. He said the beans were black and looked as though they were old.

Lawyer Enright made a brief argument after which the court found Mr. Ferguson guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $50. He appealed, and was held under $300 bonds for the superior court.

Smashed in a Door
Michael J. Turner was arrested in Webster street about 11:30 o'clock last night and sent to the police station where he was booked for drunkenness.

The arresting officer said that the man was under the influence of liquor and when he arrived on the scene he said Turner was throwing bricks through the door of the boarding house. Turner said that there was a drunken racket in one of the rooms in the building and he was unable to sleep.

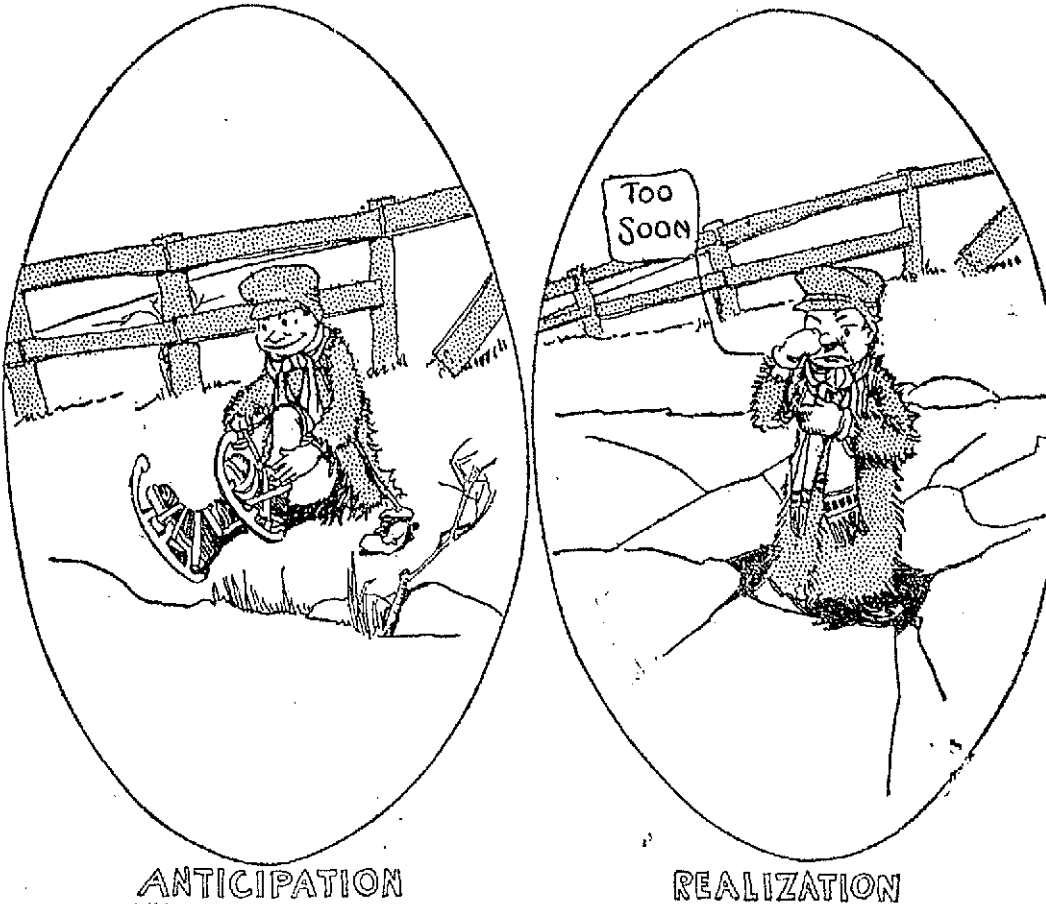

A plate of beans was placed in front of him. He said the beans were black and looked as though they were old. Turner was sentenced to four months in jail.

Drunken Offenders
Ellen Hennessey said she wasn't drunk but supposed she might as well plead guilty. Patrolman Cossette testified that the woman entered a store in Moody street last night about nine o'clock and the woman who conducted the store being unable to get her out of the place sent for the police officer. Gillis was given a sentence of four months in jail.

William J. O'Brien was sentenced to four months in jail. William Clements was fined $5, there were six first offenders who were fined $2 each and seven simple drunks were released.

William Gillis who was sentenced to a month in jail for the same offense, was in the hotel at the time and refused to serve the drinks. The two men then walked out. After

A DARING HOLD-UP
Man Robbed and House Was Set on Fire

One of the boldest holdups in the history of this city was committed early this morning in Pawtucketville, when Louis E. Mercier, according to his own story was bound and gagged in his own house by two unknown men, who robbed him of $32 and set the house on fire. Mercier, however, managed to unbolt the door with his chin and roll out as far as the next neighbor's house and there give the alarm. The quick response of the firemen of Engine 5, who had been called by telephone, saved the building from entire destruction, but three rooms were entirely gutted and the damage is quite heavy.

Mr. Louis E. Mercier, who conducts a potato chip factory at 141 East Meadow road, called at the police station this morning and related the following story: "I went to Lawrence yesterday, as it is my custom every Friday, and returned on the last car from the down-river city. In company with my neighbor, Mr. Albert St. Denis, I boarded the 11:45 o'clock electric for Moody street, arriving home at about 12 o'clock. When I entered my house my two dogs, one of which is a big muskrat animal, were rather noisy. I ordered them to lie down and then I went to the stable to feed my horse. When I returned I heard a noise in the front room and, taking a lamp, I went into the apartment to see what the trouble was. I had no more than reaching the porch when I was struck in the back and thrown to the floor, and there stood two men before me. One of them was very robust, weighing about 180 pounds. The other I could not distinguish. The two men jumped on me, tied my hands behind my back and my legs apart, and gagged me. They went through my pockets and robbed me of $32 and before they left one stabbed me in the region of the heart. The knife went through my coat and vest and through a memorandum book in my vest pocket

"I tried to yell for help, but my efforts were fruitless on account of the gag over my mouth. Then I rolled as far as the kitchen door which was bolted, and raising myself on my knees, I managed after a lot of work to push the bolt with my chin. I then pushed the door open with my head and rolled on the hard ground as far as my neighbor's house, where the ropes and gag were removed."

Neighbor Saw Flames
"My neighbor, Mr. St. Denis then saw the flames coming out of my house and he immediately went to another neighbor's, Mr. J. A. Perron, and telephoned to Engine 5 of Mammoth road. I am not sure whether the fire was set by the two men, or whether it started when I dropped my lamp when I was struck."

When questioned about his dogs as to where they were and what they were doing during the scuffle, Mr. Mercier answered that his dogs were very obedient and when they were told to lie down, they did and remained there. He also stated there is a mortgage of $500 on his house held by the Co-operative bank.

Mrs. St. Denis, when interviewed by a Sun reporter this morning said that at nine o'clock last night she heard a noise around the Mercier house and also heard the dogs barking. The next she knew of the affair is that at about 2:15 o'clock this morning she was awakened by a soft ring at the front door. She went to the door and when she opened it, Mr. Mercier fell bound long in the hallway. He was bound and gagged and senseless. Ten minutes later he revived and told her practically the same story he told the police. The woman untied the ropes while her husband pulled the gag away and went out to telephone for the fire apparatus.

A Mass of Flames
Capt. Bartlett said he received a telephone alarm at 2:32 this morning, and when he and his men arrived on the scene, one end of the Mercier house was a mass of flames, while the owner was almost in a frantic spell. After some time the lively blaze was extinguished, but before it had consumed three rooms, the parlor, sitting room and bedroom on the second floor. The roof and outside of the house is badly damaged, while the contents of these three rooms, including a valuable collection of books and a hurdy-gurdy, were entirely destroyed.

Mercier was examined at the police station by Dr. Forster H. Smith, but the latter failed to find any injuries, with the exception of a slight swelling on the head.

Mr. Mercier is a very unlucky man, for this is the third time his place has been burned within a few years. A little over a year ago the house was burned to the ground and an aged man lost his life in the fire.

ANNUAL REUNION OF SACRED HEART PARISH WILL BE HELD NEXT WEEK

Arrangements for the annual reunion of the Sacred Heart parish to be held next week are progressing rapidly. The affair will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. A special program will be given each night. On Wednesday the program will be under the direction of John Kelly, organist at the church. The program will embrace vocal selections by James E. Donnelly, John Mahon, Miss Frances Tighe, Glendora quartet and others.

On Thursday evening a minstrel show, under the direction of Henry Curry, will be given. A rehearsal of the minstrel troupe will be held in the school hall tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Friday evening the entertainment will be furnished by performers from Kelly's and the Merrimack Square theatres, and on Saturday evening a professional performance will also be given.

Thursday and Saturday afternoon, entertainments will be given for the children.

School Janitors Are Out
For a Raise

And now the school janitors it would appear following the example of the police are out for an increase of pay and it is said will put the matter up to the members of the school board at their meeting on Monday evening, the eve of the caucuses, nearly all of the members of the board being candidates for reelection under the new charter. The members of the school board would like to have the matter put over until the next city government but from what report states the janitors insist that they must declare themselves before the caucuses. Tuesday is the regular meeting night of the board but on account of the caucuses it was decided to hold the meeting on some other night. Some of the members favored Wednesday for the meeting but again it is understood the janitors interposed with the result that the meeting will be held on Monday evening. The janitors want an increase of 25 cents per day. It is alleged that the janitors will work against every member of the school board who votes against the increase.

The pay of the janitors at present ranges from $2.15 per day to $2.75 per day. For six months they receive pay for seven days per week and the other six for six days per week. Some get extra pay for nightwork. Without going into the merits of the janitors' claim for an increase, The Sun would say as it has said in reference to the demand of the police officers for higher wages, that this matter should be left to the school board to be elected under the new charter. It remains to be seen whether the school board will bow to the dictation of the janitors in this matter. There are about eighty janitors in the city.

A LOVING CUP

Presented to Thomas
McNamee by Friends

Mr. Thomas McNamee, the genial manager of the "Hamilton Restaurant," for 12 years, and known to hundreds of patrons as just plain "Tom," has severed his connection with the establishment, to accept a lucrative position elsewhere. Just to show their appreciation of Mr. McNamee's many good qualities, the employees at the restaurant and a few friends, subscribed a substantial amount, and presented Mr. McNamee with a handsome loving cup, 18 inches in height. Mr. McNamee responded, feelingly expressing his thanks for the beautiful gift.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS

A very pleasant gathering was held at the home of Mr. Harry Lyons, on Wednesday evening at 86 Washington street, where he entertained a party of his friends. During the evening games were enjoyed and a fine musical program was carried out, which included: Vocal selections by the "Jolly Seven," Peter Quinn, Joseph Quinn, Ambrose Peter, Thomas W. Baxter, Marjorie Harrington, Harry Lyons and Thomas J. Baxter; readings, Misses Lawless and Connelly; piano solos, Misses Gertrude Reardon, Florence Lyons and Gertrude Conney. Refreshments were served and the party dispersed at a seasonable hour, all thanking the host for an exceptionally good time.

Over-Worked Girls

Read What This Girl Says:

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sick for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss Cecilia M. Bauer, 1161 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

THIS GIRL SAYS IT IS WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND:
Chicago, Ill.—"Your Compound cured all my troubles and I am feeling strong and happy and able to work now. Wherever I go I shall praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I think it is woman's best friend. I have told all my friends the good it has done me."—Miss Maggie Isbaur, 2418 So. Whipple Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Lorimer, Iowa—"I had a heavy cold in the spring and got all run down and was irregular. I had no strength and had bearing down pains in my sides and back, and was very nervous and excitable. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am all right again, and stronger than before."—Miss I. E. Williams, Lorimer, Iowa.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there is lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

The testimonials which are constantly being published in the Pinkham advertisements are guaranteed to be absolutely genuine, honest, and given without reward in any way whatever.

TROLLEY EXPRESS

Boards of Trade and Business Organizations a Unit For the Trolley Express—Petition to the Railroad Commission

Lowell was well represented at the hearing before the railroad commissioners at the state house yesterday. Among the men from Lowell and vicinity in attendance were: James J. McManis, Sup't. of Streets, Lowell; P. Putnam, Pres. of C. Garrett, Sec. John H. Murphy of the board of trade, Col. Royal S. Ripley, Capt. John Monahan, Solomon Pollard of Dracut, Senator-elect Hibbard, Senator Barlow, Police Commissioner Thomas F. Boulger, Paul Chaffin, Carl M. Pihl, Manager Thomas L. and Sup't. H. E. Partridge of the Bay State Street railway. Secretary Murphy filed a number of letters from Lowell merchants while all present signed cards favoring a trolley express freight service between their respective cities, towns and Boston.

THE HEARING

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The fight of the Elevated to carry baggage and freight in Boston was carried yesterday before the railroad board. The question is on the appeal of the Elevated to the board from the Boston city council, which refused to grant the franchise.

Matthew Brush of the Elevated explained that 92 cities have this right. He said that the company would run freight cars and would not interfere with passenger business.

Among those who spoke for the franchise were Henry Kincaide of Quincy, R. W. Brennan of Gloucester, President Butler of the Boston & Worcester, Attorney Balkantyno and P. W. Withers.

The Massachusetts branch of the Shutt-In society held its meeting yesterday in the Park street church and the reports of the annual meeting held in New York were read before the body. The Christmas list was also submitted to those who wish to send gifts to individuals during the Yuletide.

FINGERS CRUSHED

WOMAN INJURED IN THE HAMILTON MILLS

Nellie Scanlon, residing at 270 Lakeview avenue, had her right hand caught in a machine while at work at the Hamilton mills yesterday afternoon and three fingers were crushed. She was taken to the Lowell hospital, where her wounds were treated. On her way home from the hospital she fainted and the ambulance was summoned and she was taken to her home.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows hall. There was a large attendance and much business of importance was transacted. Sachem Edmond Crompton presided. The degree staff exemplified the sacred mysteries of the warriors' degree on one adopted warrior, Bro. G. E. Sutherland, in charge of electrical and mechanical effects. At the next meeting, the warriors will exalt to the chief's degree. The great sachem, Theodore Edmond, has appointed Past Sachem Joseph H. McNab of Passaconaway tribe, 27, of Haverhill as his deputy.

Knights of Pythias
 The weekly meeting of the regular lodge was held last evening, with a large attendance. The lodge worked the rank of knight on two candidates for S. H. Hines lodge. The new staff just organized performed the work for the first time in long form, and in a very creditable manner. Several matters of importance were acted upon, and preparations were made to receive the Bay State lodge of Boston on their visit to Lowell on the night of Dec. 4.

SEARCH FOR BODIES ABANDONED

ELLSWORTH, Me., Nov. 25.—Green lake was so rough today the searchers were forced to abandon for the day the work of grappling for the bodies of the other three of the four men who undoubtedly were drowned Wednesday noon and of searching for trace of the second boat which is missing. The body of Deputy Sheriff Edward Finn, which was recovered near Black Island, opposite Northeast cove, was brought here today and the funeral will be held tomorrow. Finding they could not work upon the lake some of the searchers tramped through the woods to the north of Northeast cove and Camp Comfort, which was occupied by Joseph D. Clough and Arthur E. Colson, the two campers. This is principally wild land and they were taking the precaution of looking for High Sheriff Webster and the two campers in these woods, although all felt certain they were at the bottom of Green lake.

CASES OF YALE STUDENTS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—The cases of eight young men, seven of whom were Yale undergraduates, arrested by the police Saturday night after a clash on the street following the disturbance in the Hyperion theatre, were called in police court today. Six cases were "nipped" at the request of the assistant city attorney while the hearing on charges of breach of the peace against Louis Bomeister, brother of the varsity end, and Joseph N. Ewing, who is not a student, were continued until next Wednesday.

MEAN VANDALS

Damaged Gate at Lowell Cemetery

One of the meanest outrages that has been perpetrated by vandals in this city in a long time is reported from the Lowell cemetery, one place which even vandals should regard as sacred. Recently some one defaced the surface of the Belvidere entrance to the cemetery with chalk, while trespassers to gain admittance have ruthlessly torn down the fences. Some persons, also, has broken off an angle of the granite part of the entrance, an offense punishable by a heavy penalty and for evidence of which the cemetery corporation offers a reward of $100 cash. In addition to these acts at the cemetery Mr. F. B. Sheel complains that boys and men have made the beautiful lanterns which he has presented to the city of Lowell at the entrance of Shedd park, a target of stone throwing. Clerk Charles L. Knapp writes "The Sun" in regard to the matter and has an advertisement elsewhere.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

The following marriage intentions were registered at the city clerk's office since the last were published: Charles R. Fisher, 24, adjutant, The Bolton, 177th street, New York City.

READY FOR BUSINESS

George B. Meis—congenial George—now has his new store at the corner of Bridge and Polio streets open and ready to receive customers. George is a good natured, typical "Deutchen," descended from the old New York state Dutch. He was born at Cooperstown just 47 years ago, the son of an industrious farmer, and one of a family of ten children. Naturally, he had to "get busy" while comparatively young. However, his taste seemed to be for the city rather than the farm life (that was before the "back to the farm" era) and so he decided to come to Lowell, to which city his brother-in-law, C. T. Kilpatrick, had already preceded him. And, say, sometime when you have a half hour to spare ask George to tell you about that trip of his from the farm to Lowell via New York city. Benjamin Thompson never had anything on this story. That was thirty years ago—George has been a citizen of Lowell and associated with his brother-in-law in the fruit business ever since.

The new store has a very complete equipment of modern fixtures and a full stock of popular makes of candy, fruit, nuts, soda, cigars and tobacco. It is well situated—handy to Lowell's two newest theatres—the Merrimack Square and Keith's, and is near the Square. Here's prosperity to you, George!

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

An important theatrical event in the local season is the engagement of the new comedy, "Introduce Me," that will be seen at the Opera House on Monday, Nov. 27. This comedy was written by Della Clarke, the well known young author-actress, and she will be seen in the star role here with her original New York cast.

Miss Clarke has evolved what is said to be a story of gripping interest from the theme of the wife who is a strong mental vessel than her husband or that the world estimated.

She has drawn a novel story and has built a play that is said to abound in heart interest and to be rich in comedy.

BILLY THE KID

The negro orderly of the ante-bellum days attached to his old colonel is one of the many clever characters in Joseph Santley's play, "Billy the Kid," which is one of the great, big successes of the present year. All of the types are said to be exceptionally well drawn and the play is a human interest.

"Billy the Kid" will be seen at the Opera House Nov. 29 and 30 with matinee on Thursday.

CY WHITTAKER'S PLACE

John Marble, the veteran comedian who created and played the role of the underdog in Hoyt's "A Milk White Under," and recently closed an engagement as one of the principal comedians of New York Polaris Bergers has created another unique comedy character a Bailey Bangs in Joseph C. Lincoln's "Cy Whittaker's Place."

TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM

For more than fifty years the American public has been enjoying the performances of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," the drama which had its first production at the National theatre in New York city in September, 1855. The play contains pathos and comedy, and Messrs. Holden & Edwards have fitted it out with appropriate scenery and selected a competent cast. The play with its 15 characters, complete in every detail, will be offered by Messrs. Holden & Edwards at the Opera House on Tuesday, Nov. 28, matinee and night, at popular prices.

MAUDE ADAMS

The box office sale for the engagement here at the Opera House Tuesday, Dec. 5th, of Maude Adams in "Chantecler" will open at 8 a. m. Tuesday night. Mail orders for this engagement are now being accepted and filled in the order received.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

One glance at next week's bill at Keith's will convince one that Manager

Stevens got something out of the ordinary, and speaking of the holiday, best to forget, owing to the great demand for seats for the performances on Thanksgiving day, no orders will be received by telephone or mail but seats may be secured any time by applying at the box office. Heading the big holiday bill are Tom Linton's six juvenile girls, assisted by Grace Linquist in a delightful and novel musical act. "A Zulu Festival." Things will move some in jungle town with this clever company performing. The scene is laid in a beautiful tropical setting and the six jungle girls are not real Zulus but American chorus girls arrayed in the rather abbreviated costumes of the jungle. Miss Linquist is a fine singer and dancer and likewise the Zulus. Eva Tanguay's jungle town specialty is not to be compared with this great act.

Charles and Fannie Usher, hardly need any introduction to the theatre-goer or to who reads theatrical criticism for they are among the best known entertainers in vaudeville. Their act "Fagan's Decision," is one of the highest priced acts on the stage and is well worth the money. Eddie Ross works all alone and he doesn't need any help for his monologue is all his own and is different from the rest. The Ploetz-Lorella sisters, of whom there are three, present a wonderful acrobatic and contortionist act. "They have no bones" has often been said of them as they perform their marvelous twists and turns and heads. The Dorlans go with us in "A Terrible Night," or he who reads theatrical criticism find themselves in a hotel room possessed of a bounding bed which shoots them high into the air while they do all sorts of stunts in this mysterious room. Mlle. Rialto, assisted by M. Louis Laville, presents an act the like of which has never been seen in Lowell before. It is entitled "The Artist's Dream," and consists of a number of beautiful poses by Mlle. Rialto, a model of international reputation, illustrative of songs sung by M. Laville. The act is unique and beautiful. Watson and Little give an artistic operatic act entitled "Mairland's Barmaid." Clemens and Dean go in for musical comedy and sing and dance to the heart's content of their audience. An exceptionally strong bill will be presented at tomorrow's concert.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Donald Meek desires to deny the rumor that he is to leave the Hathaway theatre which evidently grew from the erroneous statement in a Boston paper that he was to appear at the Castle Square theatre. Mr. Meek states that John Craig made him an offer but it went not further.

A few seats remain for the closing performances of "The Struggle" and those who intend seeing the performances should order their seats without delay.

Next week the Donald Meek stock company will present one of the most popular plays on the American stage, "Our New Minister" by Beniamin Thompson. In preparing "Our New Minister" Mr. Thompson has thrown conventionality in play writing to the winds. The play is away from the beaten path. There is no wronged heroine, no mope and up-to-date theme, with sturdy characters that will delight to behold their portrayals so utterly untheatrical and artistic, so true in every tone and gesture and pose that the total effect is startlingly real. Denham Thompson went over the town of Hardacre, N. H. with a rake that had no missing teeth when he started to write this great play. The map of the state does not contain the name of Hardacre, but the author used the name to convey the kind of town he aimed to mirror, a hamlet where chance of worldly progress is about like the soil, hard and unprofitable. It is the funniest kind of a comedy and excels even the "Old Homestead." Donald Meek will be seen in the character of "Skeezicks" a tough young man from New York who blows into the town looking for work. "Thaddeus Strong," the minister in no manner suggests the typical devotee of the church unless it be in a certain refinement of manner and an open, frank, wholesome air. He sees life from a wide outlook and represents a new order of teachers who fights with deeds as well as with tracts. Mr. Chagnon will be seen as the minister. Seats now on sale.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Hi Tom Ward, an old-time minstrel king, will be one of several high-class contributors to the sacred concert at Merrimack Square theatre Sunday afternoon and evening. Mr. Ward is a clever entertainer and should please. The others include Miss Minnie Steeves, a local vocalist of ability, Forrester and Floyd, Kimball and Donovan, Lois Beni and two other acts. Besides the above there will be a new and first-class series of photo-plays, the kind that receive the approval of the state officials.

For next week the management has selected an unusually strong bill. H. Smith, former sparring partner of the only and original John L. Sullivan, one-time champion pugilist of the world, will appear in a good comedy sketch. He will be assisted by Miss Rolfe Smith, recognized for her ability as a woman boxer and bag puncher. "Mrs. D," a bright western comedy drama, will be given by Our Stock Company. The offering is a cleverly written one and when interpreted by such artists should certainly share with the biggest successes of the season. The piece will mark the return of Miss Beatrice Saville, Mr. Weston and Miss Jackson will also be seen in pleasing roles.

Stanley Wood will be seen in a monologue by himself. The sketch is entitled "Dick's Thanksgiving Dinner," a rather appropriate offering for the week, and one in which Mr. Wood is said to have rare opportunity to display his exceptional talent.

The Great Deighan, equilibrist par excellence, has something new and novel to offer, and Rogers and Evans are novelty entertainers of the highest rank. Adelaide and Lawrence are vocalists of much ability and will present a dainty musical sketch. Below the above excellent bill there will be several of the best photo-plays of the season.

THE HARVARD ELEVEN

Spent the "Night Before" at the Vesper Country Club

The members of the Harvard football squad, together with coaches, trainers and a few camp followers, were the guests of Dr. Harold W. E. E. of Boston at the Vesper Country Club at Tyngs Island last night, the eve of the gridiron battle of the year.

The squad arrived in a special car attached to the 5.27 train and upon disembarking they were met by Dr. E. E. and his party. The members of the squad were assigned to the regular sleeping rooms while the others were assigned to comfortable lodgings. After a few minutes of music, supper was served, the menu including cream of corn soup, roast domestic duckling, mashed potatoes, string beans, macaroni and cheese, celery salad, ice cream and cake, dry toast and milk. The squad lingered long over the bill of fare and it was not until eight o'clock before supper was finished. After supper, there was more music. While several contributed to the impromptu program others listened, while still others gathered in corners to discuss the probability of the weather and the outcome of the game, and a number passed the time away by playing cards.

The players retired at an early hour and were up bright and early this morning, and after breakfast boarded an express train which stopped at the entrance of the club at 9.30 o'clock and went to Boston where they prepared for the big game.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

Sidney P. Munroe Editor of "L. T. S. Pickup"

At a recent meeting of the Lowell Textile school athletic association the following members of this year's varsity eleven were awarded 1st: Crane, 12; Lamont, 12; Hassett, 12; Frost, 12; Kelsey, 12; Dover, 13; Thompson, 13; Strauss, 14; Taft, 14; Washburn, 14; Schofield, 14; and Hamilton, 14. There is a movement on foot to form a hockey team to represent the school this year and Arthur Daw, 12, has been elected temporary captain. Work was started this week on the new ice rink in the center of the campus and it is expected that when the students return from their Thanksgiving vacation the rink will be completed and ready for use.

Captain Daw is negotiating for games with some of the smaller colleges and from present indications the new rink will be the scene of some lively contests this coming winter. The Textile boys were given Tuesday when they learned of the resignation of Carol E. Minis from school to enter business. Minis, who is a native of Georgia, was in the second year cotton course and was very popular throughout the school. For the past two years he has been a member of the football eleven and last spring he played a star game with the baseball team. He was as proficient in his academic work as in athletics and his departure from the school will be a source of regret to both teachers and students.

The annual year-book of the school will soon be ready for publication and Sidney Munroe, the editor-in-chief, is working hard to make the coming edition surpass any of those preceding. The book itself is familiarly known as "The Pickup," and is conducted and published solely by the students of the school. The first edition was published by the pupils six years ago and each year following has seen great improvements and additions until today the "Pickup" ranks second to none of the annual college publications.

Sidney P. Munroe of Melrose, Mass., has been appointed editor-in-chief of this year's book. Munroe is a member of the graduating class and is one of the most popular men in the school. He was an associate editor of last year's publication and his selection as editor-in-chief this year has been welcomed throughout the school. Munroe is a member of the Cotton club, of the "Communists," and of Phi Psi fraternity.

Assisting Editor-in-chief Munroe is a very proficient staff consisting of: Business manager, Richard G. Conant, 12; associate editors, Harold B. Frost, 12, and Raymond Leffingwell, 13; assistant business manager, Roy C. Pillsbury, 13; senior class editor, Robert L. Lamont, 12; Henry F. Casey, 12; and Prescott P. Bigelow, 12; sophomore class editors, Francis P. Madden, 13, Nathan Poor, 13, and Charles Raynor, 13; freshman class editors, Percy W. Schofield, 14, Frederick A. Abbott, 14, and F. Wilson Conner, 14; art editors, Wm. Goodrich, 12, Charles E. Evans, 13, and Harold P. Church, 13; photographer, Ernest E. Ross; censor, Mr. Cushing, A. B.

SCHOONER ARRIVED TWO WEEKS BEHIND TIME
BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The four-masted schooner Alice L. Pendleton, Captain Marshall, arrived yesterday from Port Arthur, Texas, two weeks behind schedule, battered and damaged as the result of her struggle against terrific gales. The Pendleton sailed from Texas, Oct. 14 with a cargo of 518,000 feet of lumber. In the Gulf of Mexico summer storms were encountered, but as soon as the vessel started up the Atlantic, gales and hurricanes were met daily. Twice the Pendleton almost reached Cape Cod, but was driven off to the George by the wind. The flying jib, mainsail, foresail and spunkier were blown to ribbons, and the stay sail boom and spunkier gaff were broken. The Pendleton carries a crew of eight men. She is a staunch craft, and has weathered many gales. The voyage from Texas was one of the severest the crew ever passed through, and little rest was enjoyed during the month and 10 days on the trip.

He is a graduate of the common schools, University of Vermont, Dartmouth and Bellevue colleges; was 11 years in the military service. Held commission of lieutenant surgeon, principal of high school in Michigan, formerly engaged in carriage manufacturing and real estate.

Frank McAvinnuo
Dr. Frank McAvinnuo came to Lowell from Ireland when a mere boy. After attending the public schools here he went to work in one of the mills and to satisfy his thirst for education he attended evening schools. He also graduated from McCloy's commercial college. He finally entered St. Hyacinthe college in Canada and after graduating with honors he was engaged as teacher in special branches. He soon, however, took up the study of medicine in Victoria Medical college in Montreal, but after two years there he entered the medical school of the university of Vermont from which he graduated in 1889. In the following year he opened an office in this city and at present has a wide practice.

At the request of several of his prominent friends we publish the following statement:

"Dr. McAvinnuo reluctantly consented to be a candidate for the school board as he felt that after working for the new charter he should not turn for any office. As he is versed in French as well as in English, and deeply interested in educational progress he would make a valuable member of the school board. Among the endorers of his candidacy are men of all classes including Principal Dargh of the normal school, Dr. Huntress, P. J. Gilbride, Albert O'Brien, Henry A. Rourke, Lawrence Dumas, M. J. Dowd, Harvey B. Groene, Daniel W. Shanahan, George P. Green and a great many others. He stated on consenting to be a candidate that he would not ask anybody to vote for him and would not push his candidacy in any way. That is why his friends have to make known his merits."

BOWLING GAMES
Several Lively Contests on the Alleys

The bowlers turned out in large numbers last night and the local alleys were well patronized. Several league games were rolled while there were a number of picked teams which put up good scores.

The game between the Ledgers and Druggists resulted in an easy victory for the former team which captured all four points. The Ledgers practically had the game won in the second string but in the third the quintet went in for a Garrison finish and succeeded in piling up over 500.

The M. Groves won three points from the C. M. A. C. The latter team won the first string but the M. Groves sprung up in the second and third strings and captured them by good margins. The bowling of Lines of the winning team was the feature of the game.

The Hamilton and Boat teams had at it last night, the former team winning three of the four points. Hovey was the only bowler to go over the 100 mark for a single and his triple of 281 was also high.

A chess and reading game was played between teams representing the Lowell Electric Light Corporation and New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. last night, and the "light" boys won by a safe margin. Instead of the electric light team was the star performer.

The Washington and Brookside of the Minor league split even last night, each team winning two points. The Washingtons won the first string by a high margin, but lost the second and third. The margin of lead in the first string, however, together with the scores in the other strings in which they were defeated gave them the total pinfall.

The scores:

MRS. WILBUR REMEMBERS COACHMAN IN HER WILL

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Lydia H. Wilbur, wife of Public School Principal E. Edward Wilbur of Crompton, has left $6000 and her stable to her coachman, George H. Jordan.

Principal Wilbur is made executor, residuary legatee and trustee of funds left for relatives. Of the coachman Mrs. Wilbur says in her will:

"He has faithfully worked for me for many years and I give him $6000 together with all the horses, carriages, sleighs, harnesses, robes, blankets, whips and other things used in taking care of my horses." Mrs. Wilbur's stable is one of the finest in the valley.

To her sister, Martha E. Gardner, is left $5000. To her husband is given $15,000 in trust for her brother, Henry A. Hamilton. The income to be paid to him semi-annually. The will, which was executed in July, directs that the house of the testatrix on Wyckoff avenue, Centerville, shall be kept as at the time of the death of the testatrix for a period, when the executor may sell it at private or public sale as he may select. The will contains nothing to indicate the value of the estate.

She was twice married, her first husband having been the late Lieut. Gov. Enos Lapin, leading mill owner and political ruler in the Pawtucket Valley for years.

James J. GALLAGHER

Candidate For Alderman in the Municipal Council

Born in Lowell 1866, attended day
and evening schools. At the age of eleven worked as back boy in the South Cotton Mills the 25¢ per day, selling newspapers in the evenings;
advanced from back boy to folder
in Merrimack Print Works, thence to sticher and back tender in printing, leaving there to take up barber business on Lakeview Ave., at which trade he worked evenings
for several years.

In 1901 he purchased the Cigar
and Tobacco store in the West-north block, continuing there until 1904, when he purchased the Fruit and Confectionery business of the Edinburgh Block, and is at present conducting same in his larger and neatly appointed store at 262
Merrimack street.

His evening work and evening schools.
His first experience in society work was with the Matthew Temperance Institute as Recording Secretary during the term of Edward
P. Slattery, the pioneer and consistent temperance worker, after which he served as Recording Secretary
and Financial Secretary of Court Merrimack, Parsons of America, which office he held for eight years.
In 1895 was elected State Secretary of the Foresters and served for 12 years until the death of his business required his entire attention, still he found time to attend meetings of several other organizations with which he became affiliated, such as the Knights of Columbus, Knights of Sherwood
Forest, Irish Sons of St. Michael's, Knights of the White Star, Knights of the White Star, Knights of Unity, A. O. U. and Celtic Associates. At present he is President of the Matthew Temperance Institute.

He has devoted considerable time
for the good of his native city, having served as Alderman in 1902
and 1903 and is at the present time
serving as Chairman of the Board of Aldermen and Chairman of the Appropriations Committee and in both positions he has done commendable work.

In 1904 he was Chairman of Grade
Crossing Committee and put through an order for separation of grades at School, Walker, Main and Lincoln streets.

In 1902 was Chairman of Committee on Education and succeeded in having the Greenhalge Grammar School in West Centralville started.

During the present year he has made an exhaustive study of the city's finances and has about completed plans for the correction of the three evils, to wit: 1st, Appropriating money from the General Treasury Fund when no money was there to cover; 2nd, Providing for uncollectable bills; and 3rd, Making provision for the several departments' receipts being credited to department doing the work instead of placing it in the General Treasury Fund and thereby having it distributed to the several departments.

He has always been conservative and firm in his defence of what he considered was right.
We believe he would make a valuable member of the Municipal
Council of 1912.

JAMES S. McDERMOTT,

EX-MAYOR JAMES B. CASEY asks your favorable consideration of his candidate for Alderman under the new charter, basing his qualifications and fitness for that office on his former experience and unquestioned ability in municipal affairs, together with successful management of his private business.

Mr. Casey was elected to the Common Council at the age of 21, and served in that body for three years and in the Board of Aldermen for one year, when, at the age of 26 he was chosen Mayor of the City, which office he held for two years.

During the past five years, since leaving public office, Mr. Casey has engaged in the business of manufacturing, being treasurer of the Ideal Comb
Company, of Lowell.

Did he not give a clean and progressive administration of public affairs during his term of office in the city council and the Mayor's chair?

Did he not meet issues fairly and squarely and decide them from the standpoint of public good?

Did he not save the city many thousands of dollars by his attitude on questions affecting the public interests?

Has he not shown good judgment and a great degree of ability in dealing with public issues in the past; and do you not think that at this crisis in the affairs of our city he is qualified and capable of dealing in a satisfactory manner with the many and vexatious problems and questions that will arise in a re-adjustment of governmental affairs to conform to the provisions of the new charter?

Has he done anything since his retirement from public office, as a private citizen, that would cause you to hesitate to accord him that vote of confidence which he now seeks?

He has nothing to sell to the city as a member of the new board, and while the charter permits, with certain restrictions, a member of the board doing business with the city, no member will ever obtain his consent to enter into contracts with the city. He believes that the supplying of the city's needs should be left in competition among private citizens, and that Aldermen, receiving a salary, should be content with the reasonable practice of obtaining further profits by way of contracts for supplies.

Mr. Casey solicits you to consider favorably his candidacy, and assures you that, if elected, his every effort will be directed to giving this city the progressive administration it should have.

GEORGE F. TOY,
159 Merrimack St.

To the Citizens of Lowell

In announcing myself as a candidate for re-election as alderman, I would ask that my past official duty be taken into account and regarded in a serious manner by the taxpayers of our city. The city, having assumed a progressive spirit in the past few years which is in line with the wishes of its citizens and meeting with the commendation of those who visit us, must continue it. To do this,

in a wise, sane and ambitious manner,
economy has to figure largely in its administration. The men whom you choose to represent you in its affairs must be those who will devote their whole time to its business and delegate nothing to proxies. They must be live, energetic men, who are easy
of approach, desirous to serve efficiently and treat all alike, have no
favors to bestow and no axes to grind and as such a one and on such a platform I beg to subscribe myself.

HARVARD O, YALE O

Present at Football Game in the Stadium Today

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 25.—To cheer Harvard and Yale on to victory in their annual game of modernized Rugby football, there streamed out to the great white stadium on the banks of the Charles today, more than 40,000 ardent followers of the most strenuous and most popular of intercollegiate sports. No championship, however mythical, hung on either goalpost, for the sharp claws of the Princeton tiger had secured whatever claim there was in such a trophy earlier in the season.

Yet realizing that both Harvard and Yale this year had developed two of the most powerful football machines on the eastern gridiron, the football world concentrated the greater part of its attention to this afternoon's struggle in the stadium.

Clear skies greeted the host, a sunning northwester that had a touch of winter in it lent exhilaration and both sun and wind combined in assisting the Harvard management in bringing the rain-soaked field back into the best possible condition.

The Yale team spent a quiet night up the Charles at Auburndale while the Harvard players were removed still further away from scenes of excitement to the Vesper Country club at Lowell. The respective trainers, John J. Mack of Yale and "Pouch" Donovan of Harvard, sent word during the forenoon that their charges were in the shape and that none of them would have to be assisted in the stadium, as was intimated by the reports from the different camps a few days ago.

Some unorthodox student estimated that the crowd had spent half a million dollars to see the game, that a third would come in automobiles and that among the floral decorations worn by the fair damsels were 300,000 violets and 5,000 crimson chrysanthemums, so that the color scheme against the white walls of the stadium was a striking display of the national colors.

Field Almost Dry

The removal of the hay disclosed a field that was about two-thirds dry. In front of the western goal and extending to mid-field it was almost as sloping as was the field last week or that on which the Yale-Princeton game was played. The sun and wind dried it off a bit but at least half the field showed uncertain footing. The stands were slow in filling but at 1:30 there were over 20,000 people in the stadium. The blue band from New Haven and the Crimson band from Boston gave a joint concert for 15 minutes. At 1:45 the stands began to rock with the cheers of the undergraduates. The Yale team arrived from Auburn in a long procession of automobiles, while the Harvard men strolled across from the training quarters. At 1:30 both teams had donned their football armor and were prepared for the contest.

Harvard
Fisher, captain, right halfback
Storer, right guard
Pettit, right end
Potter, quarterback
Campbell, fullback

LOWELL'S BIG GAME

Haverhill High Met Local Eleven on Gridiron Today

The undefeated Lowell and Haverhill high school football teams battled for victory on the gridiron at Washington park this afternoon before a large gallery of football enthusiasts. The young lads predominated in numbers, but the young men as well as older men turned out in large numbers to urge Lowell on to victory. Haverhill also brought several hundred rooters and enthusiasm ran high during the game.

The attendance proved to be a record breaker for as much as both teams have not yet tasted defeat it was predicted that there would be a battle royal from the sound of the whistle at the start of the game until the end of the contest.

Haverhill's line has not been scored on this year and Lowell has been scored on but once. Both teams showed strength when they entered on the field and it was difficult to pick the probable winner.

The lineup of the teams was as follows:

Lowell
Roster, right halfback
Corbett, right guard
Kew, right end
Edgar, quarterback
Trull, fullback
Bowers, right halfback

Haverhill
Le, left tackle
Whitmore, left end
Grover, right halfback
Ri, right guard
Gardola, right end
Newbegin, quarterback
Lib, fullback
Maguire, right halfback

First Period

Reed, kicked off for Haverhill. Trull receiving the ball. Leggett made an end run of 25 yards and then fumbled the ball. Foster received an injury to his leg and time was called. It was deemed advisable for him to retire and Corbett took his place. Haverhill kicked off and Cawley got the ball.

Cawley kicked and Trull took the ball. Haverhill fumbled and Lowell got the ball in its possession again. Leggett made a pretty forward pass to Cawley and then Haverhill was penalized 10 yards for an infraction of the rules. Lowell slipped up on two forward passes and the visitors took the ball. The outcome of Lowell met with an injury and was retired. Morrill taking his place. Reed made an end run of 15 yards and the ball was in mid-field at the close of the period.

Haverhill Scores

Haverhill scored in the second period with a fluke touchdown. By means of a couple of good forward passes and several line plunges Haverhill got the ball on Lowell's seven yard line. Leggett made a forward pass to Bowers, who had a clear field before him but he fumbled. Later Cawley got the ball and punted to the 40 yard line. After a series of footpicks Gardola of Haverhill made a fluke touchdown and Reed kicked the goal. Score: Haverhill 6, Lowell 0.

UNKNOWN VESSEL

CHATHAM, Nov. 25.—An unknown two masted schooner is believed to have sunk two miles west of Haverhill lightship during last night's gale. The life savers at the Monomoy life saving station could see what appeared to be two masts protruding above the water two miles west of the Haverhill lightship and two tugs were in the immediate vicinity, apparently investigating. Nothing is known on shore concerning the identity of the schooner or the fate of her crew.

EX-REP. DENNIS A. MURPHY

Is the culture of a man we need in our city government.

Read what the weekly publication, PRACTICAL POLITICS, had to say about him:

"Efficient and courageous to the highest degree, Rep. Dennis A. Murphy of Lowell, the representative of the 15th Middlesex district, could not be denied, upon to cast his vote as he conscientiously believed was for the best interests of the constituents when he was elected to represent."

His honesty and ability were beyond question and gained him the respect of all his associates whether they agreed with his views or not.

As a member of the committee on public service he opposed all bills to increase the salaries of judges and bills providing for the pensioning of the judiciary. He contended that if the salaries of the judges were to be increased or if they were to be placed on a pension, the small-salaried public servants should also be taken care of in the same manner and until this was done he would oppose the bills in favor of the judges.

On labor measures, Rep. Murphy proved himself a staunch friend of the working classes.

If successful he promises a BUSINESSMEN'S ADMINISTRATION of CITY'S BUSINESS.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Repeats That He is Not a Candidate for President

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt yesterday, when asked regarding the report that he may again be a candidate for president, told a reporter that a statement might be made as follows:

"Col. Roosevelt finds it difficult to understand the comment in the newspapers that has followed upon his article regarding national laws and business interests.

"He has said exactly the same thing many times before. He cannot see why it should be assumed that this article indicates that he is ready to take any personal part in the coming campaign.

"It can be stated that Col. Roosevelt has received many letters indicating the willingness of the writers to have him support a statement which is desired.

"It can be stated that Col. Roosevelt today received a letter from a certain United States senator offering the full political support of the senator in case Col. Roosevelt should wish to be a candidate in the national campaign.

"To this letter Col. Roosevelt has replied that he earnestly hopes that the senator will not only refrain from any action looking to the nomination of Col. Roosevelt, but also will prevent his friends from taking any such steps.

"No comment would be made by Col. Roosevelt upon this announcement, which, he insisted, should be made in the third person. He would not name the senator to whom he referred."

Some politicians, when told of the statement, said that they would not be surprised if Senator Fairbank might have written such a letter, although he now has a political machine at work in an effort to wrest the republican nomination from President Taft.

Among Col. Roosevelt's political visitors yesterday were ex-Congressman Charles E. Washburn of Worcester, Mass.; Congressman Victor Berger, the socialist, and T. M. Osborne, the insurgent democrat, formerly of Auburn, N. Y.

DIVORCE EVIL

SCORED BY JUDGE TAYLOR OF VERMONT

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 25.—The September term of Washington county court adjourned after being in session 73 days, and just before the proclamation was made Judge W. H. Taylor handed down decisions in 23 divorce cases, 22 being granted and one dismissed, that of Eva Odette vs. William J. Odette, in which the court said there was evidence enough, but he did not believe witnesses told the truth.

Judge Taylor ripped the so-called "divorce evil," and took occasion to point to the great increase in the number of petitions which, under the Vermont statutes, were heard as to divorce. Without the aid of a special investigator to inquire into both sides, the court was acquainted with only such evidence as appeared at the trial, often when both sides had agreed, after the contesting party withdrew.

He placed the responsibility to society rested on the attorneys who brought the petitions to see that the court was not misled by doubtful evidence or lack of evidence, and wrong done, and he considered the responsibility of the lawyer to the body politic greater than the interests of the parties themselves. Ten of the divorces were granted for desertion.

WILL GET MONEY

THAT HE GAVE GIRL TWENTY YEARS AGO

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 25.—Twenty years ago Henry Kohler, then of Springfield, was one of the most successful men in Massachusetts. He is now one of the poorest men in Connecticut. At that time he was engaged to a young woman and the date of their wedding, he says, was rapidly approaching.

In order that they might have a nest egg with which to begin housekeeping, he gave her all his savings, week after week until quite a sum had been saved up and the day was at hand.

Then all of a sudden the bride-to-be disappeared. Search everywhere revealed nothing, and with her went Kohler's savings.

Yesterday he was informed that the nest egg would be returned to him. Then he told the story. Chief Corder of the police department received a letter from Mrs. L. Peaslee, of 162 Tremont street, Chicago, telling him that she had in her possession some money belonging to Henry Kohler, who, she believed, lived in New Haven. Chief Corder found Kohler at the Winchester Repeating Arms company, and he could hardly believe the story told by the chief.

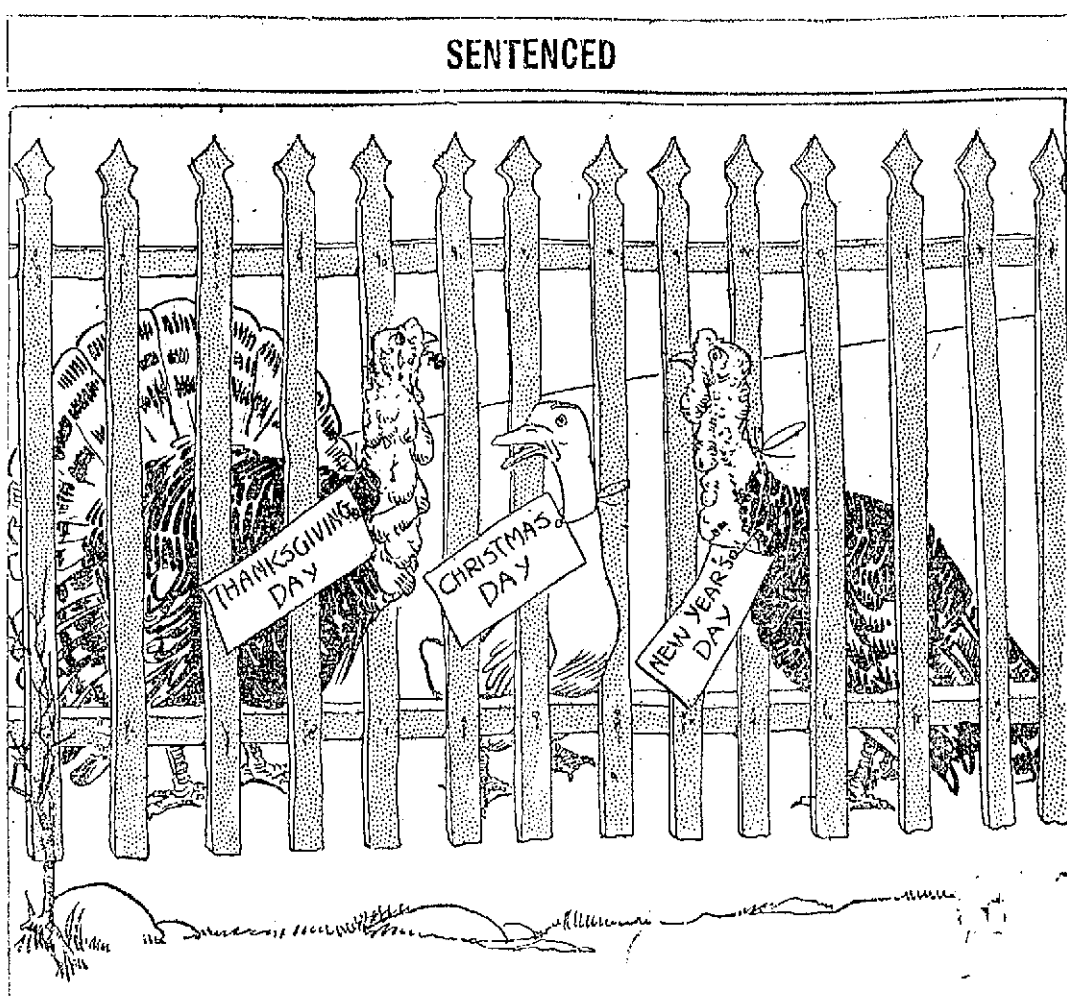

The money will be returned shortly and with it is expected to come some explanation why the bride-to-be left so suddenly.

DR. MOSES G. PARKER

Addressed N. Y. Sons of Revolution

Dr. Moses Greeley Parker of this city was one of the guests of honor and principal speakers at the 22nd annual banquet of the Empire Society of the Sons of the Revolution held last Saturday night at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel at which he made an address on the national organization. When introduced as the great grandson of Joseph Parker and Joseph Greeley, both of whom were at Lexington in 1775, Dr. Parker said that he was a great grandson of Joseph Parker who was the great grandson of Deacon Thomas Parker who came to this country in 1635 and had of his descendants at Lexington twenty-seven by the name of Parker, one named Monroe and one named Emile, or twenty-nine all told. Dr. Parker further stated that Deacon Joseph Greeley was the great grandson of Andrew Greeley who came in 1640. Sergeant Greeley marched his squad from Haverhill to Lexington on April 19, 1775. Dr. Parker then stated that he also had a great grandfather named Emile who was killed at the battle of White Plains, New York, showing that even then New York and Massachusetts stood and fought side by side. "They have done so since," said Dr. Parker, "and I hope they always will." He then delivered his address on the National society.

SPECIMEN BALLOTS

Have Been Received by City Clerk

The specimen ballots for the preliminary elections have been received by the city clerk. There are two, the main ballot and the special ballot for women. The ballot for men is green in color and is folded into four parts. It is a very formidable looking ballot, but it is arranged to the best possible advantage. The ballot is well laden with instructions so that he who reads will know how to vote. Page one holds the names of the mayoralty candidates; pages two and three aldermanic candidates; and the last page the school committee candidates. The voter is instructed just how many to vote for in each case—one candidate for mayor, four candidates for aldermen, and five candidates for school committee. The school committee ballot, for women only, is a pinkish color. It is a two-page ballot and the names of the candidates to be voted for are on the second page. On the first page there appears the instruction: "Vote for Five Candidates Only." The instructions on both ballots are complete and if any mistakes are made it will not be the fault of the men who prepared the ballots.

ANNUAL FAIR

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF ST. ANNE'S MISSION

The annual sale and fair under the auspices of St. Anne's Mission in North Billerica was opened last night in the parish building. There was a large attendance of members of the parish together with friends who enjoyed the affair.

The interior of the building was artistically decorated and presented a neat appearance with its sales tables also decorated. There were many useful and fancy articles on sale and the tables were well patronized during the evening.

The exercises opened at seven o'clock. An entertainment was given which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present, the program being as follows:

Tenor solos, Harry Hopkins; piano and violin duet, John Stott and daughter, Miss Sarah E. Stott; readings, Miss Grace Hull; Scotch songs, Robert Beaton; whistling solo, William Corr; readings, Maurice O'Donnell; bass solo, John T. Stott; Miss Etta Hoar, accompanist. The fair will continue on Saturday evening, when the entertainment will be provided by the following: H. E. Whitney, Mrs. J. S. Sonson, George Hurst, John T. and Miss Sarah E. Stott, and the boys of the school.

trusted to their care and the causes of their peculations have been traced to the betting mania.

The movement for the control of lotteries and betting is growing, but there is no immediate prospect of its success. The government gains a considerable income from both lotteries and race-track betting, and as there has been a deficiency in the state budget for the last few years, any attempt to sweep away this source of revenue will meet with strong opposition.

Never before in the history of the Danish theatre has business been so bad as during the last main season. Lately the old Casino theatre was obliged to close and the new manager was compelled to resign. The staff is trying to continue the season by playing a co-operative house. Their theatres with the exception of the Royal Opera and the Norrebro theatre, which is managed by the popular parody actor, Frederik Jensen, would also be playing to empty seats did they not give out large numbers of complimentary tickets every night.

The managers ascribe the lack of attendance to the new tax on theatre tickets, but the real reason probably lies deeper. A large number of former theatre patrons cannot afford to attend on account of the prevailing hard times and the increased cost of living. Another reason is the change of dramatic tastes lately supplied to Danish audiences. The people are growing weary of plays which contain interminable discussions about socialism, strikes and woman suffrage. The theatre patrons get enough of these discussions in their newspapers and at meetings.

The most successful plays of the season have their settings 50 or 70 years back, when the nervous tension was not so great as it is today. The final reason is one which has caused world-wide losses to the theatre and is the growing popularity of the moving picture shows.

G. A. O'Reilly, who is an official of the government of the Philippine islands, has just finished a six weeks tour of Denmark which he made for the purpose of studying agricultural and industrial conditions. He was greatly impressed with the agricultural progress of Denmark and expressed his surprise that in this country there is no question that farming pays. The investigator expressed the belief that this result had been brought about by the co-operative system among farmers, the sympathy between these co-operative unions and the department of agriculture, and the scientific handling of agricultural problems by the department.

Another feature of agriculture which impressed Mr. O'Reilly was the regulation and control of the milk, butter and egg supply of the country. He considers that this system is responsible in a large measure for the health of the Danish people and for the high reputation of these products in the foreign markets.

The poverty of Danish orchards and the lack of handicrafts in the country were the only points which seem to have impressed the investigator unfavorably.

Mr. O'Reilly will visit other countries in Europe and on his return to the Philippines he will endeavor to make practical use of some of his observations for the improvement of agricultural and industrial methods there.

The vocal journalist is the latest novelty in Copenhagen and he is becoming a popular feature at festive exhibitions and other entertainments. He is also seen and heard at fashionable cafes and restaurants where he delivers the news with comment during the lunch pauses.

The owner of one of the largest hotels here has developed the idea further, and in the palm court of the hotel, after each theatrical fire night, the vocal journalist will criticize the performance.

SKETCHES OF CANDIDATES

READ THE RECORDS

Who They Are Who Appeal to the Public for Election

The Sun presents today brief sketches of all the candidates on the ballot. Some of the sketches are particularly brief, through no fault of The Sun, as a letter was sent to each one asking him to send in some facts concerning himself. The candidates were not asked what facts they put, nor how they voted on the charter. Some of them did not respond to The Sun's request and hence the curtailed reference to them. Care has been taken to have the sketches accurate and as far as possible fair to all concerned, in order that the voters may thus be assisted in selecting the best candidates.

Michael A. Lee Candidate For ALDERMAN

TO THE VOTERS OF LOWELL

In the recent campaign for the adoption of the new charter I went firmly on record as in favor of the new system. My action was criticized by some of the labor element who were opposed to its adoption. I respectfully place my candidacy before the people for their consideration next Tuesday. I have consistently argued for the charter since the start, firmly believing that through its instrumentality the city of Lowell will derive far greater benefits than under the old system. I believe also that the man who is in sympathy with the system can do better work than he who is, or has been, opposed to it.

MICHAEL A. LEE,
22 Bartlett St.

Chelmsford, but came to Lowell in childhood and was educated in the local schools. Upon completing his studies he entered business with his father and shortly became a member of the well known firm of James E. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers. BOY FOUND GUILTY

He Was Charged With Assault With Dangerous Weapon

Hollis W. Chapman, aged 15 years, and residing at Dunstable, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in the juvenile session of the police court yesterday on a complaint charging him with assault with a dangerous weapon, it being alleged that he fired a charge of shot at an automobile driven by Charles Tully. During the course of the testimony it was brought out that there is a sort of a feud between the Chapman and the Tullys. The court after considering the evidence in the case found the defendant guilty and placed him in the hands of the probation officer.

Mr. Tully transports children to and from school in his automobile, he being hired by the town authorities. Last Friday afternoon, it is alleged that while he was driving through one of the roads in the vicinity of a brook a man was discharged and about a dozen shots perforated the side of his auto. He made an investigation of the surrounding premises and located Chapman who, he says, admitted that he had fired a shot, but said he was aiming at a shell in the brook.

The police of the town were notified and the arrest of Chapman followed. Mr. Tully, while on the stand, said that there was a bitter feeling on the part of the Chapmans and when the defense was put on it was said that Mr. Tully had a personal feeling against the boy as well as the parents.

Mr. Tully claimed that the shooting was deliberate on the part of Chapman, while on the other hand Chapman stuck to the story that he was shooting at a shell in the brook and had no intention of harming Mr. Tully. Several witnesses for the government testified that the Chapman boy had been expelled from school, but Chapman in explaining the incident said he was not expelled from school but was told that he would have to see the head school committee before returning. He said some boys had been placing cartridges in the furnace in the basement for the purpose of having some fun when they went off and on one occasion he was in the basement with several boys and that the boys took turns in throwing water into the fire causing the ashes to fly out through the door accompanied by a volume of smoke. He denied throwing water in the furnace but said he had opened the door to see if the water had extinguished the fire.

Judge Hadley in summing up the evidence said that he felt the boy intended to shoot Mr. Tully, but owing to his age and inasmuch as it might prove a lesson, he ordered him placed on probation for one year.

Smoke Inspector Hollowood has been in conference with the Electric Light and Gas commissioners relative to a special ordinance to govern the emission of smoke by railroad engines in Lowell. The provisions of the smoke law as adopted by the city council except locomotive engines. In Boston they have a special ordinance for locomotive engines and Mr. Hollowood thinks Lowell should have a special ordinance, too. He expects to hear from the commission within a few days.

STANLEY COMMITTEE WILL SUBPOENA THE REV. F. T. GATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The Rev. Frederick T. Gates, for a long time in charge of the charitable work of John D. Rockefeller, will be subpoenaed to appear before the Stanley committee that is conducting the inquiry into the trust. He will be questioned concerning the charges made by the Merritt Bros. that he aided the oil magnate in squeezing the Merritts out of railroad property worth more than $6,000,000. Mr. Rockefeller has issued a statement denying the charges, but Mr. Gates has so far remained silent.

THE MEDINA OFF FOR INDIA

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Two new P. and O. liners commandeered to convey King George and Queen Mary and their party to India are now enroute to that faraway country. The king and queen and their immediate suite are aboard the Medina, which was entirely refitted for them. The rest of the party are traveling in the Medina's sister ship, the Maloja. The king and queen traveled in a special train from London to Portsmouth, where they boarded the Medina.

CHAPLAIN FARRAR

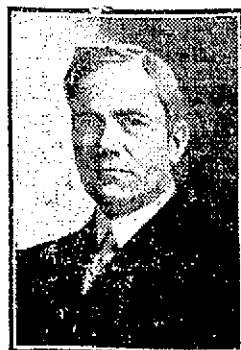

Has Been Sent Into Exile by King

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Rev. P. Percival Farrar, whose appointment as private chaplain to the king and queen was recently canceled, has left England. No warrant was issued for him, as there was no desire to air the unprintable charge made and proved against the younger son of Dean Farrar. He was merely brought to Lon-

CAPTAINS OF CORNELL AND PENNSYLVANIA ELEVEN READY TO CLASH

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Cornell will meet its ancient rival and foe, the ginger and dash shown as the men Pennsylvania, on the gridiron here on Thanksgiving day in the final big game of the season. Penn is ruling an odds-on favorite for the battle, but the Ithaca men say that wearers of the Blue and Red are in for a big surprise. The most pleasing feature of Cornell's playing during the past two weeks is the ginger and dash shown as the men get under way. Up to the Michigan game they played streaky football, but in that contest they played with dash, speed and light all through. Captain Mercer of Penn will be at fullback, while Captain Manks of Cornell, who was injured recently, will be at guard.

Fire in Printing Office at Pawtucket

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 25.—Fire broke out last night in the job printing office of the Parker Luthier company on Main street. Two alarms were sounded and the fire was extinguished in about an hour with an estimated total damage of $10,000, covered by insurance.

The building was not damaged seriously, but the Parker Luthier company was a heavy loser, and others who suffered principally from water were Kennedy, Gough & Murray, grocers; E. P. Gately & Co., dry goods and clothing; the Flexible Veneer company and several labor unions, who had rooms on the second and third floors. On the third floor is the hall of the Pawtucket Association of Stationary Engineers, and they were heavy losers.

The origin of the fire is not known. In the early stages of the fire a six-way hydrant burst, throwing up a large section of the sidewalk and adding to the excitement.

At that particular moment, Steve added, the bull was practicing on the wire fence surrounding a henyard, but when his bullship spotted Steve, the latter, armed with a big club, he (the bull) turned and chased Steve, catching him with his horns.

Then, says Steve, followed a scene something like the pictures of the Spanish bullfights, with Steve as couchant and the bull militant and finally triumphant. The bull got Steve against the house and might have killed him had not neighbors come to his rescue.

HOTEL KEEPER FINED

He Was Charged With Illegal Sale of Liquor

Hugh Ferguson, licensee and proprietor of the St. James hotel in Middlesex street, was fined $50 by Judge Hadley in police court this morning, after finding him guilty of the illegal sale of liquor. According to the testimony offered by two supernumeraries of the police department, they visited the hotel on Sunday, Oct. 22nd, and were served liquor without first ordering food. Lawyer Thomas J. Enright appeared for the defendant and the government's case was conducted by Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department.

The first witness for the government was William G. Lee, a supernumerary in the police department. In answer to questions asked by Supt. Welch, the witness said he visited the St. James hotel at about 1 o'clock on Sunday, Oct. 22. Charles C. Wallace, also a supernumerary, was with Officer Lee. Witness said: "When we reached the hotel we entered the dining room and I ordered a bottle of ginger beer and a bottle of green label lager beer. We gave no other order. When the waiter came he brought me a plate of beans and placed a plate of soup in front of Officer Lee. We did not order any food. I paid 20 cents to the waiter for the drinks. There were about a dozen or fifteen people in the room at the time."

Cross examined by Lawyer Enright, the witness answered: "I was appointed a member of the police department in May of this year. I am not doing regular police duty. I work in the mill except when called upon to do special work."

After testifying at the police station at 10 o'clock on the morning in question, and left about 10:20 o'clock. I was instructed to go out and visit hotels, and we were given money with which to make purchases in order to secure evidence of illegal sales."

After leaving the police station we went first to the Park hotel, where I ordered a bottle of beer and tasted it. Officer Wallace also ordered beer and tasted it.

"We then visited the Merrimack house, where we had beer. Each of us tasted the beer. We then went to the St. James hotel."

"Were the beans hot?" the witness was asked.

"I don't know," was the answer.

"You didn't taste them?"

Officer Wallace

Charles C. Wallace, also a supernumerary, was the next witness called, and his testimony was in corroboration of that offered by Officer Lee.

The Defense

Hugh Ferguson, proprietor of the St. James hotel and defendant in the case, testified that he resides in the hotel and was around the premises all day Sunday, October 22. He spent the greater part of the day near the door in order to prevent intoxicated or objectionable persons from frequenting the premises. Witness said that his attention had been called to the two officers as they left the place, one of his clerks telling him that the men were supernumeraries.

Mr. Ferguson testified that he had warned his clerks not to serve liquor to minors or intoxicated persons or to people who did not first call for food.

He further said that no beans had ever been served in that dining-room on Sundays since he had been conducting the hotel. As for the bottle of ginger ale which Officer Lee ordered and received, Mr. Ferguson said that ginger ale was served by the glass and not by the bottle and that the price for a bottle was five and not ten cents.

Michael R. Haggerty, a waiter at the hotel, said that on the day of the alleged illegal sale the officers entered the dining room and Mr. Lee ordered a bottle of beer. Witness said he walked away and refused to serve the drinks. The two men then walked out. After they left the place he said he told Mr. Ferguson that he thought they were two supernumeraries. Questioned by the court as to why he thought they were supernumeraries the witness said that he was suspicious owing to the manner in which they acted. He further said that neither of the men was served with either food or drink.

Witness said that he had been instructed not to serve drink to any person who did not first ask for food.

"If a person came in and ordered a glass of beer and a bottle of dinner, calling for the beer first, wouldn't you serve that man?" asked Judge Hadley.

"No, sir."

"Why not?"

"Because a person has got to order food first."

"Is that the way you do business there?"

"Those are my orders."

Sharron Testifies

Edmund Sharron, also a waiter at the St. James hotel, said he did not remember seeing either Officers Lee or Wallace at the hotel on the 22nd of October. If he served them on that day he could not recall it. He corroborated the testimony of the preceding witnesses that there were no beans served at the hotel and that ginger ale is served in glasses and not by the bottle.

John McArthur, assistant cook, testified that beans were not served at the hotel on a Sunday, also that all the food that is served in the dining-rooms passes through his hands.

Ferdinand Bachard, who drives a bottling team, was called and testified that he supplied the St. James hotel with ginger ale and that all of the bottles were large ones, known as 16 ounce bottles.

Officer Wallace was recalled and said he was positive that Sharron was the man who served him and Officer Lee, and also that Sharron placed a plate of beans before Officer Lee.

Officer Lee upon being recalled said that he was served a small bottle of ginger beer, but did not taste the contents. A plate of beans was placed in front of him. He said the beans were black and looked as though they were old.

Lawyer Enright made a brief argument after which the court found Mr. Ferguson guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $50. He appealed and was held under $500 bonds for the superior court.

Smashed in a Door

Michael J. Turner was arrested in Webster street about 11:30 o'clock last night and sent to the police station where he was booked for drunkenness.

The arresting officer said that the man was under the influence of liquor and when he arrived on the scene he said Turner was throwing bricks through the door of the boarding house.

The quick response of the firemen of Engine 5, who had been called by telephone, saved the building from entire destruction, but three rooms were entirely gutted and the damage is quite heavy.

Mr. Louis E. Mercier, who conducts a potato chip factory at 141 East Meadow road, called at the police station this morning and related the following story: "I went to Lawrence yesterday, as it is my custom every Friday, and returned on the last car from the down-river city. In company with my neighbor, Mr. Albert St. Denis, I boarded the 11:15 o'clock electric for Moody street, arriving home at about 12 o'clock. When I entered my house my two dogs, one of which is a big mastiff animal, were rather noisy. I ordered them to lie down and then I went to the stable to feed my horse. When I returned I heard a noise in the front room and, taking a lamp, I went into the apartment to see what the trouble was. I had no more than reached the porch when I was struck in the back and thrown to the floor, and there stood two men before me. One of them was very robust, weighing about 150 pounds. The other could not distinguish. The two men jumped on me, tied my hands behind my back and my legs firmly and gagged me. They went through my pockets and robbed me of $32 and before they left one stabbed me in the region of the heart. The knife went through my coat and vest and through a memorandum book in my vest pocket but the sharp blade stopped on a steel potato cutter which by chance was in my back. The men then departed, closing the door behind them."

"I tried to yell for help, but my efforts were fruitless on account of the gag over my mouth. Then I rolled as far as the kitchen door, which was bolted, and raising myself on my knees, I managed after a lot of work to push the bolt with my chin. I then pushed the door open with my head and rolled on the hard ground as far as my neighbor's house, where the ropes and gag were removed."

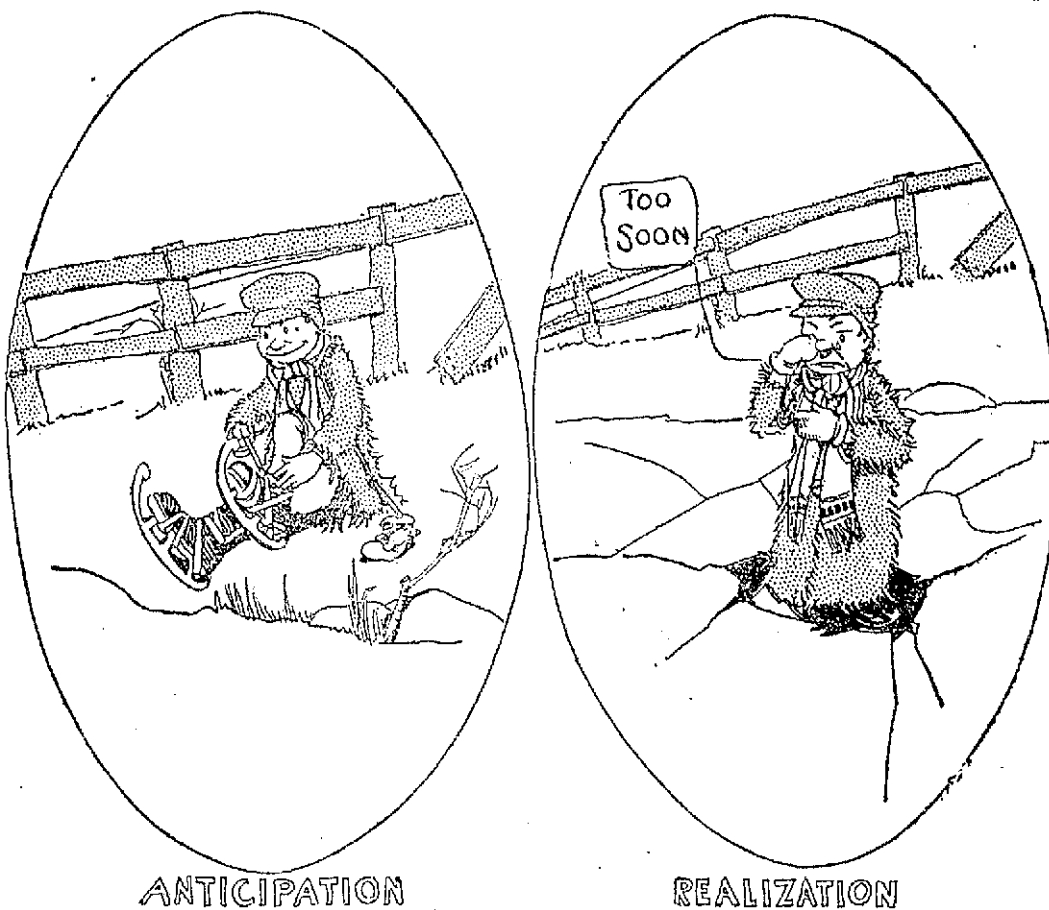

Neighbor Saw Flames

"My neighbor, Mr. St. Denis then saw the flames coming out of my house and he immediately went to another neighbor's, Mr. J. A. Ferron, and telephoned to Engine 5 of Marmouth road. I am not sure whether the fire was set by the two men, or whether it started when I dropped my lamp when I was struck."

When questioned about his dogs as to where they were and what they were doing during the scuffle, Mr. Mercier answered that his dogs were very obedient and when they were told to lie down, they did and remained there. He also stated there is a mortgage of $500 on his house held by the Co-operative bank.

Mrs. St. Denis, when interviewed, by a Sun reporter this morning said that at nine o'clock last night she heard a noise around the Mercier house and also heard the dogs barking. The next she knew of the affair is that at about 11:15 o'clock this morning she was awakened by a soft ring at the front door. She went to the door and when she opened it, Mr. Mercier fell headlong in the hallway. He was bound and gagged and senseless. Ten minutes later he revived and told her precisely the same story he told the police. The woman untied the ropes and while her husband pulled the gag away

A DARING HOLD-UP

Man Robbed and House Was Set on Fire

One of the boldest holdups in the history of this city was committed early this morning in Pawtucketville, when Louis E. Mercier, according to his own story, was bound and gagged in his own house by two unknown men, who robbed him of $32 and set the house on fire. Mercier, however, managed to unholt the door with his chin and roll out as far as the next neighbor's house and there give the alarm. The quick response of the firemen of Engine 5, who had been called by telephone, saved the building from entire destruction, but three rooms were entirely gutted and the damage is quite heavy.

Mr. Louis E. Mercier, who conducts a potato chip factory at 141 East Meadow road, called at the police station this morning and related the following story: "I went to Lawrence yesterday, as it is my custom every Friday, and returned on the last car from the down-river city. I then pushed the door open with my head and rolled on the hard ground as far as my neighbor's house, where the ropes and gag were removed."

Neighbor Saw Flames

"My neighbor, Mr. St. Denis then saw the flames coming out of my house and he immediately went to another neighbor's, Mr. J. A. Ferron, and telephoned to Engine 5 of Marmouth road. I am not sure whether the fire was set by the two men, or whether it started when I dropped my lamp when I was struck."

The next she knew of the affair is that at about 11:15 o'clock this morning she was awakened by a soft ring at the front door. She went to the door and when she opened it, Mr. Mercier fell headlong in the hallway. He was bound and gagged and senseless. Ten minutes later he revived and told her precisely the same story he told the police. The woman untied the ropes and while her husband pulled the gag away and went out to telephone for the fire apparatus.

A Mass of Flames

Capt. Bartlett said he received a telephone alarm at 2:32 this morning, and when he and his men arrived on the scene, one end of the Mercier house was a mass of flames, while the other was almost in a frantic spell. After some time the lively blaze was extinguished, but not before it had consumed three rooms, the parlor, sitting room and bedroom on the second floor. The roof and outside of the house is badly damaged, while the contents of these three rooms, including a valuable collection of books and a hurdy-gurdy, were entirely destroyed.

Mercier was examined at the police station by Dr. Forster H. Smith, but the latter failed to find any injuries, with the exception of a slight swelling on the head.

Mr. Mercier is a very unlucky man, for this is the third time his place has been burned within a few years. A little over a year ago the house was burned to the ground and an aged man lost his life in the fire.

Arrangements for the annual reunion of the Sacred Heart parish will be held next week are progressing rapidly. The affair will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. A special program will be given each night. On Wednesday the program will be under the direction of John Kelly, organist at the church. The program will embrace vocal selections by James E. Donnelly, John McMahon, Miss Frances Tighe, Glendale quartet and others.

On Thursday evening a minstrel show, under the direction of Henry Curry, will be given. A rehearsal of the minstrel troupe will be held in the school hall tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Friday evening the entertainment will be furnished by performers from Keith's and the Merrimack Square theatres, and on Saturday evening a professional performance will also be given.

Thursday and Saturday afternoon, entertainment will be given for the children.

And now the school janitors it would appear following the example of the police are out for an increase of pay and it is said will put the matter up to the members of the school board at their meeting on Monday evening. The case of the janitors, nearly all of the members of the board being candidates for reelection under the new charter. The members of the school board would like to have the matter put over until the next city government but from what report states the janitors insist that they must declare themselves before the canvass. These day is the regular meeting night of the board but on account of the canvass it was decided to hold the meeting on some other night. Some of the members favored Wednesday for the meeting but again it is understood the janitors interposed with the result that the meeting will be held on Monday evening. The janitors want an increase of 25 cents per day. It is alleged that the janitors will work against every member of the school board who votes against the increase.

The pay of the janitors at present ranges from $2.15 per day to $2.50 per day. For six months they receive pay for seven days per week and the other six for six days per week. Some get extra pay for nightwork. Without going into the merits of the janitors' claim for an increase, The Sun would say as it has said in reference to the demand of the police officers for higher wages, that this matter should be left to the school board to be elected under the new charter. It remains to be seen whether the school board will bow to the dictation of the janitors in this matter. There are about eighty janitors in the city.

A LOVING CUP

Presented to Thomas McNamee by Friends

Mr. Thomas McNamee, the genial manager of the "Hamilton Restaurant," for 12 years, and known to hundreds of patrons as just plain "Tom," has severed his connection with the establishment, to accept a lucrative position elsewhere. Just to show their appreciation of Mr. McNamee's many good qualities, the employees at the restaurant and a few friends, subscribed a substantial amount, and presented Mr. McNamee with a handsome loving cup, 18 inches in height. Mr. McNamee responded, feelingly expressing his thanks for the beautiful gift.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS

A very pleasant gathering was held at the home of Mr. Harry Lyons, on Wednesday evening at 86 Washington street, where he entertained a party of his friends. During the evening games were enjoyed and a fine musical program was carried out, which included: Vocal selections by the "Jolly Seven," Peter Quinn, Joseph Quinn, Ambrose Ready, Thomas W. Baxter, Martel Harrington, Harry Lyons and Thomas J. Baxter; readings, Misses Lawless and Connelly; piano solo, Misses Gertrude Beardon, Florence Lyons and Gertrude Cooney. Refreshments were served and the party dispersed at a seasonable hour, all thanking the host for an exceptionally good time.

Over-Worked Girls

Read What This Girl Says:

Appleton, Wis. — "I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sickly for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured. I think it is the best medicine in existence." — Miss Cecelia M. Bayer, 1161 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

THIS GIRL SAYS IT IS WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND:

Chicago, Ill. — "Your Compound cured all my troubles and I am feeling strong and happy and able to work now. Wherever I go I shall praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I think it is woman's best friend. I have told all my friends the good it has done me." — Miss Maggie Isbauer, 2418 So. Whipple Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Lorimer, Iowa. — "I had a heavy cold in the spring and got all run down and was irregular. I had no strength and had bearing down pains in my sides and back, and was very nervous and excitable. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am all right again, and stronger than before." — Miss I. E. Williams, Lorimer, Iowa.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there is lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

The testimonials which are constantly being published in the Pinkham advertisements are guaranteed to be absolutely genuine, honest, and given without reward in any way whatever.

A LARGE CONTRACT Was Awarded to the Massachusetts Mills

A contract for 1,000,000 yards of uniform drab cloth for Uncle Sam's navy has been awarded the Massachusetts Mills of this city. The bids were opened at Philadelphia this week and the Lowell concern was awarded the contract.

This is the second big contract for the uniform drab that the Massachusetts Mills have received from the United States government. The last contract was divided between the Massachusetts and one other mill, but in this instance the Massachusetts gets the full contract.

There are but few mills in a position to take an order of this kind and the work done by the Massachusetts Mills on the last contract was said to be of the most satisfactory, a fact that may have had considerable to do with the present award.

TO HAVE NEW TRIAL

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 25.—Harry Wilson of Digby, convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged, is to have a new trial. The full bench of the supreme court so ruled today. The case came before the court on exceptions, claiming that the jury should have been further instructed by the trial judge as to what could constitute a charge of manslaughter.

Spencer's Crime

The crime for which Bertram G. Spencer was found guilty today was the murder of Miss Martha Blackstone by shooting on the night of March 13, 1910. On that evening Miss Blackstone, who was a schoolteacher of this city, was visiting at the home of Mrs. Sarah Dow and with Mrs. Dow and her two daughters, Misses Lucy J. and Harriet, was putting together a picture puzzle when a masked man with a leveled revolver walked into the room and demanded money. The woman screamed and started to run. The masked figure demanded of them to stop and as the women did not heed he discharged his revolver, one shot entering Miss Blackstone's heart and the other entering Miss Harriet Dow's head, causing a fracture of the skull, from which she has since recovered. The burglar then fled, leaving no clue behind him.

The crime came as a climax to a series of cold robberies that had terrorized Springfield for nearly two years. Always there was the cry of a masked man with a leveled revolver. Sometimes in a pleasant voice, if he met with no opposition, he would sit down and chat with the victims he was robbing. At the slightest sign of fear or resistance, however, he would flash his revolver and threaten to shoot.

THEATRE VOYONS

Tonight will be the last of the showing of "The Fisherman of Ballydoyle" at the Theatre Voyons, and to those who are interested in this series of motion pictures photographed in Ireland it should appeal most strongly. Tomorrow a pleasing program will be given featuring an Acropolis Entertainment, a Vitagraph triumph. On Monday one of the features will be the first of the Vitagraph western pictures made in the far west and with a cast which includes Eagle Eye, a full blooded Indian, Cain and Abel, a biblical reproduction and a most interesting Lubin complete well balanced program.

FUNERALS

LEACH—The funeral services of Viola M. Leach were held Wednesday afternoon at her home at 1 Cortes street, Boston, and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Charles Gray spoke in a most beautiful manner, telling of her loving disposition and her wonderful capacity for making friends. On all sides was apparent the sorrow for the deceased and sympathy for the bereaved mother. There was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes, including the following: Two large bouquets from father and mother; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Cheney, Albany, Vermont; chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. McGuire of Haverhill, Vt.; carnations, Mrs. Forest; carnations, Victoria Martin; roses, and chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Marquardt; carnations, A. J. Cowan; sprays of chrysanthemums, Mrs. Strong, Mrs. Tuell, Mr. and Mrs. John Charney, Mrs. Cutting and Florence of Lowell; carnations, Viola Webber; wreath of white roses, J. P. Brooks; spray pinks, Miss LaCroix, also one from A. H. Cowan; beautiful wreath, Rutland Sanatorium; spray roses, Mr. and Mrs. Howard of Lowell; white roses, Mr. and Mrs. Sack of Cambridge; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, Mrs. Lothrop, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lovejoy, Mrs. F. Smith, Rena Rathbun and Mr. and Mrs. Grand; spray of roses, Dorothy Hickey; chrysanthemums, Alice Dow; roses, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lovejoy; sprays of lavender and white chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, Cambridge. The arrangements were under the direction of Undertaker Eastman and burial was at Forest Hills cemetery.

LORD—The funeral of May Lord took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her home, 117 Willie street, Rev. Asa R. Ditts officiating. The bearers were Messrs. John Noyes, William Fowler, Matthew Powers and George Lerche. There were many beautiful floral tributes, including the following: Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lord; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Bethwick and family; spray, Alice Gray; spray, Mr. Edward Powers; basket, Mr. and Mrs. Powers; spray, Mrs. McCouillard; spray, Mrs. McBride. Burial was in the Westlawn cemetery in charge of Undertaker John A. Weinbeck.

LEAHY—All that was mortal of the late Lillie Leahy was tenderly consigned to its final resting place in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery this morning in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends, who by their presence gave evidence of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The funeral departed from the home of Mrs. William Pearson, 15 London street, at eight o'clock, and proceeded to the church of the Immaculate Conception, where at nine o'clock a funeral high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe, O. M. I., pastor of the church. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Charles P. Smith, rendered the Gregorian chant, and the organist, Mrs. Hugh Walker, played the requiem march from Chopin. At the offertory Mrs. Walker rendered "Domine Jesu Christ" and after the elevation Miss Elizabeth McKernan sang "O Meritum Passionis" and as the remains were being taken from the church the choir rendered "De Profundis" solos being sustained by Mr. Charles P. Smith. After the services the funeral procession wended its way to the Catholic cemetery, where the body was tenderly laid to rest.

Among the floral offerings were the following: Mammouth pillow of roses, carnations and baby's breath, with inscription "Lala," from the nieces and nieces; a mammouth crescent on base with large white dove surrounded by chrysanthemums and violets with white ribbon, inscribed "Shoppers," from the weavers department of the Prescott mills; mammouth spray of carnations, Mrs. Sophia Pearson and family; spray of yellow chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pearson; spray of roses and chrysanthemums with ribbon inscribed "At Rest," sympathy of Miss Anna Quinn; spray of white roses, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quinn; large spray of yellow chrysanthemums, Miss Nellie Kelley. The casket was borne by the following: Mr. William Pearson, Mr. Charles Pearson, Mr. Alfred Pearson, Mr. Peter Quinn, Mr. Thomas Fitzpatrick, Mr. Thomas Hart, who also acted as ushers at the home and church. Present at the funeral were relatives and friends from Boston, Lawrence, Cambridge and Goshen, Vt. The funeral arrangements and burial were under the direction of Undertaker John A. Finnegan.

CORRIGAN—The funeral of Miss Mary Corrigan took place this morning at 8:30 from the home of her sister, Mrs. Patrick Rourke, rear of 646 North Main st., and proceeded to St. Peter's church, past of the High Street Congregational church, who read the committal prayers and delivered the eulogy. There was a large number of floral offerings from friends of the bereaved family. The funeral arrangements and burial were under the direction of Undertaker John A. Finnegan.

SPENCER GUILTY

Jury Convicted Him of Murder in the First Degree

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 25.—Bertram Spencer, Springfield's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," was found guilty at 3.10 a. m. today of the murder in the first degree of Miss Martha B. Blackstone, a school teacher. Spencer, whose violent outbreaks have been unprecedented in Massachusetts judicial history, received the verdict without emotion.

None of his family was with him at the time. Spencer's young wife and his sister, who had been with him all evening, remained in an adjoining room at the request of the court officers, who feared an outbreak on the part of the prisoner. Mrs. Spencer almost collapsed when word of the verdict was brought to her, but she quickly revived and went into the courtroom again, where she greeted her husband calmly, conversed with him a few moments and went through the ordeal of parting without any demonstration being made on the part of either husband or wife.

Despite the lateness of the hour, the courtroom was crowded and hundreds of persons waited outside but there was no excitement evidenced. The closing scene of the trial from the time the jury returned with the verdict until the adjournment took but a few moments. No motions or statements were made by counsel and no date was set for sentence, which in this state is death by electrocution.

Unmarked as the final hours of the trial were by an emotional display, there was an atmosphere of dramatic intensity in the courtroom during the view toward the men who were to decide his fate.

Clerk Callahan asked of the foreman of the jury, Lewis Spoor, if a verdict had been reached. At the quiet, "Yes," Spencer looked up quickly and then averted his gaze. The court asked what the verdict was. In a clear, firm tone Foreman Spoor announced:

"Guilty of murder in the first degree."

Spencer did not change color or waver in the least. His eyes blinked steadily ahead. He did not seem to comprehend it, so simply had his fate been announced.

Notified by his guards that he might sit down he resumed his seat. Some of the court attendants came up to shake his hand and offer their sympathy and he merely nodded. When his wife was brought to him he talked to her in an easy, self-controlled manner.

followed five minutes later by the Blue team. The Harvard undergraduate cheer for Captain Howe. The Blues returned the compliment with cheers for Captain Fisher of Harvard.

Just before the teams lined up it was announced that Gardner would start at the quarterback for Harvard in place of Potter.

The game started at 2 p. m.

Smith kicked off out of bounds on Yale's 50 yard line. On the first down Camp made nine yards round Harvard's right end on a fake kick. Camp kicked on the first down and the ball got away from the Harvard backfield. It was Yale's ball on Harvard's 17 yard line. Spaulding made four yards through center. In a wing shift Philbin made four more. Howe drew back for a goal from the field. There was a poor pass and the ball went to Harvard on Harvard's 15 yard line. The play was on Harvard's 15 yard line. Yale had made two yards and Yale had five yards for interference in the center.

team was on the defensive. Both got inside the other's ten yard line but could not score. The Yale backfield seemed more uncertain than the Crimson. Gallahue took Paul's place at tackle for Yale. Play was resumed with the ball on Harvard's 38 yard line. Potter dropped back for a goal from the field but missed it by half a yard. The ball was brought out and given to Yale on her 25 yard line. On a western shift Hitchcock broke through and three Spaulding for a loss. Camp on a fake kick gained a yard and kicked on the next down. The ball went out of bounds on Yale's 45 yard line, where the ball went to Harvard.

Yale's Quick Recovery

Potter kicked immediately and although there was a Yale fumble the Blue recovered the ball on their 25 yard line. On a double pass Camp made a yard and then came another western shift with Camp carrying the ball, but Harvard broke it up. Camp kicked to the center of the field and although Campbell made a good runback the field was so slippery that he fell down after making ten yards. It was Harvard's ball on Yale's 25 yard line. Reynolds took Campbell's place at left halfback for Harvard.

tackled for no gain. On the favorite western shift Philbin gained a yard and then Yale tried a forward pass. The play did not come off and Yale still had the ball.

Philbin's Great Run

Camp received the ball on a poor kick and hurried in. There was a scramble but the ball went to Harvard on her own 15 yard line. Harmons were about even between Harvard and Yale in the first two periods. In the first period each team was within seven yards of the other's goal line. Yale failed in a goal from the field because of a poor pass. Harvard tried to make a touchdown close under Yale's goal Yale's 35 yard line. Three attempts at Yale by wing shafts failed to gain. Then there came a delay on Hitchcock's injury.

Almost a Goal

Howe dropped back to Yale's 35 yard line for a goal from the field. The ball missed the post by ten yards and was brought out and given to Harvard on their 25 yard line. On a double pass Reynolds was thrown back for a loss of four yards. After Wendell had made six yards Harvard kicked to Yale's 15 yard line, where there was a fair catch. Howe's 25 yard line Philbin gave Yale a first down on Har-

The Final Period

Camp started the play by kicking out of bounds on Yale's 25 yard line where the ball went to Harvard. On the first rush there was holding on the Harvard line and the ball went back to Yale's 38 yard line. There was a long delay while Smith was fixed up. There was 12 minutes to play in the last period and the ball was in Harvard's possession on Yale's 38 yard line. Harvard tried a forward pass but Howe caught it. The ball was Yale's on their 30 yard line. Freeman took Spaulding's place. Then Howe kicked out of bounds on Yale's 25 yard line. The play for the third period ended with the ball in Yale's possession on their own ten yard line. Subs went into each line in drives at the beginning of the last period.

A Beautiful Recovery

Then Harvard kicked to Howe in the middle of the field, where after much fumbling the ball went to Yale. Howe tried an onside kick but Smith recovered it beautifully and it was Harvard's ball on their own 45 yard line. On a fake kick Reynolds made 13 yards. The ball was once more in Yale's territory. Reynolds went through for six yards. Then on a fake forward pass Smith made it a first down on Yale's 15 yard line.

On three rushes Harvard had carried the ball 25 yards. Reynolds made five yards through center and the ball was now on Yale's 25 yard line. There was a pickup and Yale was penalized five yards for interference, giving the ball to Harvard on Yale's 35 yard line. It developed, however, that there was no interference and the penalty was taken off. It was Harvard's ball on Yale's 45 yard line. Reynolds made four yards through center. On a delayed pass Wendell placed the ball on Yale's 31 yard line, where it was a first down for Harvard. Reynolds could not gain in a drive at center. Dunn went in for Philbin for Yale. Harvard tried a forward pass but it had to be taken back.

Potter tried a goal from the field, standing on Yale's 40 yard line, but missed it by 15 yards. The ball was taken out and given to Yale on the 25 yard line. Time was very short. Howe tried to run from a fake kick formation and got four yards. He immediately kicked to the center of the field, where the ball went to Harvard. Reynolds could gain on the first rush. Felton then kicked to Yale's 25 yard line and the ball was run back five yards. The play ended with the ball in Yale's possession on their 32 yard line.

Final score: Harvard 0, Yale 0.

WALTER CAMP, JR., PROVES TO BE A CHIP OF THE OLD BLOCK

a forward pass but the ball went to Yale on their five yard line. In the second half a 35 yard run by Philbin was the feature. The play, however, in this half was almost entirely between the 10 yard lines.

Play was resumed with Harvard kicking off to Yale's four yard line, where the ball went out of bounds. Yale tried a tremendous long forward pass with Avery 20 yards away on the other side of the field and as the ball fell to the ground it was taken back to the four yard line and the play repeated. Camp kicked to Reynolds, who fumbled, and Yale got the ball on their 38 yard yard line. Camp punted a high one to the Harvard backfield, where the ball was fumbled on Yale's 45 yard line.

Short rushes by Yale with a forward pass which was incomplete and went outside gave the Harvard men the ball on their own 45 yard line. Wendell almost eluded Yale forwards, but was finally nailed and hurried back for a loss of three yards. Felton punted to Howe on Yale's 25 yard line and Yale ran it back seventeen yards before being tackled. Philbin drove through center for five yards. Camp punted on the third down to Harvard's 40 yard line. Huntington made a fair catch.

Reynolds ran half way across the field on a fake kick for a loss of five yards. Wendell reclaimed five yards and then Felton kicked to Howe for a fair catch on Yale's 15 yard line. There little more than five hours that the jury had the case under consideration. Shortly before 10 o'clock last night, after the state and the defense had completed their arguments, Judge Crosby of the superior court finished his charge and the jurors filed out. Judge Crosby awaited their return in an adjoining room. Early this morning the jury came to for instructions on three points. The first question they submitted was whether a man, if guilty of breaking and entering with intent of felony, was liable to life imprisonment or to a sentence of not less than ten years. To this the court answered that the sentence under those circumstances was life imprisonment, and that if the jurors were convinced that the accused had entered the house with intent to commit felony and had then killed, Miss Blackstone he was guilty of murder in the first degree, whether previous intent to murder had or had not been shown. The court gave the legal definition of night in which the felony must be committed in order to come within the statutes, as the time falling between one hour after sunset and one hour before dawn. It must also be proved that the door or window through which the entrance was made must have been closed, although not necessarily locked, before the crime would be termed breaking and entering. The next question was whether the jurors had the privilege of bringing in a verdict of murder in the first or second degree or acquittal by reason of insanity. The court informed them that it was their privilege to name the degree of murder as first or second degree or to announce that they had arrived at the conclusion that the prisoner was not guilty by reason of insanity. The third question concerned testimony regarding whether Spencer had entered the house in which the murder occurred through an open window or whether the window had been closed and he had opened it. The bulk of the stenographic report at this point in looking up this matter from the verbatim reports of the testimony of several witnesses and the running about of the messengers awoke the sleepy courtroom. It took some time to gather all the testimony and the jury did not retire until 2.51.

Spencer, in the meantime, had been brought into court. With him were his wife, his sister and his pastor, Rev. Eugene Smith of Lebanon, Conn. Spencer showed no sign of emotion or anxiety. When the jurors filed out he was led from the room again.

Jurors Return

At three o'clock it was announced that the jurors were ready to return. Once again Spencer was led to his seat by his guards. This time he was unaccompanied.

As the jurors marched to their seats it was noticed that not one of them cast a glance in the prisoner's direction. Each one kept his eyes fixed straight ahead and the expression of all was serious. Spencer did not glance at them. He passed his hand repeatedly over his face and rubbed his eyes, the one characteristic display of nervousness that has been noticed since the trial.

During the customary roll call of the jurors stood up but still did not

WENDALL OF HARVARD A FACTOR IN TODAY'S GAME

Felton kicked to the center of the field and there was no runback. Two rushes netted Yale but two yards and Camp kicked to Campbell on Harvard's 20 yard line. Five yards were made on the runback. It was Harvard's ball on their 25 yard line. A Yale penalty of ten yards for holding and a plunge by Wendell placed the ball on Harvard's 25 yard line. Felton kicked outside on Yale's 38 yard line.

On a wing shift Spaulding lost five yards and Camp immediately kicked to Campbell on Harvard's 50 yard line. Five yards were gained in the runback and the ball was in the center of the field in Harvard's possession. A fake kick and run by Campbell and a quarterback run by Gardner netted seven yards for the Crimson. Howe caught Campbell's punt and ran the ball back five yards to Yale's 25 yard line. Camp kicked on the first down and it was again Harvard's ball in the middle of the field. Campbell made six yards through center and then there was a pickup in the Harvard signals which resulted in the Crimson being put back five yards, further delaying the game. Felton kicked on the first down and the ball went over Howe's head. There was a Yale fumble and it was Harvard's ball on Yale's seven yard line. Potter went in for Gardner at Harvard's quarterback. On the first down Wendell could not gain. Potter tried a forward pass and the ball was caught by Spaulding. It was Yale's ball on her six yard line.

Bad Arm Work

Camp kicked out of bounds at Yale's 38 yard line but there was bad arm work by the Yale forwards and Yale was penalized 15 yards. This placed the ball on Yale's 22 yard line. Lore took Francis' place at left guard. At the beginning of the first period of the game Yale had the jump on Harvard and for the rest of the time the Blue

Yale Penalized Again

On a delayed pass Reynolds made six yards and added three yards more. Yale was then penalized five yards for offside play. It was Harvard's ball on Yale's 45 yard line.

Then came Harvard's first penalty, a loss of five yards for offside playing. Potter tried a forward pass but the ball went to Yale on the 29 yard line. On the next play Philbin went through a big hole in the Harvard center and ran 35 yards. He was thrown by Potter in the middle of the field. Philbin could not gain and then came another western shift. Philbin made five yards and then Yale made a clever attempt at short onside kicking. The ball did not cover the necessary 20 yards and the ball went to Harvard on her own 40 yard line. Potter kicked to Camp on Yale's 40 yard line. Then Yale tried a forward pass. It dropped on the ground and Yale still retained the ball. Camp punted to Reynolds and then Reynolds was thrown back for a loss of six yards.

Bomeiser Injured

Both sides tried rushing for one down and then kicking. The ball fluctuating about the 30 yard line. Bomeiser dislocated his right arm and Sholdon took his place. It was Yale's ball on their own 40 yard line. On a beautiful wing shift Howe made it a first down on Yale's 50 yard line.

Harvard seemed to be able to tear the famous western shift to pieces. Avery was injured and the game was delayed. Yale had the ball on their 44 yard line. Avery continued to play. Howe tried a run from a fake kick and was thrown for a loss of four yards. Camp kicked to Reynolds on Harvard's 25 yard line. Avery threw Reynolds for no gain.

Harvard kicked at once to the center of the field, where Howe was

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY

HAD A PRIVATE AUDIENCE WITH THE POPE

ROME, Nov. 25.—Pope Pius today gave a private audience to Archbishop Farley of New York. The reception was attended with considerable ceremony. Accompanied by his secretary, Rev. J. Lewis and Rev. William Murphy, the archbishop drove in a closed carriage from the Hotel Bristol to the vatican. The archbishop was conducted to the library, where the audience took place. It lasted for more than half an hour, after which the pope and the archbishop re-appeared in the library door. As they parted the pope's holiness said that he hoped to see the cardinal-designate frequently during his stay in Rome.

The exchanges in the library were quite personal but it was learned that after the archbishop had thanked the pope for honors and in the name of the Catholics whom he represented for the honor conferred on America, his holiness answered that it had ever been his desire to recognize the loyalty of Catholics in America and the worth of his visitor. Later Mr. Farley presented Rev. Fr. Murphy and Rev. Fr. Lewis to the pope.

WEDDING RECEPTION

A very pleasant reception was tendered Friday evening by Mrs. E. M. Reynolds at her home, 101 Chelmsford street, to her son, Alva Reynolds, and Mrs. Lena Campbell Reynolds, who were united in marriage last Wednesday. The happy couple received their many friends standing beneath an arch of chrysanthemums. They received from 7 to 9 o'clock, during which time Master Edward Porter presided at the piano, assisted by Mr. Richard Porter of the corner, who with a musical and literary entertainment was given as follows: piano solos, Miss Josephine Pearson, Miss Helen Conley; songs, Miss Nellie Shea, Ralph Woods, Edw. McKinley and others. Refreshments were then served. Friends were present from Washington, D. C., Boston, Worcester, New Hampshire, Lowell and North Chelmsford.

GAINED 30 POUNDS

In Wasting Diseases Your Weight Is the Index of Your Condition.

If you are suffering from lack of blood, or anemia, read this true story of the symptoms of a typical case and of its cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, as related by Miss Kathleen Lee, of Jefferson, Mass.

"Some years ago," she says, "I was run down to a mere shadow through suffering from anemia. I was sick for ten years from the time I was a young girl and was often confined to bed. My lips and ears were without a particle of color and I was pale and thin. I had an awful cough, I could not sleep at all. My appetite was poor, my eyes troubled me, there being black clouds before them and I grew very despondent. I had to give up work and was in this condition until about three years ago when I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"I was 'cared by doctors for a long time but they didn't do me a particle of good. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were recommended to me by a druggist and also by a friend who had used them with benefit. I bought three boxes and after taking them felt so much better that I kept on taking them regularly for quite a while. I couldn't be in better health than I am now and my friends often ask me what has made me look so well. I eat heartily, can do a good day's work and my nerves are strong. Since taking the pills I have increased in weight from 80 to 120 pounds."

There must be no guess work about the treatment of pale, anemic girls. Mistakes or delay in the treatment may result in such a serious impairment of their health that they will be weak and sickly during the rest of their lives. In this disease there is a loss of richness in the blood and an entire inability of the system to make good this loss without careful treatment. The most satisfactory way to give the blood the elements which it lacks is through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. A thorough, persistent trial will restore the blood to its normal richness and health.

A new edition of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free on request to any one interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box; six boxes for $2.00, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

TROLLEY EXPRESS

Boards of Trade and Business Organizations a Unit For the Trolley Express—Petition to the Railroad Commission

Lowell was well represented at the hearing before the railroad commissioners at the state house yesterday. Among the men from Lowell and vicinity in attendance were: James J. McManis, Supt. of Streets, Lowell; J. H. Murphy, of the board of trade, Col. Royal S. Ripley, Capt. John Monahan, Solomon Ford of Braintree, Senator-elect H. B. Barlow, Police Commissioner Thomas P. Bouloger, Paul Chaffin, Carl M. Phil, Manager Thomas Lees and Supt. H. E. Farrington of the Bay State Street railway. Secretary Murphy filed a number of letters from Lowell merchants while all present signed cards favoring a trolley express freight service between their respective cities, towns and Boston.

THE HEARING

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The fight of the elevated to carry baggage and freight in Boston was carried yesterday before the railroad board. The question is on the appeal of the Elevated to the board from the Boston city council, which refused to grant the franchise.

Matthew Brush of the Elevated explained that 92 cities have this right. He said that the company would run freight cars and would not interfere with passenger business.

Among those who spoke for the franchise were Henry Kincaide of Quincy, R. W. Freeman of Gloucester, President Butler of the Boston & Worcester, Attorney Ballantine and P. W. Wilford.

The Massachusetts branch of the Shriners society held its meeting yesterday in the Park street church and the reports of the annual meeting held in New York were read before the body. The Christmas list was also submitted to those who wish to send gifts to individuals during the Yuletide.

FINGERS CRUSHED

WOMAN INJURED IN THE HAMILTON MILLS

Nellie Scanlon, residing at 270 Lakeview avenue, had her right hand caught in a machine while at work at the Hamilton mills yesterday afternoon and three fingers were crushed. She was taken to the Lowell hospital, where her wounds were treated. On her way home from the hospital she fainted and the ambulance was summoned and she was taken to her home.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows hall. There was a large attendance and much business of importance was transacted. Sachem Edmond Crompton presided. The degree staff exemplified the sacred mysteries of the warriors' degree on one adopted warrior, Bro. C. Sutherland, in charge of electrical and mechanical effects. At the next meeting, the warriors will exhibit to the chiefs' degree. The great sachem, Theodore Edmond, has appointed Past Sachem Joseph H. McNab of Passaconaway tribe, 27, of Haverhill as our deputy.

Knights of Pythias
Wamesit lodge held its regular weekly meeting last evening, with a large attendance. The lodge worked the rank of knight on two candidates for S. H. Hines lodge. The new staff just organized performed the work for the first time in long form, and in a very creditable manner. Several matters of importance were acted upon, and preparations were made to receive Bay State lodge of Boston on their visit to Lowell on the night of Dec. 4.

SEARCH FOR BODIES ABANDONED

ELLSWORTH, Me., Nov. 25.—Green lake was so rough today the searchers were forced to abandon for the day the work of grappling for the bodies of the other three of the four men who undoubtedly were drowned Wednesday noon and of searching for trace of the second boat which is missing. The body of Deputy Sheriff Edward Finn, which was recovered near Black Island, opposite Northeast cove, was brought here today and the funeral will be held tomorrow. Finding they could not work upon the lake some of the searchers tramped through the woods to the north of Northeast cove and Camp Comfort, which was occupied by Joseph D. Clough and Arthur E. Colson, the two campers. This is principally wild land and they were taking the precaution of looking for High Sheriff Webster and the two campers in these woods, although all felt certain they were at the bottom of Green lake.

CASES OF YALE STUDENTS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 25.—The cases of eight young men, seven of whom were Yale undergraduates, arrested by the police Saturday night after a clash on the street following the disturbance in the Hyperion theatre, were called in police court today. Six cases were "nolled" at the request of the assistant city attorney while the hearing on charges of breach of the peace against Louis Bonicisor, brother of the "Varsity end," and Joseph N. Ewing, who is not a student, were continued until next Wednesday.

MEAN VANDALS

Damaged Gate at Lowell Cemetery

One of the meanest outrages that has been perpetrated by vandals in this city in a long time is reported from the Lowell cemetery, one place which even vandals should regard as sacred. Recently some one defaced the surface of the Belvidere entrance to the cemetery with chalk, while trespassers to gain admittance have ruthlessly torn down the fences. Some persons, also, has broken off an angle of the granite part of the entrance, an offence punishable by a heavy penalty and for evidence of which the cemetery corporation offers a reward of $100 cash. In addition to these acts at the cemetery Mr. E. B. Shedd complains that boys and men have made the beautiful lanterns which he has presented to the city of Lowell at the entrance of Shedd park, a target of stone throwing. Clerk Charles L. Knapp writes The Sun in regard to the matter and has an advertisement elsewhere.

George D. Mevins—congenial George—now has his new store at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets open and ready to receive customers. George is a good natured, typical "Dautcher," descended from the old New York state Dutch. He was born at Cooperstown just 47 years ago, the son of an industrious farmer, and one of a family of ten children. Naturally, he had to "get busy" while comparatively young. However, his taste seemed to be for the city rather than the farm life (that was before the "back to the farm" era) and so he decided to come to Lowell, to which city his brother-in-law, C. T. Killpatrick, had already preceded him. And, say, sometime when you have a half hour to spare ask George to tell you about that trip of his from the farm to Lowell via New York city. Deenan Thompson or Jed Proulx never had anything on this story. That years ago—George has been a citizen of Lowell and associated with his brother-in-law in the fruit business ever since.

The new store has a very complete equipment of modern fixtures and a fresh stock of popular makes of candy, fruit, nuts, soda, cigars and tobacco. The two newest theatres—the Merrimack Square and Keith's, and is near the Square. Here's prosperity to you, George!

An important theatrical event in the local season is the engagement of the new comedy, "Introduce Me," that will be seen at the Opera House on Monday, Nov. 27. This comedy was written by Della Clarke, the well known young author-actress, and she will be seen in the role of heroine with her original New York cast.

Miss Clarke has evolved what is said to be a story of gripping interest from the theme of the wife who is a strong mental vessel than her husband or yet the world estimated. She has drawn a novel story and has built a play that is said to abound in heart interest and to be rich in comedy.

BILLY THE KID

The negro orderly of the ante-bellum days attached to his old colonel is one of the many clever characters in Joseph Santolo's play, "Billy the Kid," which is one of the great, big successes of the present year. All of the types are said to be exceptionally well drawn and the play replete in human interest.

"Billy the Kid" will be seen at the Opera House Nov. 29 and 30 with matinee on Thursday.

CY WHITTAKER'S PLACE

TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM
For more than fifty years the American public has been enjoying the performances of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," the drama which had its first production at the National theatre in New York city in September, 1858. The play contains pathos and comedy, and Messrs. Holden & Edwards have fitted it out with appropriate scenery and selected a competent cast. The play with its 15 characters, complete in every detail, will be offered by Messrs. Holden & Edwards at the Opera House on Tuesday, Nov. 28, matinee and night, at popular prices.

MAUDE ADAMS

The box office sale for the engagement here at the Opera House Tuesday, Dec. 5th, of Maude Adams in "Chanticleer" will open at 9 a. m. Tuesday next. Mail orders for this engagement are now being accepted and filled in the order received.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

One glance at next week's bill at Keith's will convince one that Manager

Stevens got something out of the ordinary, and speaking of the holiday, lest ye forget, owing to the great demand for seats for the performance on Thanksgiving day, no one will be received by telephone or mail but seats may be secured any time by applying at the box office. Headline the big holiday bill are Tom Linton's six jungle girls, assisted by Grace Linguist in a delightful and novel musical act in a jungle town with this clever company performing. The scene is laid in a beautiful tropical setting and the six jungle girls are not real Zulus but American chorus girls arrayed in the rather abbreviated costumes of the jungle. Miss Linguist is a fine singer and dancer and likewise the Zulus. Eva Tanquary's jungle town specialty is not to be compared with this great act.

Charles and Fannie Usher hardly need any introduction to the theatre-goer or he who reads theatrical criticism for they are among the best known entertainers in vaudeville. Their act "Fanny's Decision," is one of the highest priced acts on the stage and is well worth the money. Eddie Ross works all alone and he doesn't need any help for his monologue is all his own and is different from the rest. The Ploetz-Lorella sisters, of a new type, are three, present wonderful acrobatic and contortionist act. "They have no bones" has often been said of them as they perform their marvelous twists and turns and bends. The Dorelans are with us in "A Terrible Night," a couple of great comedy acrobats who find themselves in a hotel room possessed of a bounding bell which shoots them high into the air while they do all sorts of stunts in this mysterious room. Miss Rialto, assisted by M. Louis Lavelle, presents an act the like of which has never been seen in Lowell before.

It is entitled "The Artist's Dream" and consists of a number of beautiful poses by Miss Rialto, a model of international reputation, illustrative of songs sung by M. Lavelle. The act is unique and beautiful. Watson and Little give an artistic operatic act entitled "A Multitudinal Bargain." Clean and Dean give for musical comedy and song and dance to the heart's content of their audience. An exceptionally strong bill will be presented at tomorrow's concert.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Donald Meek desires to deny the rumor that he has been abroad to the effect that he is to leave the Hathaway theatre which evidently grew from the erroneous statement in a Boston paper that he was to appear at the Castle Square theatre. Mr. Meek states that John Craig made him an offer but it went not further.

A few seats remain for the closing performances of "The Struggle" and those who intend seeing the performance should order their seats without delay.

Next week the Donald Meek stock company will present one of the most popular plays on the American stage, "Our New Minister" by Deenan Thompson. In preparing "Our New Minister" Mr. Thompson has thrown conventionality in play writing to the winds. The play is away from the beaten path. There is no wronged heroine, no mortgaged farm, but an absolutely new and up-to-date theme, with sturdy characters that are delightful to behold, their portrayals so utterly untheatrical and artistic, so true in every tone and gesture and pose that the total effect is startlingly real. Deenan Thompson went over the town of Hardscrabble, N. H. with a rake that had no missing teeth, when he started to write this great play. The map of the state does not contain the name of Hardscrabble, but the author used the name to convey the kind of town he aimed to mirror, a hamlet where chance of worldly progress is about like the soil, hard and unprofitable. It is the funniest kind of a comedy, and excels even the "Old Homestead." Donald Meek will be seen in the character of "Skeezlecks" a tough young man from New York who blows into the town looking for work. "Thaddeus Strong," the minister in no manner suggests the typical devotee of the church unless it be in a certain refinement of manner and an open, frank, wholesome air. He sees life from a wide outlook and represents a new order of teachers who fights with deeds as well as with words. Mr. Chagnon will be seen as the minister. Seats now on sale.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Tom Ward, an old-time minstrel king, will be one of several high-class contributors to the sacred concert at Merrimack Square theatre Sunday afternoon and evening. Mr. Ward is a clever entertainer and should please. The others include Miss Minnie Steeves, a local vocalist of ability. Forrester and Floyd, Kimball and Donovan, Lois Beni and two other acts. Besides the above there will be a new and first-class series of photo-plays, the kind that receive the approval of the state officials.

For next week the management has selected an unusually strong bill. E. Smith, former sparring partner of the only original John L. Sullivan, one-time champion pugilist of the world, will appear in a good comedy sketch. He will be assisted by Miss Rialto, recognized for her ability as a woman boxer and bag puncher. "Mrs. D." a bright western comedy drama, will be given by Our Stock Company. The offering is a cleverly written one and when interpreted by such artists should certainly share with the highest successes of the season. The place will mark the return of Miss Beatrice Saville, Mr. Weston and Miss Jackson will also be seen in pleasing roles.

Stanley Wood will be seen in a monologue by himself. The sketch is entitled "Dick's Thanksgiving Dinner," a rather appropriate offering for the week, and one in which Mr. Wood is said to have rare opportunity to display his exceptional talent. The Great Deighan, equilibrist par excellence, has something new and novel to offer, and Rogers and Evans are novelty entertainers of the highest stamp. Adelaide and Lawrence are vocalists of much ability and will present a dainty musical sketch. Besides the above excellent bill there will be several of the best photo-plays of the season.

THE HARVARD ELEVEN

Spent the "Night Before" at the Vesper Country Club

The members of the Harvard football squad, together with coaches, trainers and a few camp followers, were the guests of Dr. Harold W. Estey of Boston at the Vesper Country Club at Tyngs Island last night, the eve of the gridiron battle of the year.

The squad arrived in a special car attached to the 5.27 train and upon disembarking they were met by the members of the squad who were reasonably sure of playing in this afternoon's game were assigned to the regular sleeping rooms while the others were assigned to comfortable cot beds.

After a few minutes of music, supper was served, the menu including cream of corn soup, roast domestic duckling, mashed potatoes, string beans, macaroni and cheese, celery salad, ice cream and cake, dry toast and milk. The squad lingered long over the bill of fare and it was past eight o'clock before supper was finished.

After supper there was more music. While several contributed to the impromptu program others listened, while still others gathered in corners to discuss the probability of the weather and the outcome of the game, and a number passed the time away by playing cards.

The players retired at an early hour and were up bright and early this morning, and after breakfast boarded an express train which stopped at the entrance of the club at 9.30 o'clock and went to Boston where they prepared for the big game.

DANCING PARTY

Was Conducted by Division II, A. O. H.

A well attended and successful social and dance was held in the Hibernal hall last night under the auspices of Division II, A. O. H. The popularity of the members of this division was evident from the large number who came out to enjoy the evening's entertainment.

A dance order of 24 numbers was carried out.

The success of the party was due to the efforts of the following officers: General manager, Michael J. Markham; assistant general manager, John P. McInerney; floor director, Daniel Quilty; assistant floor director, John Burns; chief aid, Michael Tully; aids, Joseph M. Molloy, John A. Frawley, John J. MRS. WILBUR REMEMBERS COACHMAN IN HER WILL PROVIDENCE, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Lydia H. Wilbur, wife of Public School Principal E. Wilbur of Crompton, has left $6000 and her estate to her coachman, George H. Jordan.

Principal Wilbur is made executor, residuary legatee and trustee of funds left for relatives.

Mrs. Wilbur says in her will: "I have faithfully worked for me for many years and I give him $6000 together with all the horses, carriages, sleighs, harnesses, robes, blankets, whips and other things used in taking care of my horses."

Mrs. Wilbur's stable is one of the finest in the valley.

Her sister, Martha E. Gardner, is left $5000. To her husband is given $15,000 in trust for her brother, Henry A. Hamilton, the income to be paid to him semi-annually. The will, which was executed in July, directs that the house of the testatrix on Varnum street, Cambridge, be sold at the time of the death of the testatrix for a period, when the executor may sell it at private or public sale as he may select.

The will contains nothing to indicate the value of the estate.

She was twice married, her first husband having been the late Lieut. Gov. James Lapman, leading mill owner and political ruler in the Pawtucket Valley for years.

LOWELL DOGS

WON PRIZES AT BOSTON TERRIER SPECIALTY SHOW

Several Lowell dogs won prizes in the Boston Terrier Specialty show, and a number of Lowell people were present during the progress of the exhibition.

Three dogs were exhibited by Andrew Jones of 79 Caroline street, one of which was recently purchased by Miss Gertrude Davis of Westford street and known as "Jones' Comet." The latter won fourth prize in his class.

James' Secret, recently purchased by F. G. Seaton of 448 Central street, won a special prize, and "Jack Toy," owned by Mr. Jones, captured third in the open and second in the novice class. Another special mark gained by "Jack Toy" was for being the smallest dog in the show.

At a recent meeting of the Lowell Textile school athletic association the following members of this year's varsity eleven were awarded T's: Crane, '12; Lamont, '12; Hassett, '12; Frost, '12; Kelsey, '12; Dover, '13; Thomson, '13; Strauss, '14; Taft, '14; Washburn, '14; Schofield, '14; and Hamilton, '14. There is a movement on foot to form a hockey team to represent the school this year and Arthur Daw, '12, has been elected temporary captain. Work was started this week on the new ice rink in the centre of the campus and it is expected that when the students return from their Thanksgiving vacation the rink will be completed and ready for use.

Captain Daw is negotiating for games with some of the smaller colleges and from present indications the new rink will be the scene of some lively contests this coming winter.

When the boys were given Tuesday when their term of the resignation of Carol E. Minis from school to enter business. Minis, who is a native of Georgia, was in the second year cotton course and was very popular throughout the school. For the past two years he has been a member of the foot-ball eleven and last spring he played a star game with the baseball team. He was as proficient in his academic work as in athletics and his departure from the school will be a source of regret to both teachers and students.

The annual year-book of the school will soon be ready for publication and Sidney Munroe, the editor-in-chief, is working hard to make the coming edition surpass any of those preceding.

The book itself is familiarly known as "The Pickup" and is conducted and published solely by the students of the school. The first edition was published in the month of six years ago and each year following has seen great improvements and additions until today the "Pickup" ranks second to none of the annual college publications.

Sidney P. Munroe of Melrose, Mass., has been appointed editor-in-chief of this year's book. Munroe is a member of the graduating class and is one of the most popular men in the school. He was an associate editor of last year's publication and his selection as editor-in-chief this year has been welcomed throughout the school. He is a member of the Cotton club, the "Commuters," and of Phi Psi fraternity.

SCHOONER ARRIVED TWO WEEKS BEHIND TIME

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The four-masted schooner Alice L. Pendleton, Captain Marshall, arrived yesterday from Port Arthur, Texas, two weeks behind schedule, battered and damaged as the result of her struggle against terrific gales.

The Pendleton sailed from Texas, Oct. 14, with a cargo of 518,000 feet of lumber. In the Gulf of Mexico summer storms were encountered, but as soon as the vessel started up the Atlantic, gales and hurricanes were met daily.

Twice the Pendleton almost reached Cape Cod, but was driven off by George by the wind. The flying jib, mastsail, foresail and spanker were blown to ribbons, and the stay sail boom and spanker gaff were broken.

The Pendleton carries a crew of eight men. She is a staunch craft, and has weathered many gales.

The voyage from Texas was one of the severest the crew ever passed through, and little rest was enjoyed during the month and 10 days on the trip.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Andrews observed the first anniversary of their marriage Thursday night at their home, 94 Common street. A number of relatives and friends of the happy couple celebrated during the evening and a fine entertainment program was given after which refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were the recipients of many beautiful and appropriate presents.

James J. GALLAGHER

Candidate For Alderman in the Municipal Council

Born in Lowell 1866, attended day
and evening schools. At the age of eleven worked as back boy in the loom Cotton Mills for 25c per day, selling newspapers in the evenings;
advanced from back boy to folder
in Merrimack Print Works, thence to stitchee and back tender in print room; leaving there to take up barber business on Lakeview Ave., at which trade he worked evenings
for several years.
In 1901 he purchased the Clear
and Tobacco store in the West-worth block, continuing there until 1904, when he purchased the Fruit
and Confectionery business of the Kilpatrick Bros., and is at present conducting same in his large and neatly appointed store at 325
Merrimack street.
His evenings were spent in social work and evening schools.
His first experience in society
work was with the Mathew Temperance Institute as Recording Secretary during the term of Edward
P. Slattery, the pioneer and consistent temperance worker, after which he served as Recording Secretary
and Financial Secretary of Court Merrimack, Foresters of America,
which office he held for eight years.
In 1906 was elected State Secretary of the Foresters and served for 12 years until the demands of his business required his entire attention, still he found time to attend meetings of several other organizations with which he became affiliated, such as the Knights of Columbus, Knights of Sherwood
Forest, Holy Name of St. Michael's, Knights, Royal Arcanum, Knights of Rodney, A. O. U. and Celtic Associates. At present he is President of the Mathew Temperance Institute.

He has devoted considerable time
for the good of his native city, having served as Alderman in 1902
and 1903 and is at the present time
serving as Chairman of the Board of Aldermen and Chairman of the Appropriations Committee and in both positions he has done commendable work.
In 1902 he was Chairman of Grade Committee and put through an order for separation of grades at School, Walker, Main and Lincoln streets.
In 1902 was Chairman of Committee on Education and succeeded in having the Greenbridge Grammar School in West Centralville started.
During the present year he has made an exhaustive study of the city's finances and has about completed plans for the correction of the three evils, to wit: 1st. Appropriating money from the General Treasury Fund when no money was there to cover; 2nd. Providing for uncollectible rent and personal taxes; 3rd. Making provision for the several departments' receipts being credited to department doing the work instead of placing it in the General Treasury Fund and thereby having it distributed to the several departments.
He has always been conservative and fearless in his defense of what he considered was right.
We believe he would make a valuable member of the Municipal
Council of 1912.

JAMES S. MODERNOTT,

EX-MAYOR JAMES D. CASEY asks
your favorable consideration of his candidate for Alderman under the new charter, judging his qualifications and fitness for that office on his former experience and unquestioned ability in municipal affairs, together with successful attainment of his private business.

Mr. Casey was elected to the Common Council at the age of 24, and served in that body for three years
and in the Board of Aldermen for one year, when, at the age of 26 he was chosen Mayor of the City, which office he held for two years.

During the past five years, since leaving public office, Mr. Casey has engaged in the business of manufacturing, being treasurer of the Ideal Comb
Company, of Lowell.

Did he not give a clean and progressive administration of public affairs during his term of office in the city council and the Mayor's chair?

Did he not meet issues fairly and squarely and decide them from the standpoint of public good?

Did he not save the city many thousands of dollars by his attitude on questions affecting the public interests?

Has he not shown good judgment and great degree of ability in dealing with public issues in the past; and do you not think that at this crisis in the affairs of our city he is qualified capable of dealing in a satisfactory manner with the many and vexatious problems and questions that will arise in a re-adjustment of governmental affairs to conform to the provisions of the new charter?

Has he done anything since his retirement from public office, as a private citizen, that would cause you to hesitate to accord him that vote of confidence which he now seeks?

while the charter permits, with certain restrictions, a member of the board doing business with the city, no member will ever obtain his consent to enter into contracts with the city. He believes that the supplying of the city's needs should be left to competition among private citizens, and that Aldermen, receiving a salary, should be content to keep the questionable practice of obtaining further profits by way of contracts for supplies.

Mr. Casey solicits you to consider favorably his candidacy, and assures you that, if elected, his every effort will be directed to giving the city the progressive administration it should have.

To the Citizens of Lowell

In announcing myself as a candidate for re-election as alderman, I would ask that my past official duty be taken into account and regarded in a serious manner by the taxpayers of our city. The city, having assumed a progressive spirit in the past few years which is in line with the wishes of its citizens and meeting
with the commendation of those who visit us, must continue it. To do this,
in a wise, sane and ambitious manner,
economy has to figure largely in its administration. The men whom you choose to represent you in its affairs
must be those who will devote their whole time to its business and delegate nothing to proxies. They must be live, energetic men, who are easy
of approach, desirous to serve efficiently and treat all alike, have no
favors to bestow and no axes to grind
and as such a one and on such a platform I beg to subscribe myself.
